Space Repairmen Unfurl Sunshield

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The Skylab 1 astronauts Saturday night unfurled a huge sunshield to cool their overheated space station and almost immediately the 125-degree temperatures in the cabin began dropping.

"Very good, very good," mission commander Charles Conrad Jr. exclaimed when Mission Control told the astronauts the readings were falling and that by morning they should below 100 degrees.

Conrad recommended that he and his crewmates, Dr. Joseph P. Kerwin and Paul J. Weitz "press ahead" with a full day of work in the station Sunday, activating medical, scientific and earth resources equipment.

"We won't be riding any bicycles or anything in there, but at least we can get in and start configuring things," Conrad said. "If it gets too warm we can come up and take a rest."

He meant they could retreat to the cool safety of the Apollo command ship or two other station compartments not affected by the heat, which resulted when a protective shield ripped away during the launch of the Skylab May 14.

Working in the swelter of Skylab's main compartment, astronauts Conrad and Paul J. Weitz popped the shiny aluminum and orange canopy open in an effort to shade the station's outside hull and prevent it from soaking up blistering solar heat.

It was like a sail that was not fully inflated by the wind. Conrad and Weitz projected the device, folded like a parasol, through an air lock, joining five 4-foot pole sections to extend it 20 feet above the roof of the station.

Conrad, Kerwin and Weitz boarded Skylab wearing masks but tests showed no poison gases were present.

They also paused often to admire the view of Earth, passing by as a parade of blues, whites, greens and browns below them.

"It's kind of hard to get away from the windows, especially for the new boys," said space veteran Conrad, referring to rookies Kerwin and Weitz. "The Pacific Northwest is really something. We're over what appears to be a fairly major weather system with pretty good clouds in the Montana-Dakotas region."

At one point, Skylab passed over the Cape Kennedy area and the astronauts said they could see the launch pad from which their mission started Friday with a flawless lift-off.

Weitz was the first to enter the overheated main compartment of Skylab. He floated in and then came out after about five minutes to report.

"It feels like 90 to 100 degrees in the desert," Weitz said after visiting the workshop chamber. "I can feel heat radiating all around me. In the short time I was in there, I never felt uncomfortable. Nothing I touched even felt hot to me."

In a "very quick inspection" of the workshop Weitz said "it appears to be in good shape. A little warm as you might expect."

"Very nice," Conrad commented earlier as he first boarded Skylab by drifting through a hatch of the attached Apollo ferry ship and into the first compartment of the 118-foot-long space station.

SFCC's 1973 Graduates

Graduates of SFCC Are Given Challenge

By MAX ERKILETIAN
Democrat-Capital Staff Writer

The largest graduating class in State Fair Community College's brief history was issued a challenge to "go forth and do the job our society will demand," by Dr. Franklin King, coordinator of industrial education at the University of Missouri-Columbia, during commencement exercises in the Agriculture Building Saturday evening.

The fourth graduating class totaled 190 students.

King outlined ten "capabilities" for the graduates to follow in order to achieve success in society. Among the ten capabilities listed by King were: drive, responsibility, analytical ability, creativity, foresight, communicative skills, technical proficiency, social ability, resourcefulness and judgment.

Speaking on drive, King noted any undertaking should be, "seen through to completion." He said there are many "fast starters", but each project begun must be carried to its conclusion, "since rewards are paid for those jobs finished."

He noted responsibility ties closely to drive and that, "freedom is given to those who have a proven record of responsibility." Anyone can boost their record of responsibility, according to King, by maintaining a high analytical capability. Through proper research, King said, one can determine which course will offer the best results in life.

King told the students one of the most important assets to possess is creative capability. He noted that creativity does not mean "going out and rediscovering the wheel." Instead, King's definition of creativity stressed improving society.

Foresight is needed by the successful man or woman, King declared, to replace daydreams. To express ideas, King emphasized the importance of

Bond or Lawmakers

High Court To Rule On Fund Question

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Missouri Supreme Court will have a chance this week to decide once and for all who has the authority to direct how state funds should be spent — the governor or the legislature.

Tuesday afternoon, the court will hear arguments in a suit brought by Democratic leaders in the legislature, challenging the governor's veto of certain words in an appropriations bill.

Striking the words, the legislators contend, changes the intent of the legislators' purpose when they approved expenditures.

The legislators have no quarrel with the governor's right to decide not to spend the money, because they can always override the governor's veto.

By trying to override the word vetoes in the $16.8 million supplemental spending bill for the current fiscal year, the legislature would have been admitting that Bond's word vetoes were legal.

The court issued a preliminary writ against spending the money in agreeing to hear the case, but nearly all the money already has been spent.

Argument Not New

It has been a long standing controversy.

Former Gov. Warren E. Hearnes struck the words "Poplar Bluff" from a bill to spend over $600,000 for a new Troop E. highway patrol headquarters. Hearnes favored having the new headquarters in Sikeston. It had been in Poplar Bluff for 38 years.

A judge decided to leave the decision up to the Highway Patrol superintendent but said the Highway Commission had to approve ' spending highway funds for the project.

The Highway Commission voted for Sikeston last winter, but the new commission, appointed by the new Republican governor, voted again and agreed with the new superintendent to keep the headquarters in Poplar Bluff.

At issue in the current case is Gov. Christopher S. Bond's veto of the names of companies who were to be paid for work and supplies at the 1972 state fair, the words "west side" from a $1.1 million measure for restoring the Capitol's west side, a date from a bill giving the Bi-State Transit System money to pay off a debt, and the words "for operation" at the Lee C. Fine airport at Lake of the Ozarks.

Bond said the airport money was needed for equipment, but the appropriations committees had stricken money for equipment. The governor produced a letter showing the appropriations chairmen in the Senate and House intended to have $96,000 spent on inside repairs and office space in the Capitol.

That clause was not in the bill when it went to the governor and the legislators contended Bond could refurbish his own office since they are on the west side of the Capitol.

The outside of the century old building is in need of repair. West side walkways and steps are crumbling. The other three sides have been rebuilt.

On the state fair money Bond contended that removing the names of the companies would enable the Agriculture Department to pay other debts in connection with the fair.

Suit Against State Treasurer

The suit actually is against the state treasurer and the Office of Administration. Bond is involved because he is the acting commissioner of administration.

And the suit was not filed by the legislature in general, but by 11 individual legislators who happen to be Democrats.

Among those are Senate President pro tem William J. Cason of Clinton, House Speaker Richard J. Rabbitt of St. Louis and Appropriations Chairmen Norman L. Merrell of Monticello, in the Senate, and James "Jay" Russell of Florissant, in the House.

Cullen Coil, attorney for the legislators, says he will "zero in" on the governor's argument that the had constitutional authority to make the vetoes and that his action did not change the purpose of the legislation.

Bond said he welcomed the suit to get the issue settled. Legislators say that if it is not settled, similar word vetoes could be used in appropriations for the $2 billion state budget for the fiscal year beginning July 1.

A section of a constitutional amendment on government reorganization approved last August says, "No money shall be withdrawn from the state treasury by warrant withdrawn in accordance with an appropriation made by law, nor shall any obligation for that payment of money be incurred unless the commissioner of administration certifies the expenditure is within the purpose as directed by the General Assembly ..."

The Massachusetts Supreme Court ruled that a governor could veto items or portions of items in a money bill but could not veto specific instructional language.

The governor is relying on a Missouri constitutional provision saying, "The governor may veto any item or portion of any item of any appropriation bill or the whole thereof; except that the governor shall not reduce any appropriation for free public schools or for the payment of principal and interest on the public debt."

Another section of state law says the legislature cannot legislate in an appropriation bill. The legislature has interpreted this to mean that no law can be enacted in a money bill.

Serious Violation Is Reported

SAIGON (AP) — The Saigon government announced Saturday that Communist gunners shot down an unarmed South Vietnamese helicopter on a liaison mission, killing all 12 persons aboard, including a regimental commander.

The government also disclosed it had learned from diplomatic sources that Canada and Indonesia are considering withdrawing from the international peacekeeping commission for Vietnam.

The two problems for the Vietnamese cease-fire came as roving U.S. Ambassador William H. Sullivan completed his swing through Indochina to confer on a peace proposal for the troubled area.

Sullivan had spent three days in Saigon going over the program worked out in Paris by Henry A. Kissinger and Hanoi's Le Duc Tho. He traveled Saturday to Phnom Penh, capital of Cambodia, for an hour's conference with President Lon Nol and then continued on to Vientiane, the capital of Laos.

The shooting of the South Vietnamese helicopter was termed one of the worst violations of the four-month-old Vietnam cease-fire by Lt. Col. Le Trung Hien, chief spokesman for the Saigon command. He said the aircraft was over government-controlled territory 30 miles north of Saigon when it was downed Friday.

There was no immediate comment from the Viet Cong.

Another Saigon command spokesman, Lt. Col. Do Viet, said his government would ask for an investigation by the four-nation International Commission of Control and Supervision, set up to referee the cease-fire.

The Saigon government told of the possible withdrawal of Canadian and Indonesian representatives from the commission and for the first time publicly criticized the Hungarian and Polish delegations to the commission.

Cox Needs Time To Catch Up

WASHINGTON (AP) — Even though they have been told to procede full steam ahead on the Watergate investigation, federal prosecutors are known to feel they can only crawl forward until their new boss catches up.

The basic problem is that U.S. Atty. Harold H. Titus Jr. and three prosecutors from his office no longer have the authority to make decisions on their own, and the man who now has the authority doesn't yet have enough information.

The new man at the top, Archibald Cox, was sworn in as special prosecutor in the Watergate case on Friday. But it will be weeks, perhaps several months, until Cox can familiarize himself with the complex, convoluted case that has been unfolding here for more than 11 months.

Moreover, in addition to the local Watergate case, Cox has said he intends to delve into related matters such as the Los Angeles burglary of the office of a psychiatrist treating Pentagon papers defendant Daniel Ellsberg.

When asked how great the contemplated problems and delays would be, a Justice Department spokesman said he thought they would be minimal. But a source close to the prosecutors disagrees.

"The prosecutors are trying to get cooperation from some of the individuals caught up in this case," the source said. "In return for that cooperation, the lawyers for those people want certain guarantees, certain assurances for their clients. But the prosecutors can't give any assurances. They don't have the authority any more.

"Without authority to make decisions, they're stuck in the mud."

Cox wouldn't comment on the matter, but a Justice Department spokesman did.

"Cox will be consulted on any decisions," the spokesman said. "I can only repeat what Cox said in his letter: that he wants to be consulted on all these things and we don't think there is going to be a problem."

The letter referred to was one from Cox to Titus last Thursday in which Cox laid out in no uncertain terms that he was in charge, and that the future of current Watergate prosecutors is yet to be determined.

"As soon as I have taken office in the department, I would of course expect to be consulted before any decisions were made," Cox wrote.

Holiday Gasoline Is Short

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

Holiday motorists are finding gasoline in short supply during the Memorial Day weekend, with many service stations limiting sales and others warning that they may run out of fuel by the time the homeward traffic crush begins on Monday.

An Associated Press spot check showed that most motorists will be able to find enough gas for their tanks. But authorities warned drivers to plan ahead and not count on finding unlimited supplies along turnpikes and other large highways.

William E. Simon, deputy Treasury secretary and chairman of the Oil Policy Committee, cautioned before the holiday that spot shortages of gas could occur throughout the nation.

Don Hinman, acting Civil Defense director in Iowa, said, "It appears that the big crunch will be this weekend. By Monday, many stations along the interstate are going to be short, if not out completely."

Hinman said he checked 50 to 60 service stations along Interstate 80. "We found that in most cases the supply of gasoline and diesel fuel is not going to carry them more than two or three days," he said. "Many of the stations are pretty much rationing diesel fuel now, limiting trucks to 30 gallons at one time."

The Wisconsin division of the American Automobile Association said that a survey of more than 700 service stations in the state showed most would have adequate supplies. Some stations in the Milwaukee area, however, were limiting sales to out-of-state customers to five gallons per driver. Gas stations in the Lake Geneva area, a popular resort region, were selling no more than 10 gallons to a customer.

Tornado Devastates Oklahoma Community

KEEFETON, Okla. (AP)-A tornado flattened most of this small northeast Oklahoma community late Saturday afternoon, killing three members of a family and injuring 19 others, authorities said.

About 75 per cent of the town's structures were destroyed. Keefeton has a population of about 400. An amatuer radio operator at the scene said "nothing has been left standing."

The town, located about ten miles south of Muskogee on U. S. 64, was sealed off by officials because of leaking gas lines.

The dead were identified by Muskogee General Hospital officials as Charles Dornan, his wife, Sue, and their daughter Linda. A spokesman said one daughter, Beverley, was in critical condition and another daughter, Goldy, was in poor condition.

The hospital said it had no information on Dornan's occupation or the ages of any of the dead or injured.

"I never saw a funnel as such. It was a big, black cloud on the ground."

The hospital spokesman believed there were no other dead or injured. However, earlier the Oklahoma Highway Patrol had reported four dead.

John Lewis Stone, managing editor of the Muskogee Daily Phoenix and Times Democrat, was one-half mile east of Keefeton when he saw the storm coming.

"There were people running around screaming and bleeding and there was gasoline all over."

He drove his auto off the road and jumped into a ditch.

"I never saw a funnel as such," Stone said. "It was a big black cloud on the ground. There was debris flying out of the sides of that cloud." Stone said. He said the storm was about the width of the town.

"After it hit I drove in as far as I could. There was a big truck in the highway and the cab was ripped off. I stopped at a filling station where cars were piled up everywhere.

"There were people running around screaming and bleeding and there was gasoline all over. We dug five people out of the wreckage of the service station.

"Some of the people were pinned in and we needed help for them. There were in very bad shape. Most were covered with blood. One man was completely naked, and another man was lying right beside a dead horse. I'm sure he was dead--he didn't have much of a head left," Stone said.

He said several autos near him had two-way radios and the first help arrived within 15 minutes of the afternoon disaster.

Stone said many butane tanks were "erupting in every direction."

One of the broken gas lines was reported to be a natural gas line and the other was a gasoline line at a service station.

Some Tips in Buying a Home

By PETER WEAVER

Like everything else, closing costs for buying a home have been going up through the roof.

These costs include title search, title insurance and various other fees and taxes. According to the Department of Housing and Urban Development, closing costs for homes selling for more than $28,000 can range anywhere from $300 up to $1,000.

Most home buyers spend a considerable amount of time and effort looking at neighborhoods, analyzing floor plans and checking the proximity of schools, transportation and churches. But when it comes to the legal gobbledygook at the closing ceremony, the buyer just wants to get it over with and signs on the dotted line.

You can cut down a number of these closing costs if you investigate them as carefully as you investigated the location of your new home. First off, you've got to understand that the real estate agent represents the seller, not the buyer, and the lawyer at the closing ceremony (if one is required) represents the lender. All these people may murmur friendly phrases but they are not being paid to look out for your better interests.

You must get your own lawyer, one who is wise in the ways of real estate law. Your local bar association can give names. Consult with your lawyer as soon as you've found the home you want. Never — but never — sign anything without showing it to your lawyer. That little deposit and piece of innocuous-looking paper the real estate agent has you sign "just to keep the other buyers away" is often an actual contract to buy the home. Signing at the closing ceremony later on is usually just a formality.

In shopping around for a good mortgage lender, ask plenty of questions. Ask, for example, if you can choose your own title search or escrow company. Ask each lender to give you detailed lists of all closing costs even if they have to estimate some of them. Use these lists to make cost comparisons.

If you're allowed to choose your own title company (or title lawyer), ask for prices on these basic items: title search or examination, settlement fee, fees for preparing deeds and other papers and title insurance. In a check around my area, costs for these fees on the purchase of a $40,000 house ranged between $336 and $416.

Remember, you do not automatically have to accept the title company, lawyers and other fee chargers designated by the lender or real estate agent. The more a lender tries to tie you to its own title company or lawyer, the more reason you should move on to another lender.

The lender must be protected by title insurance which you pay for. You can also buy insurance on top of this to protect your own investment against any defects in the title. For example, a previous owner's missing heir may show up or a forged release may be revealed. These things rarely happen but when they do it can be devastating. Title insurance is relatively inexpensive and will give you "peace of mind."

If you aren't buying your home through an FHA- or VA-backed loan and are making less than a 20 per cent down payment, your lender will require mortgage insurance for protection against the possibility of your failing to make payments. You will be asked if you want "owners'" mortgage insurance which is a form of life insurance to protect your heirs in case you die. The insurance pays off your mortgage.

Home buyers under 35 will probably find they can get this kind of life insurance protection for less money elsewhere. But older buyers should consider it. You get in on a group plan without a physical examination and will probably find mortgage insurance cheaper than policies you could get elsewhere.

Couple Sues Government For $1 Million

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — A Collinsville couple whose home was mistakenly invaded by federal narcotics agents has filed a $1-million damage suit in U.S. District Court.

The suit filed Thursday alleged the couple, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Giglotto, was "assaulted, battered, falsely imprisoned . . . frightened, upset and caused to become severely ill."

The Giglottos have said that 15 agents carrying guns invaded their home April 23 without a warrant, held a pistol to Giglotto's head, handcuffed the couple and ransacked the house before admitting they had raided the wrong address.

Rules To Follow For Poor Service

Dear Ann Landers: You've spoken up for many special groups. Please print this for the most abused, poorly treated, unappreciated of all service people. I'm referring to gas station attendants. Here are some rules to follow if you want to get really rotten service next time.

When you drive into a gas station, think ahead and park on the wrong side of the pump. The attendant will have to be an acrobat to fill your tank. Don't be surprised if he drops the nozzle on your fender and chips off some paint. (He knows how to get even.)

Never be ready to order. Search your pockets and handbag to see how much money you have — then make up your mind.

Leave your engine running while the service is being given. So what if the attendant gets a lungful of exhaust fumes?

If you come at a busy time and all the attendants are busy, blow your horn and let everyone know your time is more valuable than theirs.

Finally, never have a kind word or a thank-you for the attendant. After all, he is extremely well paid and there's no sense in spoiling him. Besides, his job is a barrel of laughs — sun, rain, cold wind. He has a real fun job. — Ex-Pump Jockey

Dear Ex P.J.: Thanks for letting us know how it is on the other end of the nozzle. I hope this letter helps.

Dear Ann Landers: We have three normal (straight) teenagers and a fourth daughter who took to drugs four years ago. She married the village idiot, a worthless bum, even though we pleaded with her not to. After a baby and 14 months of starvation she moved back with us.

We furnished her with free room, board and laundry. She never lifted a finger around the house. Within six months she picked up a second loser and went on another rebellion kick. She spent the baby's first Christmas in another town with her loafer-sweetheart. Shortly after that she moved into an apartment with him — unmarried, of course. He is on parole, having served time for four felonies and shows no signs of straightening out.

She refuses to get psychiatric help and claims we are the ones who need it because we will not accept her for what she is.

Question: Should we try to help her anymore? What about the baby? — Decatur, Ala.

Dear Alabama: It is useless to try to force help on someone who does not want it.

Offer to take the baby for awhile, but don't let her move back in after the second loafer cuts out — unless she agrees to go to work and pay for her keep, that is.

Dear Ann Landers: I am only 27 years old but I'm afraid I'll look like 50 in a year or two. My hair is turing grey and my husband will not permit me to touch it up. What bothers me more than anything is that my mother-in-law keeps asking me what I'm worried about. When I tell her I am not worried about anything she insists I am hiding something, because a person doesn't get grey "for no reason" at such an early age.

Does grey hair come from worry or is this an old wives' tale? — The Old Grey Mare

Dear Mare: Grey hair is the result of glandular secretions. It has nothing to do with worry. Heredity is the major factor. As I've said before in this space, I love grey hair. On other people.

Is alcholism ruining your life? Know the danger signals and what to do. Read the booklet, "Alcoholism — Hope And Help," by Ann Landers. Enclose 35 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to this newspaper.

Jensen Firm Has New Location Here

The Paul Jensen and Co., manufacturers of electric motors, recently expanded to a second manufacturing facility at 107 North State Fair Blvd., according to company president Paul Jensen.

Jensen said the second manufacturing site will employ about 50 persons. He added there are presently 30 job openings at the new facility.

About 80 persons are employed at the company's other manufacturing plant at 519 East Third.

Jensen said increased sales and limited space at the Third Street plant were the determining factors for opening a new manufacturing plant. The company's offices also have been moved to the new facility.

The company last fall vacated a facility near Benton and Missouri, but Jensen said this building was not used for manufacturing purposes — mostly as a warehouse.

Jensen, who also is executive vice president and half owner of the Clyde Equipment Co. of Arnold, Mo., said that company's die casting plant at Arnold may be moved to Smithton. The plant recently was damaged by flood waters.

Jensen said he will move the Clyde Equipment Co. plant to either Smithton or relocate near St. Louis. He would not speculate when a decision would be reached.

The plant, which employs 20 persons, makes zinc die castings which are used in the manufacture of small appliances, motors and automotive equipment, Jensen said.

School Greenhouse Is a Marijuana Farm

MESQUITE, Nev. (AP) — Two students at Virgin Valley High School here have been arested for growing marijuana plants in the school's greenhouse, authorities say.

Blaine Allen, school principal, told Clark County sheriff's deputies Friday he and a teacher discovered a half dozen plants growing in a gallon can behind some other plants.

Deputies said the plants were "growing healthily" and booked the two teen-agers for investigation of cultivating a controlled substance despite their claims they were conducting an experiment.

Flood Waters Continuing To Recede

ST. LOUIS (AP)—"There's not much activity with the river now," an official of the Army Corps of Engineers said about the Mississippi River here Saturday. "We're just watching it go away."

The still-muddy river continued its steady fall all along the Missouri border and stood at 29.5 feet at St. Louis Saturday, the first official reading below the 30-foot flood stage since March 10.

The National Weather Service had predicted the Mississippi would dip below flood level Friday, and a special reading by the Corps marked it at 29.99 feet Friday morning.

Ed Buchhold of the Corps Flood Control Center said there are still a couple hundred thousand sandbags in the St. Louis area, but the prospects for using them are now minimal. He said some 5.5 million sandbags were used from Hannibal to Cape Girardeau, Mo., during the two-month flood seige.

If the river continues its steady drop, Buchhold said the Flood Control Center may discontinue its around-the-clock operations next week. Except for a few days in mid-April the center has been manned 24 hours a day.

The Corps expects the river to drop below flood stage at all points in the state along its banks by June 1.

Golden Jubilee

About 250 persons attended the celebration of a golden jubilee mass in honor of the Rev. A.J. Brunswick, center, former pastor of Sacred Heart Catholic Church, Friday night. A reception in Rev. Brunswick's honor was also held. Shown with him are Bishop Michael McAuliffe of the Jefferson City diocese, left, and the Rev. Lawrence Cyr, who participated in the celebration of the special mass. Rev. Brunswick is retired and now resides in Cole Camp. (Democrat-Capital Photo)

Argentine Prisoners Are Freed

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — Argentina's new Peronist government freed nearly 600 political prisoners from jail Saturday and announced that workers might be given emergency salary increases.

Many of those freed had been convicted of guerrilla terrorism.

Predawn rioting outside the Villa Devoto prison, where 186 of the prisoners were held, took the lives of two teen-age boys. Eight other persons were injured and 100 young people arrested before the crowd was dispersed.

In Cordoba, hundreds of demonstrators gathered outside the provincial jail demanding a release of political prisoners there.

Authorities said that in the confusion, 50 common criminals, including convicted killers, escaped into the streets, seizing automobiles for their getaway.

President Hector J. Campora, in his first full day in office, scheduled a meeting with U.S. Secretary of State William P. Rogers to review U.S.-Argentine relations. Rogers came here for Campora's inauguration Friday. He said the United States hopes to have good relations with Campora's government, despite Peronist charges that "Yankee imperialism" is largely responsible for Argentina's economic problems.

Campora's new labor minister, Ricardo Otero, 49-year-old leader of the metalworkers union, announced that the government is considering an immediate salary increase for the nation's nine million workers. The increase would offset the inflation of more than 27 per cent since Jan. 1.

Congress met Saturday to consider an amnesty bill submitted by Campora during his inaugural address Friday. The bill would cancel the convictions of the nearly 600 political prisoners to whom Campora granted executive pardon late Friday night.

The pardon came while more than 20,000 persons were demonstrating outside the gray stone walls of Villa Devoto. They demanded that political prisoners be freed immediately.

Police said the rioting developed when some demonstrators tried to force their way into the jail to free common criminals not included in the executive pardon.

Intelligence Operations Revealed

NEW YORK (AP) — Newsweek magazine said Saturday that President Nixon approved using the CIA and FBI for domestic intelligence operations in mid-1970, but withdrew the plan after objections by J. Edgar Hoover and then Atty. Gen. John M. Mitchell.

Despite Nixon's decision to shelve the plan, said Newsweek, White House agents, who were not identified in the article, in the following two years "made surreptitious entries to undermine the defense" in at least three court cases against radicals.

The magazine said undercover agents "working for the administration" made the entries in three cases involving the Black Panthers, the Berrigan brothers and the Chicago Seven. It gave no further details.

Newsweek said that according to congressional sources, President Nixon on July 23, 1970, approved a plan for domestic intelligence gathering that "called for unprecedented cooperative effort" by the CIA, FBI, the National Security Agency and the Defense Intelligence Agency.

The plan focused on leftist groups and "proposed opening radicals' mail and harassing them with tax audits," the magazine said.

It also authorized the FBI to undertake foreign intelligence operations inside the United States, including embassy break-ins, while the CIA got a green light to run its own domestic operations.

The latter included spying on high U.S. officials who were suspected of being security risks, Newsweek said.

Newsweek said President Nixon withdrew his approval of the plan on July 28, 1970, after then FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover "refused to go along."

"... Hoover protested to Atty. Gen. John Mitchell, who backed Hoover's case," the magazine said, adding that when Hoover reviewed the plan "he scrawled objections on almost every page."

Death Toll Soars

communicative skills. He said countless ideas have been lost due to an inability to communicate.

He touched lightly on technical proficiency, saying it "is a must, but will be lost unless you use these other capabilities." One of the other capabilities King offered to back technical proficiency was social ability. He said to advance in society today, each person must join in the activities of his community. "The day of the lone wolf is dead in our society," he said.

King also urged the utilization of resourcefulness and judgment. "Try to get it together," King urged, "so you will have a basis for your decisions." He also advised students to learn from the mistakes of others because, "you won't have time to try them all yourselves."

Earlier in the ceremonies, William Hopkins, chairman of the SFCC Board of Trustees, commended the class for their efforts "to create good will" for the institution. "They (graduates) can take pride in the fact that they helped pioneer this institution in its embryonic stages," Hopkins said.

Dr. Marvin Fielding, vice president of instruction, introduced Dr. King.

Incident Escalates 'Cod War'

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (AP) — The North Atlantic "cod war" escalated Saturday when an Iceland coast guard gunboat shelled a British trawler in disputed fishing waters, putting at least two holes in its holds.

Icelandic sources said the trawler Everton defied coast guard efforts to detain it and ignored warning shots across its bow.

The shooting at sea was the most serious incident so far in the dispute over Iceland's claim to 50-mile offshore jurisdiction. Britain has refused to recognize the 50-mile limit and has sent Royal Navy ships to protect British fishing boats.

No casualties were reported among the Everton's crew of 21. The trawler was said to be listing heavily Saturday night.

The British frigate Jupiter was steaming toward the scene, about 200 miles northeast of Reykjavik near the Isle of Grimsley.

The Aegir's aim was to arrest the Everton, which had become separated from the main body of the 33-vessel British fishing fleet.

An arrest would have been the first since the start of the cod war last September, when Iceland extended its sea limits from 12 miles offshore to 50 miles, despite British protests, to protect fishing grounds.

Icelandic patrol boats have been harassing British trawlers for months, cutting their lines and maneuvering near them.

The quarrel intensified a week ago when the British government ordered three Navy frigates into the disputed zone as cover for the trawlers.

Iceland says its vital fishing industry depends on fish in the 50-mile band around it and that foreign fishermen jeopardize its harvest. Britain claims the area beyond 12 miles is open sea and traditional fishing ground for British boats.

Capture Youths After Road Chase

(Democrat-Capital Service)

CALIFORNIA — Two youths, one of them a juvenile, were apprehended north of here Saturday evening shortly after the armed robbery of the County Corner Liquor Store just southeast of Boonville, according to the Cooper County Sheriff's Department.

After a chase involving the fleeing youths, the Highway Patrol, and the sheriffs of Cooper and Moniteau Counties, William James MacLary, 18, Wilmington, Del., and a juvenile acquaintance were taken into the custody of Cooper County Sheriff Sam Morris.

The youths were apparently involved in the armed robbery of the liquor store where $30 in cash and an undetermined amount of liquor were taken shortly before their apprehension. A spokesman for the Cooper County Sheriff Department said a pistol was reportedly used in the holdup, which occurred around 5 p.m. Saturday.

MacLary will probably face arraignment on first degree robbery charges Tuesday, according to the spokesman, who added that the younger suspect had been turned over to juvenile authorities.

Cyclist Is Hurt

A car motorcycle accident at West 16th and the Grant's Parking lot exit about 2:19 p.m. Saturday resulted in minor injuries to the cyclist.

According to police reports, the accident occurred when a 1969 Chevrolet driven south from the parking lot onto 16th by Mrs. Ruth Ella Bulterneier, 55, Smithton, collided with a 1973 Yamaha driven west on 16th by Michael Anthony Menefee, 18, 3005 Skyline Drive.

Menefee was treated and released at Bothwell Hospital, according to a hospital spokesman.

Thefts Reported

Police investigated the theft of a mini bike and two tires and wheels in separate incidents early Saturday.

Stephan Snider, 403 East Boonville, reported the theft of his 1973 Mountain Trail mini bike from his yard between 8 a.m. and 9:30 a.m. Saturday, according to police.

Police reports also revealed that Vince McKine, 415 North Prospect, reported the theft of two tires and wheels, valued collectively at $50, from under a stairway in his yard late Friday or early Saturday.

Trial Separation Planned by Couple

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actress Barbara Eden and actor Michael Ansara say they will begin a trial separation Tuesday after 15 years of marriage.

"We agreed it would be better to give ourselves an opportunity to see if we would perhaps have a happier life apart. We will continue to share things together with our son, Matthew, whom we both love very deeply," the couple announced in a statement read by a spokesman.

Miss Eden will continue to live at the family's San Fernando Valley home with the couple's 7-year-old son, the spokesman said Friday.

Miss Eden starred in television's "I Dream of Jeannie," and her husband starred in the TV series "Broken Arrow."

There are more women than men in Ontario and Quebec.

People in the News

The 28,500-mile voyage took him seven months.

Baranowski, 35, set off in his racing cruiser "Polonez" last year from Plymouth to compete in a transatlantic race. But he decided to sail around the globe instead.

Among those who met Baranowski on Friday was Bill King, a British commander who finished his 'round-the-world sail three days ago.

BELGRADE (AP) — President Josip Broz Tito has celebrated his 81st birthday with greetings from the people and national figures.

An official announcement said Tito entertained top leaders at a luncheon on Friday and also received well-wishers from various levels of the country's Communist party.

The celebration was climaxed with a giant evening birthday party in the army stadium. Birthday greetings gathered throughout the country by thousands of relay runners also were presented.

LONDON (AP) — Queen Elizabeth II has made Lady Sharples, the 49-year-old widow of Sir Richard Sharples, a baroness for life.

Sir Richard, governor of Bermuda, was murdered March 10 together with his military aide.

The honor was announced Friday.

Liberty Park Wedding For Dillion - St. Cin

The marriage of Miss Helen Marie Dillon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter C. Dillion, 2010 East Sixth, and Edwin J. St. Cin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin C. St. Cin, St. Clair, was solemnized at 11:30 a.m. May 19 in Liberty Park.

Officiating at the ceremony was the Rev. Earl Fedderson, St. Clair.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a self-designed formal gown of blue satin which featured an empire waistline, bishop sleeves and long skirt that flowed to a chapel train in back. The bodice and sleeve caps were overlaid in hand embroidered Swedish lace and the dress was completed with a self belt bow adorned with lace motifs. She carried a single long stemmed red rose with ribbon streamers.

Maid of honor was Miss Lorine Heuerman and matron of honor was Mrs. Steven R. McConnell. Both were similarly gowned in pastel blue dotted Swiss and each carried a single long stemmed white rose.

Best man was Steven R. McConnell.

Assisting at the picnic reception held in the park pavilion were Miss Donna Cason and Miss Elizabeth Dillion, sister of the bride.

Good Food Delights Belles

By TOM HOGE
AP Newsfeatures Writer

What do you feed 750 Southern college belles to keep them healthy and happy? Ask Miss Betty Carr, who has been planning meals for the girls at Mary Baldwin College in Staunton, Va., for the past 30 years.

I had a chance to talk to Miss Carr, known to the students as B.C., during a recent visit to my family's home in Staunton. I soon realized what a problem it must be to feed so many young women three times a day, six days a week and twice on Sunday.

"I give them plenty of homemade biscuits and rolls, and I have discovered that they love such dishes as hominy grits," said B.C.

"But I don't try to serve that soul food from the Deep South. I gave the girls turnip greens once; they simply didn't go for it."

Actually the girls at Mary Baldwin are not all from the South by any means. They come from all over the United States and many foreign countries and their preference for food follows no set pattern.

If there is any common denominator, it lies in the fact that most girls today are weight-conscious and oriented pretty much toward diet dishes.

"They avoid most anything that goes to fat," said B.C., adding quickly, "except for the homemade breads, and biscuits made each day in our kitchen."

Hungarian Goulash and Beef Stroganoff are favorites at Mary Baldwin. So is Southern fried chicken with rice and gravy, which is not exactly a diet dish.

Ordering food for 750 girls is a major operation in itself. It involves such shopping items as 500 gallons of milk, 200 dozen eggs and 130 pounds of sugar. It also involves brewing 298 gallons of coffee and making 2,500 rolls each week.

"The girls are tremendous breakfast eaters," she said. "Those on a diet may skip other meals altogether, but rarely breakfast. In fact some students will eat 6 to 8 eggs."

When B.C. tries out a new recipe she watches the plates as they are returned to the kitchen to see how her innovation has gone over. B.C. traces her love of cooking to the fact that her mother was a good cook and an easy hostess in the old Southern tradition. The family came from Charlotte, N.C.

Cigarette Habits Going Up in Smoke

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Cigarette smoking is going underground although it may be less harrassing to try to kick the habit than to find places where one can smoke in private.

So says Jacquelyn Rogers of Phillipsburg, N.J., a heavy smoker for 22 years, who is helping other smokers to resist cigarettes using a program she had devised for herself.

The California legislature, for example, is considering a "1973 Nonsmokers' Bill of Rights" that would establish nonsmoking areas in public buildings.

"Smoking became a cultural thing and it has come full circle — it is no longer considered nice to smoke. Many people, especially intellectuals, are going to great pains to conceal their identity with cigarettes — even hiding them in other people's desks," Mrs. Rogers learned in conducting her seminars for Smokenders, the organization founded five years ago by her and her husband Jon, a dentist.

Housewives often are heavy smokers because they are more successful in squeezing in smoking time at home, and they are likely to find it harder to give up than most smokers, she explained.

Mrs. Rogers has worked with more than 1,800 people and she has given additional training to students who have helped another 6,000 in seminars conducted in the Northeast, although now they are expanding to other states and a chapter has been formed in Arizona.

"Smoking is more than a nasty little habit," she remarked. "A number of students say they continued after several heart attacks and warnings by doctors. They simply couldn't stop. Involvement may be physiological, psychological, automatic and social. But it can be dealt with . . ."

A significant test for cut-off potential that might be tried at home is this one: Go 5 or 10 minutes without the usual cigarette and coping with the delayed action may put you on the road to ending the habit.

"But one shouldn't feel sorry for herself eyeing cigarettes and watching the clock during the time the urge is being delayed. Self-pity must be avoided. The person should do something — play with the dog, play a record, clean out a drawer . . ."

On one occasion she added in class ". . . or take a shower . . ." but one man rose to say that he always had to smoke in the shower.

That is why one of the first aims of the smoking seminars is "to break the conditioned response." They find out what triggers smoking — answering the telephone, applying makeup, drinking cocktails or coffee. Some people must have a cigarette and coffee the moment they get out of bed. Many have told her they drink quantities — 30 cups for one man — of coffee because it makes cigarettes taste better. Others think they smoke because it makes the coffee taste better. For some winning the cigarette battle has helped cut the intake of coffee.

Some students do not realize what triggers their heavy smoking until they chart the course of eating, smoking and drinking habits in a day. After that the problem is more easily tackled and delay periods can begin, Mrs. Rogers explained.

"For example, a man may not realize he is driven to smoke at certain times by frustrations. He may smoke more at home ('my mother-in-law lives with me') or he may smoke more in the office ('I work with the boss's son and I don't like him')."

Highly successful people often feel they cannot do a good job unless they are fortified by cigarettes, she says. And creative people often correlate their artistry with cigarettes. When they cut off they are quick to find the opposite is true, she says.

On the other hand people who work with their hands do not smoke as much as they think they do. For one six-pack-a-day hairdresser it was merely light up and let burn out, the chart revealed.

The course concentrates on positive aspects of cut-off . . . the satisfying feeling of improving one's self image, she remarked. The 35-to 45-year age group is the most receptive and best motivated to the program because "they are just beginning to notice their vitality is ebbing on the tennis court and in the swimming pool . . ."

A youthful-looking, earnest mother of four, Mrs. Rogers is sympathetic to the pangs suffered by her students. She had tried every method of quitting cigarettes including psychiatry and hypnosis. She wasn't even fazed by the laboratory horror pictures of the lungs and digestive system brought home by her husband, she says. But when her children were teenagers — three are now in college, and one is 12 — she began researching every available book and pamphlet on the subject.

Divorce Weighted Against Women

By ROSETTE HARGROVE

PARIS — (NEA) — One of the many changes in the pattern of living of the French is the rise in divorce rates.

The generally held view that divorce is less frequent and harder to obtain than in other Western European countries, if only because the "family" has withstood the onslaught of the permissive society, is disproved by official figures.

According to a recent study, out of 10,000 douples, 33 end in divorce in France.

Statistics also indicate a sharp increase not only in the over-all rate of divorce here — 40,000 decrees granted in 1970 compared with 36,000 in 1968 — but show an even sharper increase in the number of divorces above a certain age. Since 1960, 32 per cent more couples are divorcing in the 40-to-49 age group and 63 per cent in the over 60s.

According to Simone Cornec, a well-known divorce lawyer in Paris, the past 20 years have seen an increasing number of middle-aged and even older men wishing to divorce. Most frequent reason given was that the wives were unable to keep up with a husband's social ascent. The real motive, she underlined with a whimsical smile, was just as often the chance meeting with a younger woman and the increasing conviction of middle-aged men that they were still young enough to start another life.

Infidelity was responsible for two-thirds of all divorces. Alcoholism for one quarter. Madame Cornec stressed the fact that the hyprocrisy and resignation which once kept ill-assorted couples together had now all but disappeared.

Another important angle is that divorced couples no longer are ostracized socially and even in hidebound, conservative circles divorce no longer is looked upon as a lot on the family escutcheon. Financial considerations have almost no deterrent effect any more. Alimony, as a matter of fact, except in cases of wealthy couples, was often based on a judge's estimation of each case. French judges anyway were reputed to underestimate the compensation owing to a wife whose husband had asked for the divorce.

The old joke about love being the favorite indoor sport of the French still stands. A recent surpey showed that French couples spend an average 25 minutes three times a week on this "sport." Yet a poll conducted by the IFOP (Institut Francais d'Opinion Publique) revealed that there were till 71 per cent Frenchwomen under 30 who claimed to be virgins on their wedding days.

Frenchmen, accordig to Madame Cornec, are increasingly losing their sense of responsibility. They lo not know how to adjust to old age, not to mention arlier retirement age.

Wives, however, accoding to her experience, had moe often than not their shre of responsibility in the brakup of a longstanding marriage. The reason? Demands for quality. They insist on the sare rights as men but do not knor how to live up to them.

In every country thesituation is tragic for the womn in her late 40s or 50s wh is left behind. She might hae held a secretarial job beforemarriage but gave it up to takeare of her children and her bme. Yet when the separationomes, she does not have ay specific qualifications to erure her a standard of living t which she has become accustoied.

Obtaining legal roof that a husband is able to ay adequate maintenance has lways been difficult in Franc Even when children were involved a judge was inclined to assess a "living allowance," as alimony is known in Fince, at a ridiculously low ate, especially as compared vth the United States.

Actions for nonpayment of alimony were apt to be sidetracked and prove too costly for the more modest applicants. No ex-husband ran the risk of going to jail for nonpayment of alimony, as in England.

A law passed a year ago seeks to close this glaring legal loophole, protecting women such as one known to Madame Cornec whose ex-husband's income was the equivalent of some $25,000 but who had to go to work as a charwoman in a department store. In the past, all too many divorced Frehcnwomen have been in similar predicaments.

Quotable Women

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Here are some quotable quotes from women during the week:

"Poor people start saving from the day the daughter is born. The wedding becomes a sort of panacea for all our fears, a status symbol that says we made it big and daddy can send his daughter off in materialistic style, America's term for success." Marcia Seligson speaking about her new novel, "The Eternal Bliss Machine."

"It's all very simple. My engagement (to Arnaz) — our relationship — had been deteriorating for some time — pleasantly, luckily. We are no longer engaged. It's all called off." Actress Liza Minnelli.

"All my life I've worked within the system's organized groups, taking around petitions and filling in for speakers. I labored in the vineyards for 15 years before I ran for Congress and I've been able to assess the weaknesses and strengths of many of my opponents.

"I can explain to young people that they must work in the system. They can't just tilt at windmills." Rep. Shirley Chisholm, D. N.Y.

"The big problem in New York, as in any other city or state, is that the disabled are disorganized. The emphasis is on the disability rather than on the problems that the disabled have in common." Eunice Fiorite, head of a newly created Mayor's Office for the Handicapped in New York.

Lutheran Church Is Wedding Scene

Christ Lutheran Church formed the setting Saturday evening for the wedding of Miss Sharon Grother, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Grother, 917 West Fifth, and Carl Reque, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Reque, Route 2.

The Rev. Ron Beckman, Beatrice, Neb., and the Rev. Fred Hueners officiated at the double ring ceremony before an altar arranged with yellow and white killion daisies.

Warren Pahlow was guitarist for the event and Mike Beecher played the trumpet while Rusty Boehm was vocalist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor length gown of white voile and Cluny lace. Lace graced the square neckline, lantern sleeves and natural waist then bands of it streamed down the full skirt and encircled a deep flounce at the hemline and sweep train. Her Juliet cap of Venice lace and petals secured the three tier elbow length veil of illusion and the bride carried a yorktown bouquet of yellow and white marguerite daisies with baby's breath and a white satin shower. She wore a necklace given to her from the groom.

Mrs. Dennis Brant was matron of honor for her cousin's wedding. She wore a floor length gown of mint green polyester organza with short puff sleeves that was accented at the empire waist and square neckline with delicate Venice lace. She carried a nosegay of yellow marguerite daisies with yellow streamers.

Bridesmaids were Miss Shirley Stuart and sisters of the groom, Miss Donna Reque and Miss Debi Reque. All wore gowns of yellow organza styled identical to that of the matron of honor and they carried nosegays of yellow marguerite daisies with green streamers.

Miss Cindy Reque, sister of the groom, was flower girl in a floor length yellow skinner satin peau gown with flocked voile and she wore a wrist corsage of yellow marguerite daisies.

Art Reque served as his brother's best man and groomsmen were Bill Grother, brother of the bride, Bob McNeally and Ron Wight. Performing ushering duties were Dave Moellman, cousin of the bride, and Chuck Sweet, cousin of the groom.

Tom Reque, brother of the groom, carried the rings in a gold treasure chest which rested on a yellow satin pillow that had been made by the mother of the bride.

A church reception followed the ceremony where the bridal table, covered with a handmade tablecloth, held a three tier cake decorated with yellow marguerite daisies and smilax and two silver candelabra. A trellis trimmed with greens formed the background.

Serving at the bride's table were Mrs. Glenn King, aunt of the bride, Miss Elizabeth Lewis and Mrs. Ron Wight.

Miss Connie Reed presided at the guestbook and gifts were

MRS. CARL REQUE
Miss Sharon Grother

attended by Mrs. Ron Bruns, cousin of the bride; Miss Mary Jo Ostern, cousin of the groom; and Miss Mae Lynn Sweet, cousin of the groom.

In charge of rice bags were Miss Jeana Bruns and Terry Bergan.

The bride wore a beige slacksuit with brown accessories and she carried a long stemmed yellow rose for going on a honeymoon to Eureka Springs, Ark.

The couple will reside in Warrensburg where both the bride and groom are students at Central Missouri State University.

Sedalia Grabs BJ Opener, 7-5

(Democrat-Capital Service)

MOBERLY — Sedalia's unpracticed, short-notice Ban Johnson League entry matched Huntsville hit for hit plus one here Friday and came out on top of their season's opener, 7-5.

Terry Hudson went the full distance for Sedalia, pitching himself into and back out of some tight spots, but "getting the job done," in the words of Coach Glenn Holmes. Hudson helped himself out by driving in two runs and scoring once himself.

Huntsville had a two-run lead by the end of the second stanza. Steve Vestal doubled across Mike Grider in the first after the latter sent a sizzler up the middle. The second inning saw John Summers double one off the centerfield wall to score Jeff Kribbs who had been given a free ride and advanced to second base by virtue of an error.

Sedalia tied it up in the third inning when Steve Holmes doubled, and rode home on Bob Pledge's shot over the right field fence.

Hudson doubled in the fifth and went to third on Pledge's grounder to the pitcher. Steve Eck's fly to deep right allowed Hudson to score, making it 3-2, Sedalia.

Chuck Huddleston got to first in the sixth on an error and then stole second on a passed ball. Roger Reid beat out a bunt to set up Pete Green's grounder to a confused shortstop with Huddleston scoring. Hudson's blast into left field scored Reid and Green but wasn't quite long enough to be stretched into a home run, which Hudson tried to do.

Looking at a 6-2 score, Huntsville put in a bid to even things up in their half of the sixth. But on four singles, they could come up with only one run, making it 6-3.

Pledge got a free ride in the seventh and then stole second. Jim Coffelt's sacrifice fly to center pushed him across.

Huntsville took advantage of a walk and an error in the eighth when Grider singled to drive in Huntsville's last two runs.

When asked about the overall quality of play Saturday, Coach Holmes said, "We looked pretty ragged, actually, when you get right down to it." The future does look good, however.

"I think they'll gel," Holmes added. "I think we'll hold our own."

California visits Liberty Park at 2 o'clock this afternoon and will face Bob Pledge on the mound. Pledge produced the only home run in Friday's contest.

'Dick' Peters Dead at 53

MANHATTAN, Kan. (AP) — Richard L. "Dick" Peters, whose career in football included all-conference honors as a player and seven Kansas Conference championships as a head coach, was found dead in his office Saturday morning of an apparent heart attack. He was 53.

For the past year he had been an administrative assistant to Kansas State University football Coach Vince Gibson. Two members of the school's coaching staff found him about 11 a.m.

A native of Valley Falls, Kan., Peters graduated from Kansas State in 1946 as an all Big Six end.

He was assistant football coach at Ottawa, Kan., University from 1946 to 1948, and became head coach in 1949. In 1953 he went to Southern Methodist University as an assistant coach, then returned to Ottawa three years later.

His record as a head coach at Ottawa won him election to the NAIA coaches hall of fame this year. His Ottawa teams notched a record of 129 victories, 42 losses and three ties. Under his direction, Ottawa won the Kansas Conference title in 1950, '60, '61, '64, '65, '66 and '70.

Peters' brother, Chester, is K-State vice president for student affairs.

Funeral arrangements were incomplete.

'Miss Hamm's'

Michael E. "Mick" Alfrey makes some adjustments to one of the twin-150 HP Chrysler engines on his 18-foot outboard racing boat, "Miss Hamm's." Four years ago, Alfrey gave up motorcycles and turned to boat racing, most of which is done with this $10,000-plus rig. (Democrat-Capital Photo)

Indy Betting Almost Nil

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — "Mark Donohue will make it two in a row," said the man in the red jacket, plaid pants and buckled white shoes, "and I'll bet on it."

"OK," said his companion at the bar. "I'll take Bobby Unser."

"For a beer?"

"A steak dinner."

"Deal—shake."

That's the high-powered wagering that goes on in this citadel of championship auto racing as 33 of the world's finest drivers put finishing touches on their winged thunderbolts for Monday's Indy 500.

From a spectator standpoint, this is America's number one sports event—some 350,000 buffs attending the giant Speedway for three hours of high-pressure, neck-rising excitement—but betting is almost nil.

There are no parimuteul machines, as at the Kentucky Derby and Preakness. Las Vegas puts out a meaningless line, for newspaper purposes only. The Nevada bet shops, where gambling is legal, report there is no action.

It's the same at Tattersall's in Sydney, Australia, and Lloyd's in London.

"You can't handicap a collection of nuts and bolts," one greasy veteran of Gasoline Alley here commented Saturday. "There's never been any serious betting in auto racing. There are too many variables."

A year ago Bobby Unser, starting from the pole, was leading after 30 laps in his Olsonite Eagle, when a distributor rotor cracked and knocked him out of the race.

"The thing cost $1.29," Dan Gurney, builder of the Eagles, said. "We sweep them up off the floor every day."

There are 20 Eagles in this year's race, seven McLarens, three Parnellis, two Foyts and a single Kingfish. The chassis are so alike, varying only perhaps in the slant of the wings, that only the most expert could differentiate.

Gurney acknowledges that he builds the Eagles and packages them the way Sears Roebuck might a vaccuum cleaner. You can buy one by mail order—if you have $35,000. You must add an engine, usually an Offenhauser for another $35,000.

Nobody yet has come up with a super machine that can dominate the field the way Secretariat dominates race horses. Drivers come in various categories, it is true, but nobody is willing to handicap the drivers because of the unpredictability of the machines.

World 600

Pearson Eying 5th Straight

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — David Pearson, stock car racing's hottest driver, seeks a record fifth straight superspeedway victory with the Wood Brothers' Mercury Sunday in the World 600 at Charlotte Motor Speedway.

Pearson, recovered from a recent virus infection, heads a star-studded 40-car field that takes the green flag at 12:30 p.m. EDT in the longest event on the Grand National circuit, a gruelling 600-mile test.

Defending champion Buddy Baker, million dollar winner Richard Petty and veteran Cale Yarborough also earned first and second row qualifying spots.

Baker, the pole sitter after touring the 1.5-mile asphalt oval at 158.051 miles per hour in qualifying Wednesday, is confident he can push his Dodge to victory again at his hometown track.

"I've just got that feeling," Baker said. "I'm gonna win it again."

Pearson, winner of the 1971 World 600 in a Pontiac, has recorded consecutive superspeedway victories at Rockingham, Atlanta, Darlington and Talladega. He also won a short track event at Martinsville during his current streak.

Pearson is easily the leading money winner on the 1973 tour with $87,580 and could add another $21,950 with a victory.

Atlas, Little Bear Take On Japanese

Tag team action will provide the main event in Tuesday evening's pro wrestling at Convention Hall as Danny Little Bear and Omar Atlas take on the duo of Tokyo Joe and the Great Togo.

Semifinal competition features Pat O'Connor, former world champion, against Bob Orton while Mike George opposes Frank Diamond in the special event.

Atlas will clash against Tokyo Joe in the 8:30 p.m. opener.

Tickets are on sale at the Coffee Pot Cafe and Zip Drug Store.

Griffith Scores Ace on WHCC 15th

After 10 years of play, Richard Griffith, 2703 South Kentucky, dropped one in on his first shot Saturday on the par 3, 159-yard 15th hole at Walnut Hills Country Club.

The ace came off a 5-wood shot on the short hole which is slightly uphill. Witnesses were Robert Zink and Cliff Maddox.

Northrup Keys Detroit Victory

DETROIT (AP) — Jim Northrup snapped an eighth-inning tie with a two-run triple and scored on a sacrifice fly by Aurelio Rodriguez to lead the Detroit Tigers to an 8-5 triumph over the Oakland A's Saturday.

Deron Johnson's two-run homer in the top of the eighth had pulled the A's into a 5-all tie but reliever Horacio Pina walked Rich Reese to open the Tigers' half. Then first baseman Gene Tenace fumbled Dick Sharon's sacrifice bunt, setting things up for Northrup.

The A's jumped on Woodie Fryman for a 3-0 lead in the top of the fifth. Tenace led off with a homer and singles by Rich McKinney, Dick Green and Bill North made it 2-0. Green scored on Sal Bando's groundout.

Detroit knotted it in the bottom of the fifth against Ken Holtzman, who was bidding for his seventh straight win.

New York 10, Texas 5

NEW YORK (AP) — Gene Michael hit a two-run homer and Bobby Murcer drilled a three-run shot in a five-run second inning Saturday that powered the New York Yankees to a 10-5 victory over Texas and extended the Rangers' losing streak to eight games.

With the Yankees trailing 3-2, Michael tagged Don Stanhouse, 0-5, for his 12th career homer following a walk to Celerino Sanchez. It was his second in two games and matched his previous high of three in one season.

After singles by Roy White and Matty Alou, Murcer slammed his eighth home run into the bullpen in right-center field. Murcer also singled home one of three runs off Steve Dunning in the sixth.

Ron Blomberg doubled home New York's first two runs in the opening inning, extending his hitting streak to 15 games.

The Rangers reached Mel Stottlemyre, 7-4, for three runs in the second on a bases-loaded sacrifice fly by Ken Suarez, Stottlemyre's throwing error and Dave Nelson's bunt hit. Vic Harris homered as Texas chased Stottlemyre in the sixth.

Milwaukee 9, California 0

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Jim Colborn pitched a four-hitter for his fifth successive victory and Tim Johnson drove in two runs with a pair of singles Saturday, leading the Milwaukee Brewers to a 9-0 victory over the California Angels.

A walk and hit batsman set up run-scoring singles by Gorman Thomas and Pedro Garcia in the second inning against loser Rudy May, 4-5.

After a walk loaded the bases, Johnson's infield hit scored the third run of the inning.

A wild pitch and May's mental error led to another run in the fifth. Ellie Rodriguez singled, took second on the wild pitch, stole third as May took a full wind-up and scored on Dave May's sacrifice fly.

A double by Garcia and RBI singles by Johnson and Ollie Brown around a walk made it 6-0 in the sixth. Bob Coluccio doubled home a run in the seventh and the Brewers added two more in the eighth, with George Scott contributing an RBI double.

'Mick' Alfrey Has Fast Hobby With Racing Boats

By VAUGHN HART
Sports Editor

A lot of people have gone faster than 122 mph, but few have done it in a boat. A Sedalia resident has and lived to tell about it, even after flipping on his second run through the time traps at more than 130 mph.

Twenty-nine-year-old Michael E. "Mick" Alfrey, 1413 West 11th, is a member of an elite, but fast-growing sport in the United States — power boat racing, which Alfrey claims is growing percentage-wise as fast as that of pleasure boating.

Alfrey, who raced motorcycles for a number of years before turning to the more lucrative sport of boat racing, competes in the biggest outboard motor class there is — the unlimited division.

"I got interested in the sport four years ago, when Paul Sparks (Lincoln) asked me if I was available and would like to try it ... I was available and decided to give it a shot," Alfrey says. "The boat he had was a 14-foot, hydroplane, which was powered by a 135-HP Chrysler engine ... I went 103 mph and it was great, just great to be going that fast on water. After he told me what kind of money was being payed to compete in them, I decided to put my motorcycle career behind me," he added.

Alfrey said he was clocked at 122 mph at Wichita, Kan., on his first run through the mile course. He turned around to make his run the other direction and was going more than 130 mph, when he lost control and the boat overturned.

In timing drag boats, drivers make two passes through the "traps" (once each direction); their two speeds are added together and then divided to determine the average speed.

The boat Alfrey is piloting this year is an 18-foot fiberglass, dual-engine, Chrysler-powered boat. Each engine puts out 150 HP. It is sponsored locally by Hamm's Sales Co. and KSIS-Radio.

Like the National Weather Service, most power boat racers attach female nomenclature to their craft. Alfrey followed suit, naming it "Miss Hamm's" after his major sponsor.

It seems strange to name something that is capable of rousting the most serious of fishermen from a quiet cove with its roar and speed capability of 130-plus mph after a woman, but in Alfrey's words, "... Most everybody does ... I don't think it's so odd, you know how women can get at times."

Alfrey's tunnel-hull racer is set up for circle and marathon racing. Circle races are run over buoy-marked courses that range from one-half mile to five miles. Events similar to those in auto racing are held during race meets in that heat races and features are staged.

But features events in boat racing differ from their automobile counterparts by the fact that boats race against the clock rather than over a certain distance, such as 50 miles.

Marathon events are run against the clock as well as over a prescribed distance, such as a race from Kansas City to St. Louis via the Missouri River.

Alfrey has won seven features during his career. His first victory came in 1971 in Kansas; in 1972, he won races in Iowa and again in Kansas.

His 1973 campaign almost ended before it started, when he suffered one of the most embarrassing moments of his career at the Lake of the Ozarks about a month ago.

Alfrey had just tried out "Miss Hamm's" for the first time. He decided to change the props on the twin-150 Chrysler power plants; to do that he had to go back to the dock from where he had set up temporary headquarters.

A boy, who Alfrey declined to name in order to save face, said he would hold the rope while Alfrey got the props. Suddenly a wave came over the back of the boat swamping it. The young lad lost the struggle with the water and "Miss Hamm's" got a real christening in 20 feet of water.

Eight hours later, "Miss Hamm's," which Alfrey values at more than $10,000, was hoisted from the bottom.

Fortunately, the unscheduled bath didn't damage anything, and by mid-week the tunnel-hull racer was dry as a bone.

"I was more embarrassed than worried," Alfrey recalls. "Imagine the situation, here I am with one of the fastest boats around and where is it — at the bottom of the drink with two $2,800 engines soaked."

Alfrey, a 1962 graduate of Green Ridge High School and now an electrician at K-W Electric of Sedalia, was scheduled to compete in a circle race in Oklahoma City, Okla. today.

He also does some drag boat racing with a 16-foot hydroplane, which is powered by twin-105 HP Chrysler engines. Hamm's Beer and the Jockey Club sponsor the boat.

The only racing boat Alfrey totally owns himself is a 14-foot single-engine (135 HP Chrysler) hydroplane.

Ken Hall, 22, of 1403 South Vermont, and Alfrey have formed a team. Hall drives a single-engine tunnel-hull, which is powered by a 135 HP Chrysler. The boat is also sponsored by Hamm's Sales Co. and carries the name "Miss Hamm's Draft."

Alfrey noted that unlimited class outboard boats are built with tunnel hulls because they ride more on air than in the water.

Alfrey, a member of the American Outboard Federation and the Midwest Drag Boat Association, has his eye set on the Outboard World's Championships later this year in Lake Havasu City, Ariz. The two-day meet attracted an estimated crowd of nearly 150,000 Alfrey said in 1972.

He added, "I'm going to go back there with a single-engine job that I've specially built for the event. That's one of the biggest races of the year, and I'd sure like to win my class."

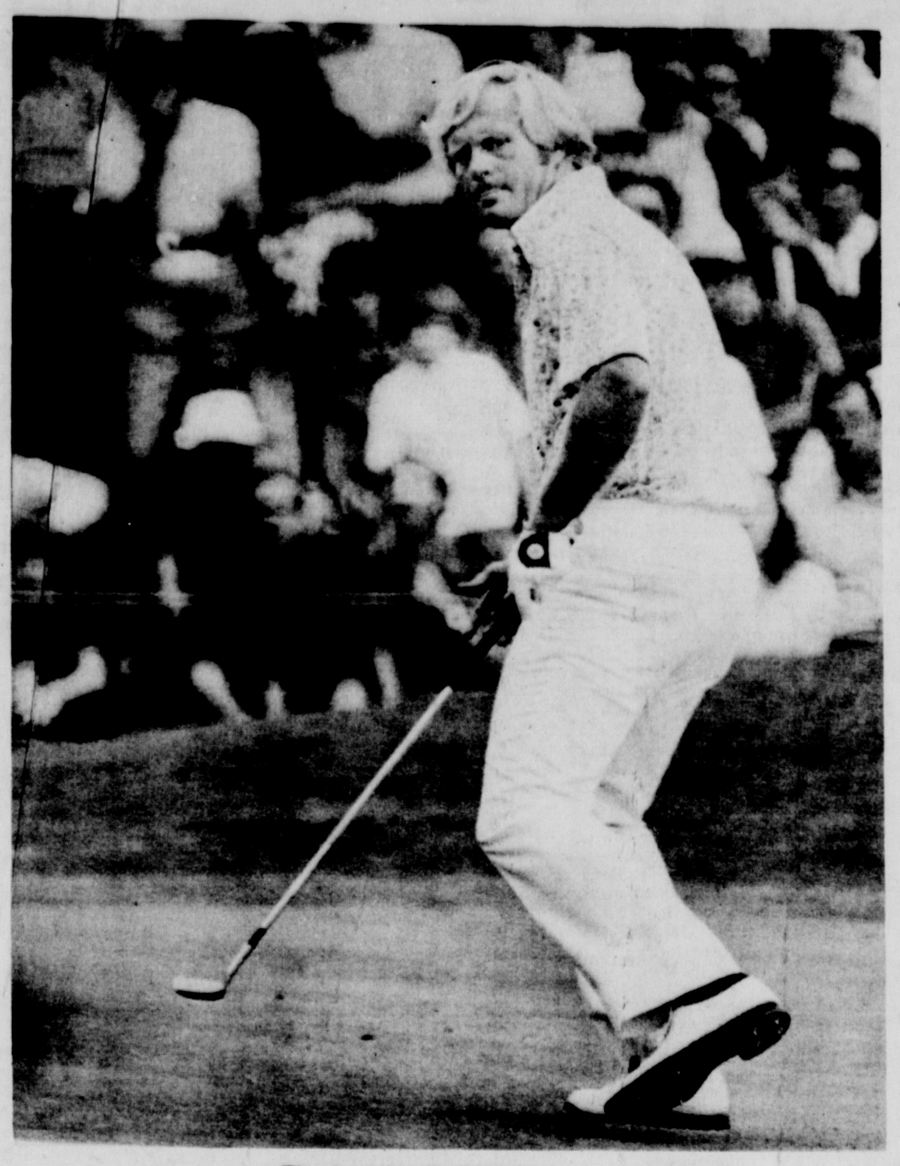
Nicklaus Out Front By Six



The Amazing Jack Nicklaus ...
... holding a record-setting lead

ATLANTA (AP) — Jack Nicklaus, playing with the awesome majesty of which only he seems capable, stretched his lead to record proportions with a six-under-par 66 Saturday in the third round of the $150,000 Atlanta Golf Classic.

Nicklaus, easily the dominant figure in the game today, posted a 199 total for 54 holes, 17-under-par on the hilly, 6,883-yard Atlanta Country Club course.

Nicklaus, seeking a fourth title of the season, owned a bulging, six-stroke lead over Tom Weiskopf going into Sunday's final round in the chase for the $30,000 first prize, and appeared an almost certain winner.

His leading margin, was by two strokes, the largest 54-hole advantage on the pro golf tour this year and left the rest of the field admittedly thinking of the second prize.

"The rest of us are just playing for second place," said veteran Gay Brewer.

"It's just kind of discouraging," said former PGA champion Al Geiberger.

Nicklaus, who hadn't competed since winning the Tournament of Champions April 22, has led or shared the lead all the way in this event.

He held a four-stroke advantage when play started on the mild, occasionally, cloudy day and quickly stretched it out.

He played the front nine in a brilliant 31 — five-under-par — and coasted home in 35. For the second day in a row, he got away without making a bogey.

Weiskopf fashioned a four-under-par 68 — he lost two strokes to Nicklaus with that good round — and was alone in second at 205.

The slender Geiberger also had a 68 and was in third at 207. Brewer, with a 65, and Hubert Green, with a 69, followed at 208, nine strokes off the pace.

South African Gary Player enjoyed his best round of the tournament, a 69, but was far back in the field with a 216.

Although all but out of it, Weiskopf insisted "he's human. He can be beaten.

"If you don't believe you can win, you're never going to win. I've got to look at it that way.

"If I shoot 64 in the last round and he's 72, where does that leave us?

"I've shot 64 before and he's had 72 — but it doesn't look very likely right now."

Nicklaus opened with a rush, taking birdies on three of his first five holes.

He made it from 12 feet on the first hole, punched a seven iron to within four feet on the fourth and rolled in an 18-footer on the next one.

Nicklaus just missed on a 30-foot eagle putt on the par-five eighth, leaving it about a half-inch short. A six-iron shot to four feet on the ninth provided his fifth birdie on the front nine.

Then, he cooled off. He didn't make another birdie until he reached the par-five, 18th with a four-iron second shot and two-putted.

In between, he was in three bunkers and four times had to get down in two from about 35-40 feet.

Pepitone Quits Once Again

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Joe Pepitone, who was obtained by the Atlanta Braves in a deal with the Chicago Cubs on May 19, has decided to quit again

Pepitone informed Manager Eddie Mathews of his decision before Saturday night's game with the St. Louis Cardinals. He said that he probably would have quit regardless of what team he had been traded to.

He said that he had many personal problems and expressed the desire to play ball in Japan.

He called General Manager Eddie Robinson in Atlanta after announcing his decision.

Last season, Pepitone quit the Cubs in May but returned in July and batted .262 in 66 games.

100-Car Field Expected Today in Jaycee Classic

A field of nearly 100 cars, including super-sprints, late model stocks, modifieds, hobby stocks and demolition derby entries are expected to be on hand for the annual Sedalia Jaycees Memorial Classic this afternoon at the Missouri State Fairgrounds.

Although pre-race entries were not pushed by the organization, which uses the proceeds realized from the annual event to fund their many community projects, commitments from defending International Motor Contest Association sprint car champion Ray Lee Goodwin, Kansas City, as well as local sprint favorites Bill Utz, Sedalia; Russell Hibbard, Slater; brother Roy Hibbard, Marshall; and J.J. Lyle, Warrensburg, are expected.

Other entries in the super-sprint division include Eddie Leavitt, Kearney, Mo., and Dick Sutcliffe, Greenwood, Mo.

All will be after the $500 payoff that goes to the winner of the 25-lap feature.

Tom Frasher of Jefferson City, winner of two area late model feature events at Capital Speedway (Holts Summit) and Saline County Speedway (Marshall) will be one of the favorites in that division. Frasher, who pilots a Camaro, also has a Mid-America Fairgrounds (Topeka, Kan.) feature under his belt this year.

The drivers are scheduled to take the track at 10 a.m. for warm-ups; the first qualifying heat will be held at 11 a.m.

Tickets for the event are priced at $3.50 (adults) and $1.50 (children).

Smith, Evert Make It To 3rd Round

PARIS (AP) — Youth continues to be served in the French Tennis Championships, where Saturday 18-year-old Chris Evert and 16-year-old Bjorn Borg of Sweden, along with title favorite Stan Smith, led the players advancing to the third round of the $135,000 event.

Miss Evert, seeded second in women's singles, easily won her match with Hideko Goto of Japan 6-0, 6-1.

Borg, who upset World Championship Tennis star Cliff Richey of San Angelo, Tex., Friday, came back from the brink of defeat to beat Pierre Barthes of France 3-6, 6-1, 7-5.

Smith pulled his game together after a slow start to beat Jim McManus of Berkeley, Calif., 7-5, 7-5.

Miss Evert's main rival for the women's title, top seeded Margaret Court of Australia, also advanced with a hard-fought 5-7, 6-0, 6-3 victory over countrywoman Patti Coleman.

And Romanian Ilie Nastase, No. 2 seed behind Smith, took the day's only third rounder with an easy 6-2, 6-1, 6-3 triumph over Juergen Fassbender of West Germany. Matches from the third round on are best-of-five sets.

American men who moved to the third round were Arthur Ashe of Miami, seeded fourth; Dick Stockton of Port Washington, N.Y.; Frank Froehling of Miami; Erik van Dillen of San Mateo, Calif., and Harold Solomon of Silver Spring, Md.

To Open Stadium For Practice

Smith-Cotton track coach Norris Kelly announced Friday that starting Monday at 3:30 p.m., Jennie Jaynes Stadium will be open for those persons interested in participating in the Amateur Athletic Union's Junior Olympics program.

The program is for boys and girls between the ages of 8-17.

Kelly said the preliminary Missouri qualifying meet for the state finals is scheduled for June 2 at Central Missouri State University in Warrensburg. He also noted that transportation will be provided.

The state competition will be in Moberly June 9.

Jennie Jaynes Stadium will be open Monday through Friday between 3:30-6:30 p.m.

College All-Star Team Led By Southern Cal

CHICAGO (AP) — National champion Southern California, with five players, tops the 50-member collegiate squad named Saturday to face the Miami Dolphins in the 40th All-Star Football Game Friday night, July 27.

The squad, representing graduated standouts from 33 schools, was selected by Southern California's John McKay, making his coaching debut in the Soldier Field classic sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.

McKay also has mustered four players from Oklahoma and three stars each from Nebraska, Purdue and Michigan State among the hand-picked talent trying to snap a nine-game losing streak against the champions of the National Football League.

The All-Star quarterbacking will be in charge of Louisiana State's Bert Jones, Joe Ferguson of Arkansas, and Ty Paine of Washington State.

Running backs for the biggest physical squad ever sent against the pros include Oklahoma's Greg Pruitt; Purdue's Otis Armstrong; 220-pound Sam Cunningham of Southern California, and 224-pound Bill Olds of Nebraska.

Heisman Trophy winner Johnny Rodgers of Nebraska, one of five wide receivers selected by McKay, will be unavailable because of his recent signing with Montreal in the Canadian League, which starts play early in July.

The remaining targets for Jones, a dropback quarterback, and sprint-out quarterbacks Ferguson and Paine include San Diego State's Isaac Curtis; Arizona State's Steve Holden; Florida State's Barry Smith, and Oklahoma's Joe Wylie.

Among 31 hefty All-Stars weighing 220 pounds or more are defensive linemen Dave Butz of Purdue, 280, and John Matuszak of Tampa, 270, and offensive linemen John Hannah of Alabama, 270, and a quartet of 260-pounders — Paul Seymour of Michigan; Jerry Sizemore of Texas; Guy Morris of Texas Christian, and Paul Howard of Bringham Young.

Last year's All-Stars lost 20-7 to the Dallas Cowboys, giving the pros a 28-9-2 series record. The All-Stars of Otto Graham last scored a collegaite victory in 1963 with a 20-17 shading of the Green Bay Packers.

Buffalo Finally Signs Earnie D.

BUFFALO (AP) — After a week of conflicting claims and high-pressure bargaining, the Buffalo Braves announced Friday they have finally signed their No. 1 draft choice, Ernie DiGregorio, to a contract.

Paul Snyder, the owner of the National Basketball Association team, said he had signed the All-American from Providence College to a multi-year contract worth "a tremendous amount of money."

Earlier reports had indicated that the amount of money was well over $1 million.

Snyder did not elaborate on the terms of the contract, saying he would explain everything at a news conference Tuesday.

"I will say it's the most difficult contract I've ever negotiated," he said.

The 6-foot DiGregorio, an acknowledged ball-handling wizard and impressive floor general, was drafted No. 1 by the Braves of the NBA and by the Kentucky Colonels of the rival American Basketball Association.

Last week, Buffalo thought it had outbargained the Colonels and began dropping hints about an important upcoming announcement. That came Wednesday when Snyder claimed at a news conference that Ernie D's signing was imminent.

But later that day, the Braves admitted that "problems" had developed and Snyder flew off to New York for further talks with DiGregorio's lawyer and agent, Larry Fleisher.

The "problems" were later revealed to have been an 11th hour offer from the Colonels, who had received financial support in the bidding war from other teams in the ABA. In his three years at Providence, DiGregorio amassed 527 assists in 86 games, a school record. During the recent US-Soviet basketball series, he averaged 18.6 points for the six games and helped the Americans to a 4-2 victory advantage.

Sr. BR Openers Set For Monday

Senior Babe Ruth baseball action kicks off Monday night at Liberty Park with V.F.W. taking on Third National Bank at 6:30 p.m.

Monday's second contest features Pepsi-Cola against S-M sporting goods.

There are four teams in the league and games will be played on Monday and Tuesday nights, it was reported.

Oliver Aids Pirate Win

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Al Oliver tripled home two runs, then scored another in a four-run Pittsburgh rally that helped the Pirates to a 7-2 victory over Houston Saturday night.

Nelson Briles earned the victory and helped his cause with a home run.

The Astros bunched three hits for a run off Briles in the first inning but the Pirates got that back on Willie Stargell's RBI double in the bottom of the first.

Pittsburgh, on hits by Milt May and Jackie Hernandez, went ahead in the fourth, then broke the game open in the next inning.

Vic Davalillo opened the fifth with a single and came around to score when Tommie Agee booted Dave Cash's single. Stargell walked and Oliver tripled for two more runs, then scored on Hector Torres' error.

Briles homered in the sixth and Dave Giusti came on to finish after Jimmy Wynn homered.

Chicago 2, Cincinnati 0

CINCINNATI (AP) — Don Kessinger tripled home one run and scored another and Milt Pappas and Jack Aker stopped Cincinnati on four hits, leading the Chicago Cubs to a 2-0 victory over the Reds in a nationally televised baseball game.

Plagued with elbow problems this spring, Pappas, 2-3, permitted a first-inning double by Bobby Tolan and a single by Pete Rose in the third before leaving the game at the start of the seventh.

The Cubs, after threatening in the first two innings, got to Ross Grimsley, 4-4, for a pair of runs in the third. Pappas started the inning with his first hit of the year and was forced at second by Rick Monday. Monday scored on Kessinger's triple and Kessinger tallied on Billy Williams' single.

Aker was in trouble in the seventh when an error by first baseman Jim Hickman and Dave Concepcion's single put two runners aboard. But he got pinch hitter Larry Stahl to ground into an inning-ending double play.

Cards Shut Out Atlanta, 2-0

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Bob Gibson scattered four hits and pitched the St. Louis Cardinals to a 2-0 victory over the Atlanta Braves Saturday night.

The decision was Gibson's third against five losses. The big right-hander whipped knuckleballer Phil Niekro, 3-2.

Ken Reitz opened the fifth with a double, the third hit off Niekro. Mike Tyson then beat out a slow roller to first baseman Mike Lum.

Then, while pitching to Gibson, Niekro uncorked his wild pitch, and Reitz scored. Tyson tried to make third but was out on John Oates' peg to Darrell Evans.

The Cards added another run in the sixth on singles by Ted Sizemore, Tim McCarver and Jose Cruz.

The game was called after eight innings because of rain.

Oldfield Fails in Bid To Set New Record

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Brian Oldfield, the former Middle Tennessee State star, tossed the shot 68 feet, 4 inches in the Professional Track Association Meet Saturday night, failing in a bid to break his world indoor best of 70-10¾ Friday night at Salt Lake City.

"I guess I left it all in Salt Lake City," said Oldfield, top money-winner on the pro tour. "I had a real problem keeping my foot down on my first three throws."

Oldifled won the event just the same, beating out Randy Matson, once the pride of Texas A&M, who had a heave of 67-3½.

Harrington Jackson of Texas-El Paso was clocked in 5.9 seconds, best in the 60-yard dash. Mel Pender, who tied Herb Washington's world record of 5.8 at Salt Lake City, was disqualified for two false starts.

Bob Hayes of the Dallas Cowboys took the 40-yard dash by an eyelash over Mel Gray of the St. Louis football Cardinals. Both were timed in 4.4. Paul Gibson of Texas El-Paso won the 60-yard hurdles in 7.0.

Barbara Ferrell, the ex-UCLA miss, was one-tenth second off the world record of 6.5 she shares with Wyomia Tyus-Siimburg of Tennessee State in the women's 60-yard dash.

'The Meanest Front Row Ever'

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Mark Donohue, gentle, serious-minded, a nearly perfect master of his emotions and his talents, feels he's the man on the spot in the Memorial Day Indianapolis 500 mile race.

He came out of nowhere to win in 1972 and he has a front row start for Monday's 57th running of the $1 million classic.

Arrayed with him in the three-abreast alignment will be Johnny Rutherford and Bobby Unser, two of the game's hardest chargers. Immediately to his rear will be six other lead-foots of proven ability.

"I'm the guy they'll be gunning for, the guy who isn't expected to make a mistake and blow it," the blond, round-faced Brown University alumnus said.

"It's going to be difficult to repeat what we did last year. The meter is back to zero. We can't go out there, throw our press clippings on the ground and expect the other drivers to slide on them.

"Realizing this makes us more determined, however. We've never had so much riding on one race."

Rutherford, a 35-year-old campaigner from Fort Worth, Tex., fired his Gulf McLaren into the pole position with a record four-lap speed of 198.413 miles per hour.

His third lap speed of 199.071 m.p.h. came the closest to the 200 m.p.h. barrier that had been freely predicted for the ancient Indianapolis Motor Speedway this year.

Donohue, 35, was the third fastest qualifier in a Sunoco DX McLaren, a dark-blue, lowslung machine cluttered with decals that bespeak his $1 million worth of financial backing. His speed was 197.412 m.p.h.

Unser, 38, set speed records seven of his 10 times out last year, including the pole position for this race, but came up with a balky engine in warmups before his qualifying run. He had to settle for the No. 2 position at, for him, a disappointing 198.183 m.p.h. in Dan Gurney's Olsonite Eagle.

"That's the meanest front row ever put together for this race," one garage area observer commented. "They're fine, decent fellows off the track, but if there's an ounce of on-track forgiveness in either of them, I've never seen it."

The same could be said of the second row, where the starters will be Swede Savage, a 26-year-old protege of Gurney from Santa Ana, Calif.; Gary Bettenhausen of Tinley Park, Ill., Donohue's teammate who led 138 of the 200 laps last year before his engine failed; and Mario Andretti, the 1969 winner who hasn't been able to put talent and car together in the four years since.

Most observers, using the record book for authority, figure the winner has to come from the first three rows. Graham Hill won from 15th position in 1966, and he's the last one to come from that far back since World War II.

Al Unser, like Andretti, a member of Parnelli Jones' "super team" that also includes 29th place starter Joe Leonard, probably has the best chance of the third row occupants.

The youngest of the two driving brothers from Albuquerque, N.M., has the best record of any driver at Indianppolis during the last five years.

He has won twice (1970-1971), finished second twice (1967-1972) and taken more than $500,000 to his bank in the process.

His third row mates will be Steve Krisiloff, 26, of Parsippany, N.J. and Jimmy Caruthers, 28, of Anaheim, Calif., who came in ninth in his rookie year in 1972.

There are three rookies, two of them highly regarded, seasoned competitors. Bobby Allison, who starts 12th, won $284,000 in oval track stock cars last year. Graham McRae, a New Zelander now living in California, goes off 13th. His background has been in road racing.

The other first year man, Jerry Karl, has the 28th slot in the first rear-engined stock block machine to make the race since the early 1960s.

Together, the 33 starters qualified at an average speed of 192.572 m.p.h., compared with 182.113 last year.

And then thre is A.J. Foyt, auto racing's immortal. The 38-year-old Texan had hoped to become the first driver to win the classic four times. But Foyt is starting this one from the middle of the eighth row, by far his poorest in 15 outings at the Speedway.

Donohue, who refuses to sell Foyt short even were he to go off in last place, commented:

"Super Tex will have more eyes on him than there will be on me. The fans will expect him to make one of his classic charges, and I tend to agree that he will."

Donohue, chief driver for Philadelphia main liner Roger Penske — Bettenhausen and Allison are the others — won last year at a record 162.962 m.p.h. If the front runners hold together, that mark likely will be bettered.

Here is the lineup for the $1 million 500-mile race at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway May 28:

First Row

Johnny Rutherford, Ft. Worth, Tex., No. 7, McLarenOffenhauser, 198.413 m.p.h. (broke previous record of 196.582, also top lap of 199.071 breaking mark of 197.152); Bobby Unser, Albuquerque, N.M., No. 8, Eagle-Offy, 198.183; Mark Donohue, Newtown Square, Pa., No. 66, Eagle-Offy, 197.412.

Second Row

Third Row

Steve Krisiloff, Parsippany, N.J., No. 2½, Kingfish-Offy, 194.932; Al Unser, Albuquerque, N.M., No. 4, Parnelli-Offy, 194.879; Jimmy Caruthers, Anaheim, Calif., No. 21, Eagle-Offy, 194.217.

Fourth Row

Fifth Row

Graham McRae, Wellington, New Zealand, No. 60, EagleOffy, 192.031; Roger McCluskey, Tucson, Ariz., No. 3, McLaren-Offy, 191.928; Lloyd Ruby, Wichita Falls, Tex., No. 18, Eagle-Offy, 191.622.

David Hobbs, Upper Boddington, England, No. 73, Eagle-Offy, 189.454; A.J. Foyt Jr., Houston, Tex., No.14, CoyoteFoyt, 188.927; John Martin, Long Beach, Calif., No. 89, McLaren-Offy, 194.384.

Ninth Row

Lee Kunzman, Guttenberg, Iowa, No. 16, Eagle-Offy, 193.092; Mike Hiss, Tustin, Calif., No. 6, Eagle-Offy, 191.939; Dick Simon, Salt Lake City, Utah, No. 44, EagleFoyt, 191.276.

Tenth Row

Jerry Karl, Manchester, Pa., No. 30, Eagle-Chevrolet, 190.799; Joe Leonard, San Jose, Calif., No. 1, Parnelli-Offy, 189.954; George Snider, Bakersfield, Calif., No. 84, CoyoteFoyt, 190.355.

Eleventh Row

Ticket Deadline Nears

(Democrat-Capital Service)

COLUMBIA — Season ticket-holders for Missouri Tiger football games will have to act this week if they intend to maintain their status, it was learned Saturday.

"We'll have some unhappy people who let their seats get away from them, but we must begin the allocation of 1973 tickets," Barton Mitchell, ticket manager, said in explanation of the June 1 deadline for renewals.

Mitchell also revealed that the appearance of Nebraska and Oklahoma on the Mizzou home schedule has stimulated sales "to the point that we'll shortly be shutting down single-game sales for the Nebraska game."

It was noted that the Big Eight has increased its single-game admission price.

24-Hour Affair

Bicyclers by the thousands from all over the world are stacked together for almost a mile by a telephoto lens as they line up in a lane formed by saw-horses in preparation to begin the 13th annual 24-hour, 200-mile Pepsi-Wolverine Bicycle Marathan on Belle Isle, Mich., Saturday. Sometimes billed as the world's greatest single organized amateur bicycle tour, some 50 trophies will be awarded those who finish the endurance contest today. (UPI)

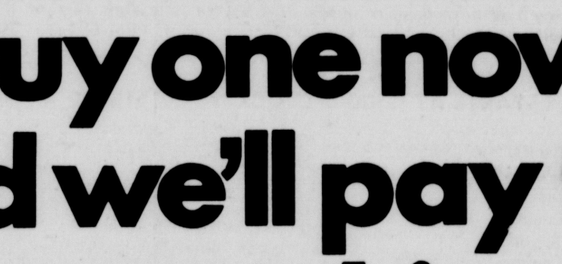
PARTS & SALES & SERVICE OPEN 'TIL 9 P.M. FRIDAYS

Buy one now and we'll pay for everything but the gas for one year.



No Kidding.

Buy any new VW from us now and we'll give you a written promise for service and maintenance work for one year or 12,000 miles, whichever comes first.

It covers all the things you'd normally expect to pay for out of your own pocket. Oil changes. Tune-ups. Lube jobs. Wiper blades. Hoses. Fuses. Everything. On the house.

The offer is good on any new VW we make — from the little Beetle to the Big 412. Simply bring your new car back to us for servicing and we'll pay for everything but the gas.

And, believe us, your gas bill won't drive you to the poorhouse. VW's sip gas instead of guzzling it.

And the nice thing about it is, this new offer is in addition to our regular 2-year/24,000 mile warranty* on parts and labor, which is longer than you can get on any new car in the world.

Unless, of course, you want to buy a Rolls-Royce for about $25,000.

So buy a VW. The only car in the world that lets you drive home with our service department in your pocket.

(For Limited Time Only)

*If an owner maintains and services his vehicle in accordance with the Volkswagen maintenance schedule any factory part found to be defective in material or workmanship within 24 months or 24,000 miles, whichever comes first, except normal wear and tear and service items, will be repaired or replaced by any U.S. or Canadian Volkswagen Dealer. And this will be done free of charge. See your dealer for details.

Fun in the Sun Comes Through in True Style

Spending a school day in the park on a sunny May afternoon just couldn't be enjoyed more by these youngsters. The opinion was almost unanimous among students from Sacred Heart Catholic School when they, class by class, took a half day off from school this month for their annual year-end picnic.

It's graduation time and therefore time to celebrate.

These students, shown in true form in these photos, took sack lunches to Liberty Park, under the supervision of Mrs. Carol Rabourn, who teaches the second grade. A total of 30 students took part in the activities, putting playground equipment at the park to a full test.

Challenge Key Word for Sedalian

By RON JENNINGS
Democrat-Capital Staff Writer

Throughout his educational career, Bill Rabourn recently indicated, he's thrived on challenges ... not just the temporary trifles of every-day life, but rather those long-term situations which call into play both intellect and energy.

And so, when he was offered the position of business affairs director of the fledgling State Fair Community College in 1966, the native Sedalian eagerly made the move from Jefferson City, where he had been serving as assistant director of the State Department of Education.

Now, seven years later, Rabourn is leaving to enter private business ... but not without a wealth of memories and experiences, not to mention an increased awareness of his own career philosophy.

In his own words, the prospect of returning "home," in 1966 was certainly not the only reason for his acceptance of the SFCC administrative post. Equally compelling, he indicated, was the fact that the college at that time was only a maze of blueprints and by-laws.

"I guess that's probably what intrigued and interested me most," he said. "I'd be starting from scratch and doing things my way. I couldn't pass up that chance."

During the course of his seven years on the job, Rabourn said, "I've had to wear many hats . My department handles the school budget, supervises money management, handles cash receipts and accounts payable and supervises auxiliary enterprises such as the bookstore and the student union."

Nothing Is Routine

His position as purchasing agent for the college has also had its moments of diversity, Rabourn stated.

"You never know what's going to come across your desk next," he said. "You may sign a purchase order for a roomful of desks one minute and the next be signing up to receive welding supplies."

Looking back over his association with the college, Rabourn admitted, "it was quite an undertaking, especially because at the beginning no one was quite sure exactly what course we should follow. We had no real precedent and were forced to rely on our own judgment and thoughts."

When he vacates his SFCC post at the end of the current school year, he will be leaving his successor a $2,227,585 budget. However, Rabourn said, things won't end there.

"My successor will have a lot more to fall back on than I had when I came here," he said. Chief among these aids will be a series of unit cost studies which, as current president of the Missouri Junior College Business Managers Association, he was instrumental in forming.

The studies, put together over the past year by the group, are designed to provide a more accurate estimate of costs involved in establishing and maintaining specific college classes.

Valuable Aid

"We hope in this manner to give junior college purchasing personnel some sort of reference framework in which to better project expenses," Rabourn said. "This will be invaluable to administrators responsible for accurately anticipating classroom costs."

Two additional legacies to be left by Rabourn are the Missouri Junior College accounting manual and business office operations manual. Both publications are geared toward the particular and unique problems faced by junior college administrators and instructors throughout the state.

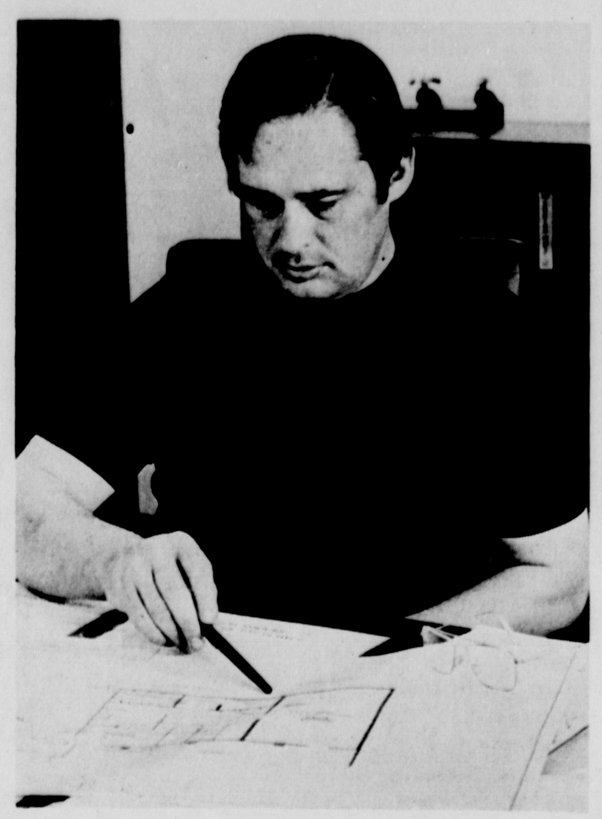
"I think we've accomplished quite a bit in these manuals," Rabourn said. "I know they're very helpful and I believe they offer sound, solid advice and instructions in this area."

In his new, temporary business headquarters at the State Fairgrounds fire station, Rabourn will provide specialized service, involving interior cleaning and body polishing for dealer-owned and individually-owned cars.

While his new interest is somewhat removed from the world of collegiate finances, Rabourn indicated he expects the transition to be an easy one.

"I've been working at various jobs since I was young and I know I can manage this all right," he said. "I'm looking forward to it because I believe it represents a real challenge."

And that, for Rabourn, says it all.



Departing

Although he will be leaving his post at the end of the current school year, Bill Rabourn, business affairs director for State Fair Community College, is still interested in examining blueprints for a future construction project.

Three Missouri Grants Approved

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Ozark Regional Commission has approved three grants for Missouri and one for Kansas.

The grants were made Thursday at the commission meeting here.

One of the Missouri grants is for $60,000 for the state's Department of Community Affairs to develop a foreign trade and export project.

Missouri officials said the department will name a commission to direct the program. They said it would give the state a better chance to open foreign trade officers, to increase the effectiveness of the St. Louis Port Authority and to attract foreign investment.

They said such a project would provide the "necessary procedures to attract a foreign airline into Missouri," would increase methods to develop the Kansas City Trade Zone and would increase export opportunities for Missouri firms.

The program would become effective June 30 and would be completed by May 20, 1974 unless all parties agreed otherwise.

The commission also approved a supplemental grant of $53,641 for expansion of the Joplin, Mo., Airport. The FAA will provide a basic grant of $113,086 for the project and the remaining $59,445 will be paid through local funds. The ORC funding will provide for expansion of the runway-apron and other improvements.

A basic grant of $175,000 was approved for the expansion of programs and facilities at the South Central Area Vocational Technical School at West Plains, Mo.

A grant of $25,000 was approved for Farm Products Management, Inc., of Cherryvale, Kan.

E.L. Stewart Jr., federal co-chairman of the ORC, complained that this corporation had not already become "self-sufficient." At his suggestion the commission approved the grant pending the corporation's ability to prove itself successful.

Say Pilot Of Downed Plane Died in Crash

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — The pilot of a U.S. Air force plane which crashed in Cambodia was killed, and the cause of the crash is still unknown, the U.S. Pacific Command announced Saturday.

The plane crashed Friday near Siem Reap, 140 miles northwest of Phnom Penh. Reports from the Cambodian capital said it was on a bombing mission.

The plane was based at Korat Air Base, in northeast Thailand. The pilot had not yet been identified.

Gallup Says Nixon Is Down In Popularity

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — The Gallup Poll reports that President Nixon's popularity has dropped to its lowest point since he took office five years ago.

In the May 4-6 poll, 45 per cent of those interviewed approved of the way the President was doing his job. The highest level was 68 per cent approval in polls taken during November 1969 and January 1973.

The latest poll occurred after the President's April 30 television address in which he denied he had any prior knowledge of the Watergate affair or subsequent cover-up attempt.

His highest popularity rating followed the television addresses in which he announced his plans for ending the war in Vietnam and the peace agreement.

The President's popularity remained fairly high among Republicans in the latest poll, with 74 per cent approving. But only one in four Democrats approved, for 24 per cent. Forty-nine per cent of those calling themselves independents approved.

Gallup's pollsters questioned 1,531 adults, 18 years and older, at 300 locations across the country.

If an egg placed in a glass of water floats, it's because it is stale.

One Woman Is Killed In Auto Crash

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill. (AP) — Lena M. Neal, 70, of East St. Louis was killed Friday in a five-car accident on Interstate 70 in East St. Louis, police said.

Mrs. Neal, a passenger in a car driven by George P. Lay, 70, of Lovejoy, died when she was thrown from the car, police said.

According to reports, Lay was westbound on the Interstate when he sideswiped a car ahead of him. Police said he then apparently lost control, crossed the median into the eastbound lanes of the highway and hit two on-coming cars before finally striking a concrete bridge railing, throwing Mrs. Neal from the car.

One of the two eastbound cars struck by Lay's vehicle, authorities said, hit the fifth car involved in the crash.

Several other persons were injured in the wreck, but none critically, police said.

Premium on honesty in British system

Members of the British upper crust, who appear to have a particular weakness for sex scandals, have handed Prime Minister Edward Heath's Conservative government a new headache.

Already two Conservative members of the House of Lords have resigned. There is speculation that the scandal is wider in scope and perhaps involves national security, although Heath has denied this.

Lord Jellico and Lord Lambton, both members of honored British families, have admitted consorting with prostitutes, and have resigned their seats. MI-5, the British counter-espionage branch, is investigating the entire incident.

The revelations stir memories of another Conservative scandal 10 years ago, when War Minister John Profumo was caught in a sex scandal which many believe was instrumental in the resignation of Prime Minister Harold Macmillan four months later.

It is pertinent to recall, however, that Profumo fell not so much for his private indiscretions, but because he lied to the House of Commons when questioned about his actions. The British have always been able to excuse a little vice on the side, but to lie to one's colleagues is considered inexcusable.

This is a commendable tradition, and one that this country could stand to emulate in view of the Watergate scandal. How much better off we would be now if many government officials had given the American people the truth from the outset, instead of lies.

White House CAB nominee is blocked

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — The White House has been warned bluntly that its nominee for the vacancy on the Civil Aeronautics Board may "have a long, white beard before he gets a hearing" from the Senate Commerce Committee.

Astonishingly, the warning was delivered by a staunch White House supporter, Sen. Norris Cotton, R-N.H., who had been promised that Robert Murphy would be reappointed to the CAB.

However, White House aide Peter "The Fixer" Flanigan phoned the senator to say Murphy wouldn't be reappointed after all. Angrily, Cotton retorted that he wouldn't support the new appointee. Flanigan said the White House would get its way anyhow.

"Are you telling me I can't fight city hall?" Senator Cotton asked.

"Well, in a sense," said Flanigan."

"You better send up a young man, then, because he may have a long, white beard before he gets a hearing. This is a busy committee."

The tough Yankee has managed to hold off the hearing on the new White House nominee for three months now.

Footnote: The administration nominee is Oklahoma Judge Lee West. Flanigan's involvement in the appointment has brought charges that American Airlines wants Murphy out and West in. Murphy has opposed American on several issues before the CAB. Both Flanigan and American Airlines deny any behind-the-scenes agreements to dump Murphy for West.

WHITE HOUSE CONNECTION: A long-time Republican, Mayor Herbert Werner of Eatontown, N.J., has complained to President Nixon that John Ehrlichman may have cost his town a $25-million Army electronics facility. Werner wrote Nixon that he and an associate were present when a New York builder, Lester Dworman, told them he had access to the White House and that "Ehrlichman would see to it that Dworman received the award." Sure enough, Dworman got the $25-million deal. The General Accounting Office later charged it was awarded on the basis of "favoritism" and "unresponsive bidding." Dworman told us he didn't know Ehrlichman or anyone else in the White House. Ehrlichman did not return our call.

TELEPHONE MONITORING: Faculty members at the U.S. Naval Academy have been told "Big Brother" may be listening to their telephone conversations. An item in the school's weekly administrative bulletin states: "All personnel are advised that DOD (Department of Defense) Telephone Communications Systems are subject to security and management monitoring at all times...Use of the systems constitutes consent to monitoring for these purposes." Presumably, those who do not consent are required to install their own telephone system.

OAS SKULLDUGGERY: Employes of the Organization of American States have come to us with details of internal skullduggery. The charges include mismanagement of funds and violation of employe rights, especially American employe's. This latter revelation is likely to affect the American contribution to OAS. The United States has supplied 66 per cent of the organization's money since its inception. Because other member nations have reneged, the employes say, this has led to the mismanagement of funds. The employes have filed an injunction seeking to halt U.S. Treasury payments to the OAS until they are granted their due process rights. According to the employes, the other nations look out for their employes, but the State Department has assumed a "hands off" posture.

UNPAID BILLS: Several months ago we reported that the brass hats who run the U.S. Navy had, in the past several years, spent some $100 million more than had been authorized by Congress — a serious violation that the bureaucrats refer to as "overobligation." Such overspending also causes problems for the businessmen who deal with the Pentagon. Last fall, for example, the American Transfer Company of Baltimore hauled some general freight for the Navy and routinely submitted its bills. Back came the reply that, because of the "overobligating," the company would be paid only when the Navy received "additional funding and approval from Congress." In other words, the day of reckoning comes when a contractor has to be paid. Then the men with scrambled eggs on their hats wind up with egg on their faces.

SUPER PUNCH BOWL: Brig. Gen. Edmund Montgomery II, chief judge of the Army's Judge Advocate General reserve corps, appreciates the cooperation his men have received from the JAG school in Charlottesville, Va. To express his thanks, he has initiated "Operation Punchbowl Memorial." He is dunning some 600 reservists five dollars each to buy the school a punch bowl. The most expensive punch bowls rarely cost more than $300. A rough calculation, however, shows that the general could raise as much as $3,000. He would even be happy, he told us, if he collects $2,500. As one amused reserve colonel told us, it promises to be "one helluva punch bowl."

Tuition voucher experiment planned

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

ANTRIM, N. H. — Here in New Hampshire, the state motto is "Live Free or Die." If U. S. authorities approve — and that is a very iffy question — several thousand school-age children in New Hampshire will embark next fall on a great experiment in living free. They would be the subjects of the first true test of a "tuition voucher" system.

Kilpatrick

In one form or another, the system has been proposed since the days of Adam Smith. It was Smith's idea that the education of children is a mixed public and parental responsibility; he advocated public financing and parental choice. More recently such poles-apart philosophers as Milton Friedman of Chicago and Christopher Jencks of Harvard have urged the same basic plan.

The plan makes good sense. Somewhat over-simplified, it rests upon these propositions: That the state has a proper interest in the education of children; that within reasonable limits, the state should not dictate the kind of education a child receives; and that within a community, all children of school age are entitled to identical shares of public funds available for education.

Suppose, then, that a community has $800,000 to spend on education, and suppose that is has one thousand children of school age. The plan proposes that each child be allocated $800, in the form of a tuition voucher to be used by his parents according to their own free choice. The parents can send the child to any accredited school, public or private, anywhere in the community, the state, or the nation. The goal is not public-school education; the goal is plainly and simply education.

Some years ago, as a part of its massive resistance to school integration, Virginia experimented with a state-financed program along these lines. The Virginia plan did not permit the tuition grants to be used in church-operated schools — it was felt this would violate the state constitution — but otherwise it provided complete freedom of choice. Contrary to the apprehensions of many public school superintendents, the plan did not wreck the public schools or significantly diminish their funds. Contrary to the hopes of many libertarians, relatively few parents chose to participate. But until the Supreme Court killed the plan, perceiving it as a mere device to preserve segregation, the program offered a choice.

New Hampshire wants to have a go at freedom. For some months, a committee of top educators, assisted by Professor Friedman, has been preparing a model for an effectively unlimited tuition voucher experiment. The group has worked closely with the Office of Economic Opportunity, which has a severely limited experiment now under way in the Alum Rock school district of California. At Alum Rock, parents cannot make the fundamental choice of public or private eduation; they can choose only among six public elementary schools. New Hampshire would provide a truly free choice.

William Bittenbender, chairman of the New Hampshire Board of Education, is enthusiastically backing the experiment. Dr. Newell Paire, state commissioner of education, wants to see a test get started this fall. The state board voted 5 to 1 last month to give it a try. The education committee of the New Hampshire House of Representatives, in an informal poll, found 22 members for and only two against a pilot project. Gov. Meldrim Thomson has voiced strong support.

As soon as a final decision is reached on the one or two communities that would participate, an application will be made to the U.S. Office of Education for grants of $2.5 million a year for at least two years. If these were then extended for an additional two years, by the spring of 1978 some useful data could be examined.

Unhappily, Frank Carlucci, undersecretary of HEW, and Thomas Glennan, director of the National Institute of Education, are trying to drown the New Hampshire venture in cold water. Glennan is "personally convinced that a totally unregulated voucher system is likely to be a disaster." He has voiced a hundred reasons why it can't be tried in New Hampshire this fall.

The opposition of Carlucci and Glennan could be fatal, but HEW Secretary Caspar Weinberger — and beyond him, the President have the final say-so. The amount of money, relatively speaking, is small; the benefits of a pilot project are potentially great. Nixon many times has urged that educational experiments be tried when local people are ready and eager to try them. He has just such an opportunity here in New Hampshire.

Today's thoughts

And he said to them, "Why are you afraid, O men of little faith?" Then he rose and rebuked the winds and the sea; and there was a great calm. And the men marveled, saying, "What sort of man is this, that even winds and sea obey him?" — Matthew 8:26, 27.

Man must cease attributing his problems to his environment, and learn again to exercise his will — his personal responsibility in the realm of faith and morals. — Albert Schweitzer, African missionary physician.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

The Great Seal of the U.S. was first adopted by the Continental Congress, June 20, 1782, and by the federal government Sept. 16, 1789. Both sides of the seal are found on the back of all $1 bills, The World Almanac notes. It is inscribed with three Latin mottoes: Annuit Coeptis, meaning He Has Favored Our Undertaking; Novus Ordo Seclorum — A New Order of the Ages; and E Pluribus Unum — Out of Many, One.

The hummingbird

Upon the fence awhile it sits
Then round the weigela bush it flits
And this it does for hours and hours
Sticking its long tongue in pink flowers
Sucking the honey, warm and sweet,
This, and small insects does it eat
And from its fluttering wings is heard
A hum — it's called a hummingbird,
It's such a tiny little mite
And very rapid in its flight,
In weigela flowers is sweetness found
So it goes 'round and 'round and 'round
Until at last it stops to rest,
I wonder where now is its nest?
I watched it at the close of day
Then suddenly it flits away,
The twilight comes so swiftly on
The little hummingbird is gone
To hide away some place at night
And rest until the morning light
Awakes it and again it comes
To the weigela bush and hums
And when the flowering season's through
Of this bush, what will it do?
Throughout the garden will it find
The lovely flowers of every kind,
Digging insects and honey out
Usually there are lots of them about
But this year only one I see
And it's as busy as can be
Dipping into the flowers dense
Then resting awhile on the fence,
This one was early, more will come
I'll watch them and will hear them hum.

Nixon seen with back to wall

By BRUCE BIOSSAT
NEA News Analyst

WASHINGTON — Some close White House watchers, experienced in government, believe now that President Nixon is in a weakening fall-back position and may soon stand in danger of losing the presidency.

Biossat

His newest public statement, in which he acknowledges that in the name of national security he himself imposed limits on the White House-authorized Watergate inquiry and failed to heed early warnings of possible wrongdoings by high officials, is being read with shock in this capital.

A common reaction is:

"If the President can say these things today, why could he not have said them weeks or months ago?"

The judgment, then, is skeptical, even among seasoned sources friendly to Mr. Nixon. He is seen as stumbling backward under a widening, intensifying barrage, giving ground because he has to, likely to make further retreat.

Says one of these sources:

"I don't know how many shoes he's got to drop, but he's going to drop them one by one."

The President himself indicated this may not be his final word on Watergate. These are the very last lines of his 4,000 word statement:

"As more information is developed, I have no doubt that more questions will be raised. To the extent that I am able, I shall also seek to set forth the facts as known to me with respect to those questions."

In the view of veteran president-watchers, that is very mild language for the fall-back process they think is under way.

They see a certain assured, cool detachment in his first important utterance on April 17, when Mr. Nixon said he was conducting his own fresh investigation of Watergate.

His April 30 speech is put down as a major yielding to pressure, carrying with it acceptance of the resignations of top aides H.R. Haldeman, John Ehrlichman, and John Dean.

They rate his newest utterance, with its long elaboration of complex efforts to plug security leaks, as a painful concession of the President's early suspicions about Watergate — even as he protests again he had no prior knowledge of the June 17, 1972, break-in at Democratic offices.

One experienced observer thinks Mr. Nixon's presidency is now clearly doomed, that each fall-back darkens his prospect and renders him less and less able to govern the nation.

This man sees the President moving toward one of two positions, both of them bad. Of the first, he says:

"If he maintains his posture of innocence, then the broader the scandal gets — and it seems to be broadening almost every day — the worse he looks. In fact, to insist he knew so little when so much was going on around him could make him look like an idiot."

The perceived alternative, of course, is that Mr. Nixon knew far more than he has, up to now, grudgingly conceded. It is argued that to acknowledge this further involvement step by step is to crumble before the country's eyes and lose the last shreds of his credibility.

The appraisers I talked to think that, either way, his capacity to govern will be destroyed and he must then resign.

Hard Luck Joe may well have played the most expensive dummy of his long career in misbidding and misplaying hands.

North really shouldn't have redoubled. He had seen Joe mangle the dummy before.

As for West, he decided to gamble the hand out for the same reason that North should not have redoubled—Joe was going to be declarer!

West decided to open his third best diamond. Dummy's seven was covered by East's eight. Joe won with the queen and cashed the ace. East dropped the 10. Joe led a third diamond and after West followed, Joe thought and finally decided to finesse dummy's nine.

East was in with the jack. He cashed the king of hearts and after West played the three East shifted to a spade.

After that it was no trouble for East and West to cash all the hearts and spades and score a nice 1600 points.

If Joe had gone up with dummy's king of diamonds he would have made four diamonds and five clubs and a total of 1510 points.

Should Joe have taken that diamond finesse? Not on your life! The club finesse figured to work for him and he shouldn't have risked what did happen in diamonds.

While at Whiteman, he was honored during a dinner reception and given a tour of a launch control facility for the Minuteman Missile system.

Ozark Gets Blame For New Delay

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The refusal of Ozark Air Lones to submit a counterproposal to one submitted by the striking Aircraft Mechanics Fraternal Association is blamed for the latest break-off of talks between the two sides.

A spokesman for Ozark admitted that the refusal caused the disruption in the talks Friday but said the union proposal was not sufficient to warrant a counterproposal.

"There has been no significant movement by the union and no further talks are scheduled," the Ozark spokesman said.

The union renewed its charges of "bad-faith bargaining" against the company Friday, saying the association is ready and willing to meet but will not capitulate its position to the company.

Samuel Smith, president of ANFA Local 24, said both sides were requested to attend a meeting in Washington, with the National Mediation Board on Wednesday. An Ozark spokesman said he had not heard of the request, but that the company would attend if asked.

The 7-day-old strike has shut down Ozark operations in 62 cities and 15 states, idling some 2,000 employes.

At issue in the strike are wages, pension benefits and electronic surveillance equipment used by Ozark at its hangar complex in St. Louis.

Elected

Michael M. Rooks, 314 South Park, has been elected president of the Ozark Chapter of the Piano Technicians Guild, it was reported this week. The chapter is one of three in Missouri. Other officers named were J. W. Watts, 1605 South Carr, vice-president; George A. Young, Route 4, program chairman; and Ken Carter, Marshall, secretary.

$4 Million Damage Suit Against Actor

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Comedian Flip Wilson has labeled as "preposterous" the $4 million fraud and assault and battery lawsuits filed against him by a woman who said she was his personal and professional associate for 16 years.

Wilson said Friday that further comment would be "inappropriate" because "neither I nor my counsel have as yet seen the court papers.

"It is, and has always been, my practice not to comment publicly about my personal life," said Wilson.

The $1-million assault and battery action and the $3-million fraud suit were filed Thursday by Miss Sylvia Teresa Davis. She said Wilson kicked and beat her, threatened to shoot her and withheld money owed to her.

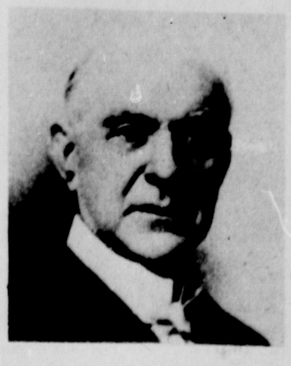
Sedalian Has Earned a Place in History

Francis Asbury Sampson, a prominent turn-of-the-century lawyer in Sedalia, spent 50 years of his life preserving the history of Missouri and eventually became a footnote in it.

From 1868 until his death in 1918, Sampson was a private collector, then a trustee, later the secretary and finally the bibliographer of the State Historical Society of Missouri, which observed its 75th anniversary yesterday.

His work with the society began with its founding in Eureka Springs, Ark., on May 26, 1898. In 1901, he was made the second secretary of the society at a salary of $125 a month. With that modest wage, the society gained not only a book collector with extraordinary talent, but a collection of rare books and pamphlets so important that the collection was the most valuable in the society's library for 40 years.

When Sampson took on the job of secretary, he brought with him a mammoth collection of books from his own library which he donated immediately to the society. The collection included 1,886 rare books and 14,280 pamphlets. Among the collection were many early and hard-to-find works by Samuel Clemens, better known as Mark Twain.



Francis Sampson

In 1901, he was selected as one of the society's first trustees.

The St. Louis World's Fair in 1904 was a special highlight of Sampson's long career. During that sparkling spectacle, the society had arranged a massive exhibition of newspapers from around the state. The exhibition of state documents featured 764 newspapers and magazines published all over Missouri, all dated from 1903, and gathered in 928 bound volumes.

For his efforts in the presentation of the exhibits, secretary Sampson received a silver medal and the exhibits were awarded a grand prize.

After his death in 1918, the society adopted a resolution of appreciation of his contributions and services, which was included in its minutes. For 50 years he had served the people of Missouri as the greatest collector and bibliographer of their historical records.

Sampson lived at 903 South Ohio, and had his offices at 314 South Ohio. He also was listed as vice president of the Missouri Trust Co. in the 1898-99 city directory.

Murder Charges Face Kansas Citian

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (AP) — James Edward Holbrook, 27, was bound over to Johnson County District Court Friday on a charge of first-degree murder in connectionwith the Feb. 10 slaying of an Overland Park woman.

Following a five-hour preliminary hearing before Johnson County Magistrate Earle Jones, Holbrook's district court arraignment was set for June 13.

Holbrook is charged with the death of Mrs. Ethel Lander, 47, whose nude body was found Feb. 20 in a wooded area of Lenexa. Dr. James G. Bridgens, county deputy coroner, testified his autopsy revealed the woman had died of strangulation. The state also charged Mrs. Lander had been raped.

School Superintendent Looking Forward to His Position

By JACK SCHICHT
Democrat-Capital Staff Writer

"Teaching is my first love," said Dr. T.J. Norris, who steps down as superintendent of Sedalia public schools June 30. "In my new position I'll be able to have a closer relationship with the students and also with the teachers. It's a job that I'll really enjoy."

It isn't too often that a man will vacate one of the top educational jobs in the state to return to the "lower ranks." But 57-year-old Norris surprised a few people last week when he announced that he had accepted a job to be principal next year at Sweet Springs R-7 Elementary School. Norris disclosed last February that he was resigning after 15 years as Sedalia's administrator of public education.

Norris' career has now come full circle since he quit the insurance business in 1946 to become principal, coach and teacher at a school at Stanford, Ky.

The son of Irish emigrants, Norris attended elementary and secondary schools in his native state of Kentucky. In 1940 he graduated from Kentucky Wesleyan University with a major in chemistry and later, when he realized his life's work would be in education, Norris earned a master's and doctorate degrees in education from the University of Kentucky.

Norris took his first job as a chemical analyst for Texaco at Pryse, Ky. But a plea from a former teacher sent him scurrying to Owingsville, Ky., in 1940 as a teacher and coach. A year later he journeyed east to Raleigh, N.C., "where I coached basketball and football and taught chemistry, physics and biology." Then came World War II and a four-year stint in the army.

Education Was It

"When I came out of the service I sold insurance for six months before I decided it wasn't for me," Norris said with a still noticeable Kentucky accent.

After five years at Stanford, Ky., Norris moved on to a high school principal's job at Harrodsburg, Ky., "the first permanent settlement west of the Allegheny Mountains." A year later, in 1953, he was named superintendent of that school system, a position he held until coming to Sedalia in 1958.

For 15 years Norris has guided the Sedalia school system through integration, building projects and curriculum changes. However, he is quick to point out the cooperation he has received from his associates and boards of education.

"I'm not totally responsible," Norris said. "I've been extremely fortunate to have worked with excellent, outstanding people who have made my job that much easier."

One of the most noticeable changes in the school system during Norris's term as superintendent has been the creation of special education classes. "There were no special education classes when I came here," he said. The program was expanded recently and will be based next year at Hubbard School.

A Time of Change

Norris's term as superintendent also saw other changes: vocational education expanded, increases in teachers' salaries, an improved transportation system, increases of state and local aid to education and a successful integration of junior and senior high schools.

Dr. T.J. Norris

Just recently Norris helped formulate an integration plan for Sedalia's elementary schools in order to comply with a federal desegregation order.

Speaking of the federal mandate, he said, "I'm still not convinced that the government's approach to solving all school integration problems is a solution or even a right approach to the problem. It's possible that this plan will work hardships on many children and their families. However, I anticipate that it will succeed.

Many new building improvements also were completed during Norris's 15 years as superintendent. Cafeterias were put in at Whittier and Horace Mann schools, physical education facilities were built at the high school and at Jefferson School, and two new schools were constructed: Heber Hunt Elementary School and the Sedalia Junior High School. These facilities were built after Norris put in long, hard hours stumping for two bond proposals.

Explains Reasons

When Norris submitted his resignation to the board of education, he cited the ever-demanding pressures of the job as the main reason for stepping down. "The bond issues especially were arduous and difficult ... they required a tremendous amount of work. But the pressure is part of the job, though, and when you take a job like this, you realize there will be pressure," he said.

The new job at Sweet Springs, Norris said, will not be without "pressure and frustrations. But these will be different pressures and frustrations."

Despite all the changes in the last 15 years, things haven't changed that much, Norris said.

"We had the same problems then (1958) as we have today ... making the money go as far as it can and trying to provide as many services as possible," Norris said. "Two hundred years from now administrators will be dealing with the same problems."

The students, too, haven't changed a great deal, Norris said. "They're maturing earlier now. Probably more aware of the world today and their place in it. But then we've always had children who were very anxious to obtain a good education, some who were indifferent and some who were opposed to education. The percentage has always remained about the same."

Norris said when he first came to Sedalia, the Parent-Teacher Association" was about the only group at that time actively participating in school affiars. Now the ordinary citizen is much more interested in education. I think it's true all over the United States."

Notes Changes

The school system has changed the past 15 years, but the superintendent's job basically remains the same, Norris said. "I'm responsible for the hiring of school personnel, physical plants, school services, business operations — anything and everything that has to do with the school system comes under my direct supervision. Whatever you name, I'm it."

Despite health problems, Norris still remains an active person. He has taught courses in school administration in recent years at Central Missouri State University at Warrensburg and is presently busy at work in his office at Smith-Cotton High School learning the "language" of new math through a correspondence course.

Norris said he advocated the philosophy of new math 25 years ago. "I always said we shouldn't separate mathematics into little pigeon holes... separating arithmetic from algebra and geometry. Mathematics interacts and should be taught as a whole."

But when new math was introduced into the school system a few years ago, Norris found himself in a bind when many parents came to him and complained about the system. "I didn't understand the language of new math either, even though I preached the system for years," he laughed.

In about a month, Norris will hand over the reins to the new superintendent, Dr. Allan J. Henningsen of Lebanon, Mo. When that day arrives, Norris said, he will offer little if any advice to the new administrator. "I'm going to let him make his own evaluation of the system," he said. It will be up to Henningsen to establish his own priorities, he added.

Norris said he still would travel the same roads if he were starting out again in the field of education. "I would do it all over again. There are more challenges for administrators today and at the same time it's a greater strain ... but it's still an interesting profession."

Tennis Enjoys Growing Popularity Here

By ROY M. CLARK
Democrat-Capital Staff Writer

Getting a tennis court at Sedalia's parks used to be a breeze. No more.

The game has grown in leaps and bounds nationwide during the last few years, and its popularity in Sedalia has paralleled that growth. It now often takes a lengthy wait to get on a court, particularly during the early evening hours at Liberty Park.

Solving over-crowded conditions should be a simple solution. Build more courts. The Sedalia Park Board has taken steps in that direction by authorizing Wolf Construction Co. of Sedalia to build four courts at Centennial Park.

The courts are to be lighted and are generally expected to relieve the congestion at Liberty Park. But Larry Whiteside, one of the organizers of recently local tournaments thinks overcrowding will continue. "The more courts you build, the more they will be filled," he said. "There's no end to it."

Whiteside means the game is growing so fast in popularity that it is hard to fill the demand for playing space. He said he made three trips to the Liberty Park courts this past weekend and failed to get on the courts.

"It's nationwide really," he said of the trend. "The increased television exposure in tennis has had a lot to do with it." The greatest increase has come from young players who are trying to learn the game, he said.

David Porter, who also spearheads the local tourneys, said there are several reasons for the growth. One is bigger purses in tournament play. It used to be nothing when a player won a tournament, but "now a tennis player wins $100,000 a year."

Porter said the game has much to offer the average player. "It tests you physically if you get into it." He added an individual can get much satisfaction from his caliber of play. "Competition is keen," he said. "The results depend on each player's own performance."

Porter agreed with the general consensus that the greatest need is for more and better lighted facilities. He said summer programs have gotten many more people interested in the sport.

The tournaments Porter and Whiteside organized the last two summers have attracted more than 100 entries on each occasion. The two said they plan to hold at least two and possibly three such events this summer.

Bill Steeljes, district manager of S&M Sporting Goods, said sales at the local store confirm the local growth of interest in tennis. He said .the store's display space has been tripled in the last three years. He estimated sales to be up at least 150 per cent over the same period. The store, he said, has begun to sell more tennis accessories as well.

Stelljes said since a court was built at Cole Camp, the business has sold tennis rackets to several customers from that area, an indication that the sport is popular in small towns also.

He estimated sales would have tripled if adequate local facilities were available, but many people didn't want to invest in equipment knowing they wouldn't have an ample opportunity to play.

Park Superintendent Jack Couts said the park department is "trying... to get facilities up to date." In addition to the current construction of courts at Centennial Park, he said the park board has looked for funds to build a basketball court at Vermont Park. This, according to Couts, would enable the existing tennis court to be used for tennis only. The court now has basketball goals as well.

Couts said the park board is also considering rejuvenating the court at Housel Park. The court was never used much for tennis in the past, but youngsters in the area played on it when the rest of the park was muddy, Couts said. With the recent growth of tennis, the Housel Park court could help relieve crammed conditions, it is believed.

In order to give the public more playing time, the park department adopted a 45-minute time limit at the Liberty Park courts when other players are waiting their turn.

Getting players to observe this and other rules would relieve problems while the wait for the opening of the Centennial courts continues.

Whiteside pointed out that many players don't observe the rule requiring players to wear tennis shoes while on the courts. This causes additional wear on the courts, which are not designed for street shoes.

Both Whiteside and Porter complimented the Park Department for improving facilities with the limited funds it has. Porter said the surfacing on the city's courts is in fairly good shape. He added he believed the park department would relieve the poor lighting situation also if it had the funds to do so.

So it would seem that the game of tennis has found many friends in Sedalia. Porter agreed, saying, "I think tennis has a good future in Sedalia."

Impeachment Idea Is Rejected

A solid 63 per cent of those readers responding to a Democrat-Capital survey concerning the resignation or impeachment of President Nixon said they favored neither one of these actions, despite the Watergate scandal. A total of 56 responses were tallied.

Most of those who voted for such action, however, insisted that their names be withheld. One of them wrote, "The Watergate scandal is but a drop in the bucket. I think if Nixon did not know of the activities of his associates he is unbelievably stupid and therefore does not have the knowledge or the wisdom to run a country. If he did know and is trying to lie out of it, he is worse than any criminal. In any case, he is not fit to hold the job as President and if he does not resign, I feel he should be impeached. I am afraid to sign my name as it seems everyone who does not agree with Nixon gets harrassed or arrested and I have a family to support."

Not all of the answers were quite so explicit.

Specifically, the survey sought to find answers to this question: "Some observers, in and out of government, have suggested that President Nixon should either resign or have impeachment proceedings begun against him because of the Watergate scandal. Do you favor this idea?"

Rich L. Smith, 1012 South Center, who voted "no," warned: "I answered no to the question because the question is entirely inappropriate here. The question asks one to decide a serious matter such as the President's impeachment, when in truth all of the facts concerning Watergate have not been made public yet."

Karl Brosing, Route 5, wrote, "I think the President has done the best he could. Those who are loudest against him are the most quiet about Senator Kennedy and that Cape Cod affair that he was mixed up in ..."

A similar sentiment was voiced by Mrs. C.L. Cooper, 408 North Prospect, who wrote: "I think President Nixon has done an awful lot for our country and for the people. I do not feel President Nixon had anything to do with the Watergate scandal and I will refuse to believe President Nixon did have anything to do with it until it has been proven, and it has not ..."

A LaMonte reader, Georgia Gilham, wrote, "I don't think our President should be put out of office. I believe the same thing was done by the Democrats, only they weren't caught. I believe it is Communist-inspired to make our country look bad."

On the opposite side of the ledger, W.G. Doyle of Smithton said, "Richard Nixon is no less a common thief now than he was proven in 1952. He deserves impeachment and imprisonment."

A reader who asked not to be identified said, "I don't see how anyone could have any trust in him. It's a disgrace to our flag and country to have such a president. He is a ruination of our beloved country."

Another anonymous writer submitted this view: "The Watergate affair has been blown out of proportion. People are tired of hearing about it. Has everyone forgotten that our President ended the war and brought our POW's home? Having our government in an uproar is playing into the hands of the Communists. They love it." The vote, from Cole Camp, was not to impeach or ask for Nixon's resignation.

A Sedalia couple who asked to remain anonymous cast a qualified "no" vote. The letter said: "My husband and I both feel if our President is involved ... he should resign, not be impeached. We think that would degrade our nation. (We) also feel Mr. Nixon did know something about what was going on, but probably didn't realize the enormity of the thing. After all, he was a very busy man trying to end the war and bring our POW's home ..."

An Otterville reader who favored the impeachment or resignation idea wrote, "President Nixon should resign as he is no longer capable of leading our country. Better yet, he should be impeached. He is doing great harm to the Republican party and this should never be permitted to happen in our Democratic form of government. We need the two-party system. I think that the majority of the people feel as our family does — that Nixon does know about Watergate and he has helped plan and promote it ..."

One reader said, "Let us stop this loose talk about impeachment or resignation, which would not solve anything except tear our country apart. It seems that human thought is so fickle and unstable that it can easily be swayed by inflamatory statements, whether based on truth or heresay. Should not a man, even though he be President, be judged in the final analysis by the majority of good deeds, rather than gloating over the misjudgment in trusting his subordinates ...?

"Our President, in this tragic hour, needs some compassion and appreciation for his good works. We might well recall, another time, another situation, when an accused one was taken 'in the very act' and the Master Christian answered the accusers with the statement, 'He that is without sin, let him cast the first stone ...' So let the accusers of our President lower their voices until all the facts are in, rather than precipitately condemning, judging and executing our President."

Federal Budget Cut to Hurt Land Reclamation Projects

PITTSBURG, Kan. (AP) — There are 150,000 acres of unreclaimed strip-mined, unusable land in Kansas, Missouri, Oklahoma and Arkansas and "reclamation will take a big drop" after this year.

That report was given Thursday by Dr. Kay Camin, project director at the third Mined-Land Redevelopment workshop.

Sponsored by the Ozarks Regional Commission, the workshop probably was the last because the commission has been cut out of the federal budget.

Dr. Camin said reclamation "won't stop completely—after four years there is some momentum, but the pace will be slower." Costs have been shared by the project and the landowners.

The project has helped financially in restoring 2,000 acres of the 5,000 acres reclaimed in Kansas. A 1969 law now requires miners to restore the land as they mine it.

Frank Kudrna, planning engineer with the Metropolitan Sanitary District of Greater Chicago, told how his district is hauling sewage sludge 200 miles to enrich 11,000 acres of reclaimed land in Fulton County southwest of Chicago.

"Sewage sludge has a valuable role to play in reclamation of strip-mined areas," Kudrna said. "We're sold on the natural use of the land." The district must acquire more land, he said, because it will take 30,000 acres eventually to use all of Cook County's sludge.

Scott Brundage, conservation director for Peabody Coal Co., said high soil acidity prevents growth of most grasses on reclaimed land in Macon, Boone and Henry counties of Missouri.

He said 12 inches of soil covering the gob or slurry (wastes from strip mines) is adequate. Many, but not all, of the slurries in the Midwest can be planted, he said.

Dr. Darrell L. King of the University of Missouri and Dr. J. Carl Bass, Pittsburg State College, reported on ways to reclaim strip mine lakes.

King said addition of any organic matter to the lakes counteracts the acidity and can produce complete recovery of the lakes.

Bass is studying use of lime to counteract acidity and make lakes habitable by fish.

Dr. Camin said the project may continue to exchange information after it runs out of money when the Ozarks Regional Commission goes out of existence this year.

Terming the project successful, she said investing $300,000 will bring $800,000 annually to the reclaimed areas in direct and indirect benefits.

ISRAEL: A Flame Rekindled

XII: Is Peace Possible?

Shalom. Salaam.
—Peace, in Hebrew and in Arabic

They have healed the wound of my people lightly, saying "Peace, peace," when there is no peace. —Jeremiah 8:11

The lands of the Middle East, the wellspring of civilizations, have never known peace. Although the branches of the olive trees which grow on the Mount of Olives are symbolic of peace, although the man who is known as the Prince of Peace was born here, there is no peace here.

Do the Arabs want peace? The Israelis say they do not, because the existing governments would be overthrown if peace were made, because Jordan and Egypt would lose their subsidies from oil-rich Arab states once peace were made, because the Arabs would lose whatever sense of solidarity they possess once the Israeli challenge were removed. Moreover, say the Israelis, the Arabs have not yet recognized the State of Israel, nor have they abandoned their goal to drive the Jews into the sea.

Do the Israelis want peace? No, say the Arabs, because they need a state of war or threat of war to keep the money flowing in from Jews around the world, because they need a continuous crisis to maintain domestic morale, because they need a war economy to maintain a high level of economic activity, because they need the myth of the beleagured Jewish homeland to attract new immigrants and to prevent the return of the trend toward outward migration which was evident before the Six-Day War.

The arguments on both sides seem to be overpowering. How can anyone imagine for a moment that anything can be in store for the Middle East except more bloodshed and more bitterness and certainly at least one more all-out war?

Yet, and yet ... The people, both Arab and Israelis, are sick of war. Among Arabs and Israelis, there are sharp critics of the existing governments and their collision-course policies. Familiarity of war has not brought a diminished fear of war. And, finally, both the United States and the Soviet Union may yet come to realize that their self-interest demands a calming down of the Middle East.

As Israel celebrates its 25th anniversary as an independent state, it must — as must its Arab neighbors — think ahead to the next 25 years, really a short period of time. As the American Friends Service Committee reports, "The peoples of the Middle East are tired of this conflict. They want to get on with the task of building a decent existence for themselves and for their children. They do not see a way out and their passions are inflamed by new calls to arms. Yet, at the same time, they could be moved by a vision of peace with justice if enough voices are raised for such a vision — before everything blows up again."

High Point Trophies To Two Riders

(Democrat-Capital Service)

OTTERVILLE — Pat Cooney won the children's high point trophy and Bob Bishop took the same honor in the adult division in a horse show held here recently by the Jesse James Trail Riders.

Other winners and their catagories were: J. H. Schallenberger, western pleasure; Susie Rennirt, youth pleasure; Vonda Harrelson, women's pleasure; Bob Boline, men's pleasure; Bob Bishop, fox trotting; Tricia and Bub McFatrich, tandem bareback; Pat Cooney, flag race, 13 and under.

Richard Dowell, flag race, 15 and over; David and Lisa Lewis, pickup race, 13 and under; Richard Rush and Dave Sullen, pickup race, 14 and over; Pat Cooney, barrel race, 13 and under; Howard Foxworthy, barrel race, 14 and over; Bob Bishop and J. B. Meyer, sack race; Tricia McFatrich, pole bending, 13 and under; Jack Schallenberger, pole bending, 14 and over; and Richard Dowell, keyhole race.

Teachers Are Named For Honor

Three Sedalia school district teachers are among those named "Outstanding Elementary Teachers of America for 1973," Jerry Parker, principal of Mark Twain Elementary School, announced Thursday.

The teachers selected to receive the award are Mrs. Ardelle Jones, first grade teacher at Mark Twain; Mrs. Evelyn Rabourn, remedial mathematics teacher at Hubbard School; and Mrs. Annie L. Payton, fifth grade language arts teacher at Mark Twain.

The teachers were nominated by their principals earlier this year and were selected for the honor on the basis of their professional and civic achievements.

The "Outstanding Elementary Teachers of America" award is an annual awards program. The three local educators are now eligible to receive the Teacher of the Year award trophy. Five $500 unrestricted grants will be awarded to the schools represented by America's five teachers selected to this position.

The three teachers will have their biographies featured in the awards volume: "Outstanding Eleme ntary Teachers of America."

Faith in Mankind Restored by Cash

MUSKEGON, Mich. (AP) — David Gudelsky said his faith in man was restored when he received $18 owed his family's defunct clothing store.

The $18 bill had been owed for an overcoat and pair of shoes purchased 42 years ago during the depression. The store closed in 1931.

"I don't even remember the man or the transaction," Gudelsky said Friday after receiving the money in the mail. "During those days $18 was a lot of money and there were no credit cards. You shook hands."

Gudelsky said the money was mailed to him from Grand Rapids.

He's No Lepidopterist

By RICHARD ARMOUR

I am not nor have I ever been a lepidopterist. A lepidopterist, as you know, is a student of butterflies or, more accurately, of Lepidoptera.

As one who cannot tell a butterfly from a moth, I am glad that the term Lepidoptera includes both. Henceforth, to be on the safe side, I shall not cry out, "Look at the pretty butterfly!" but "Look at the pretty lepidopter!" because it might be a moth, and I am wrong about enough things already.

Probably I have thought a moth was a butterfly more often than I have thought a butterfly was a moth, because I understand that in North America there are about 9,000 kinds of moths and fewer than 700 kinds of butterflies.

I am vaguely aware that either a butterfly or a moth starts out as an egg and then becomes a larva or caterpillar and then turns into a pupa — all this before becoming an adult.

By comparison, the development of a human being is quite simple, involving only such phenomena as birth and adolescence before achieving adulthood. But of course neither a moth nor a butterfly goes through such a ghastly stage as adolescence.

I know it is the moth, in its larval stage that eats holes in my best clothes, and always precisely where they show most. But I also know that one kind of moth (the only insect except the honeybee domesticated by man) spins a silk cocoon out of which beautiful cloth is made. If I could train these moth larvae to replace the holes in my suits, I would think better of moths than I do at present.

Moths have more specialties than physicians. In caterpillar form, for instance, the clothes moth eats clothes, the fur moth, somewhat darker and more sinister looking than the clothes moth, eats fur, and you can figure out for yourself what the carpet moth eats. There is also the birchleaf moth that nibbles on birch leaves, the appleleaf moth that gnaws the leaves of apple trees, and so on. The woolly bear moth does not, however, eat woolly bears, nor does the great tiger moth devour great tigers. Neither, I might add, has a Sphynx moth ever been known to have taken any bites out of the Sphynx.

As for butterflies, I like their fanciful names. Consider the Mourning Cloak, the Buckeye, the Red Admiral, the Cloudless Sulphur, the Spicebush Swallowtail (a full-dress type), the Viceroy, and, reaching the top of the royal hierarchy, the Monarch.

That is about enough for a non-lepidopterist to say about lepidoptera, except that if you think butterflies are just for looks, you are mistaken. Fried in palm oil, while still in caterpillar state, they are said to taste like shrimp. I would rather fry a clothes moth larva, though, fresh from my closet, and then not eat it.

Court Martial Trial Begins At Leavenworth

LEAVENWORTH, Kan. (AP) — Maj. Michael S. Davis testified Thursday he broke up a loud party in the enlisted men's quarters at a South Vietnam military base in 1971 when he was wounded and Maj. Robert Degan was fatally shot.

Davis' testimony came at the opening of the Army general court martial trial of Spec. 4 Alfred Flint, who is charged with murder and attempted murder.

The case is being tried by a court panel of eight officers at Ft. Leavenworth.

Davis, one of the first day's principal witnesses, said he stopped the playing of a tape recorder-player and escorted a black enlisted man from the quarters. He said he was shot above the left eye and heard a second shot, apparently the one which killed Maj. Degan.

The shootings occurred at Quang Tri Combat Base in South Vietnam Jan. 7, 1971.

Flint was convicted previously by a court martial in Vietnam. However, that conviction was reversed on an appeal on technical grounds.

Flint, a black enlisted man, is being represented in the new trial by Joseph Remcho, Arpiar Saunders and Dolores Donovan of the Lawyers Military Defense Committee of the American Civil Liberties Union.

The defense contends that Flint is being tried only because he is a black enlisted man accused of shooting white officers and that the government had destroyed evidence which would show Flint's innocence.

The defense also charges the government had illegally wiretapped an attorney-client discussion and had systematically excluded young enlisted persons from the trial jury.

Capt. Jerry Shannaker, the government's attorney, said there had never been any evidence of wiretapping.

Conspiracy Conviction Is Obtained

ABILENE, Tex. (AP) — Two Laredo men, Arturo Jaime Lerma Sanchez and Carlos Guillermo Salinas Jr., were found guilty Friday in U.S. District Court here for conspiracy to possess and distribute cocaine.

The jury deliberated about six hours before returning the verdict at 7 p.m.

Judge Leo Brewster set sentencing for noon next Friday.

Sanchez and Salinas were accused of conspiring to transport cocaine from Muevo Laredo, Mexico to Corpus Christi, Arlington, Fort Worth, Dallas and Overland Park, Kan., and to distribute the drug at those places.

The other persons, including three Texas Christian Univesity students, pleaded guilty on various counts in the same indictment. Another defendant, Manuel Sandoval Martinez is in custody in Mexico.

Antibusing Pressure Is Eased by Tie Vote

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court's tie vote on whether school desegregation efforts must stop at the county line has eased the pressure in Congress for antibusing legislation.

Splitting 4 to 4, the justices affirmed a lower court ruling that barred a merger of the predominantly black public school system of Richmond, Va., with the mostly white schools in two suburban counties.

Justice Lewis F. Powell Jr. disqualified himself because of previous service on both the city and the state boards of education.

The court deadlock, and the lack of any opinion explaining its order, left antibusing forces in Congress inclined to await further developments before pushing for legislation. The tie vote set no precedent, and the decision applies only to the Richmond case.

A spokesman for Sen. James B. Allen, D-Ala., a leader in last year's fight to pass an antibusing measure, said the effect of the court's action has been "to defuse the issue."

Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., a civil-rights advocate who voted against the legislation, agreed that this is the case "for the moment."

But he told a reporter the antibusing drive could be revived if the U.S. 6th Circuit Court of Appeals upholds a lower-court judge's order for the consolidation of schools in Detroit and surrounding counties.

The case is not likely to reach the Supren. Court before next year.

The Senate Judiciary Committee earlier this year held two days of hearings on proposed constitutional amendments designed to preserve neighborhood schools.

Chairman James O. Eastland, D-Miss., said he intends to try for a Committee vote, but the chances of any of the amendments being approved appear dim.

Federal-aid-to-education legislation is in the works, however, and will provide a vehicle to which antibusing amendments can and probably will be offered.

Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., said that while he thinks the Supreme Court order in the Richmond case "pretty much sets the pattern" so far as busing between school districts is concerned, many intradistrict cases remain.

Space Repairmen Unfurl Sunshield

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The Skylab 1 astronauts Saturday night unfurled a huge sunshield to cool their overheated space station and almost immediately the 125-degree temperatures in the cabin began dropping.

"Very good, very good," mission commander Charles Conrad Jr. exclaimed when Mission Control told the astronauts the readings were falling and that by morning they should below 100 degrees.

Conrad recommended that he and his crewmates, Dr. Joseph P. Kerwin and Paul J. Weitz "press ahead" with a full day of work in the station Sunday, activating medical, scientific and earth resources equipment.

"We won't be riding any bicycles or anything in there, but at least we can get in and start configuring things," Conrad said. "If it gets too warm we can come up and take a rest."

He meant they could retreat to the cool safety of the Apollo command ship or two other station compartments not affected by the heat, which resulted when a protective shield ripped away during the launch of the Skylab May 14.

Working in the swelter of Skylab's main compartment, astronauts Conrad and Paul J. Weitz popped the shiny aluminum and orange canopy open in an effort to shade the station's outside hull and prevent it from soaking up blistering solar heat.

It was like a sail that was not fully inflated by the wind. Conrad and Weitz projected the device, folded like a parasol, through an air lock, joining five 4-foot pole sections to extend it 20 feet above the roof of the station.

Conrad, Kerwin and Weitz boarded Skylab wearing masks but tests showed no poison gases were present.

They also paused often to admire the view of Earth, passing by as a parade of blues, whites, greens and browns below them.

"It's kind of hard to get away from the windows, especially for the new boys," said space veteran Conrad, referring to rookies Kerwin and Weitz. "The Pacific Northwest is really something. We're over what appears to be a fairly major weather system with pretty good clouds in the Montana-Dakotas region."

At one point, Skylab passed over the Cape Kennedy area and the astronauts said they could see the launch pad from which their mission started Friday with a flawless lift-off.

Weitz was the first to enter the overheated main compartment of Skylab. He floated in and then came out after about five minutes to report.

"It feels like 90 to 100 degrees in the desert," Weitz said after visiting the workshop chamber. "I can feel heat radiating all around me. In the short time I was in there, I never felt uncomfortable. Nothing I touched even felt hot to me."

In a "very quick inspection" of the workshop Weitz said "it appears to be in good shape. A little warm as you might expect."

"Very nice," Conrad commented earlier as he first boarded Skylab by drifting through a hatch of the attached Apollo ferry ship and into the first compartment of the 118-foot-long space station.

Graduates of SFCC Are Given Challenge

By MAX ERKILETIAN
Democrat-Capital Staff Writer

The largest graduating class in State Fair Community College's brief history was issued a challenge to "go forth and do the job our society will demand," by Dr. Franklin King, coordinator of industrial education at the University of Missouri-Columbia, during commencement exercises in the Agriculture Building Saturday evening.

The fourth graduating class totaled 190 students.

King outlined ten "capabilities" for the graduates to follow in order to achieve success in society. Among the ten capabilities listed by King were: drive, responsibility, analytical ability, creativity, foresight, communicative skills, technical proficiency, social ability, resourcefulness and judgment.

Speaking on drive, King noted any undertaking should be, "seen through to completion." He said there are many "fast starters", but each project begun must be carried to its conclusion, "since rewards are paid for those jobs finished."

He noted responsibility ties closely to drive and that, "freedom is given to those who have a proven record of responsibility." Anyone can boost their record of responsibility, according to King, by maintaining a high analytical capability. Through proper research, King said, one can determine which course will offer the best results in life.

King told the students one of the most important assets to possess is creative capability. He noted that creativity does not mean "going out and rediscovering the wheel." Instead, King's definition of creativity stressed improving society.

Foresight is needed by the successful man or woman, King declared, to replace daydreams. To express ideas, King emphasized the importance of

High Court To Rule On Fund Question

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Missouri Supreme Court will have a chance this week to decide once and for all who has the authority to direct how state funds should be spent — the governor or the legislature.

Tuesday afternoon, the court will hear arguments in a suit brought by Democratic leaders in the legislature, challenging the governor's veto of certain words in an appropriations bill.

Striking the words, the legislators contend, changes the intent of the legislators' purpose when they approved expenditures.

The legislators have no quarrel with the governor's right to decide not to spend the money, because they can always override the governor's veto.

By trying to override the word vetoes in the $16.8 million supplemental spending bill for the current fiscal year, the legislature would have been admitting that Bond's word vetoes were legal.

The court issued a preliminary writ against spending the money in agreeing to hear the case, but nearly all the money already has been spent.

Argument Not New

It has been a long standing controversy.

Former Gov. Warren E. Hearnes struck the words "Poplar Bluff" from a bill to spend over $600,000 for a new Troop E. highway patrol headquarters. Hearnes favored having the new headquarters in Sikeston. It had been in Poplar Bluff for 38 years.

A judge decided to leave the decision up to the Highway Patrol superintendent but said the Highway Commission had to approve ' spending highway funds for the project.

The Highway Commission voted for Sikeston last winter, but the new commission, appointed by the new Republican governor, voted again and agreed with the new superintendent to keep the headquarters in Poplar Bluff.

At issue in the current case is Gov. Christopher S. Bond's veto of the names of companies who were to be paid for work and supplies at the 1972 state fair, the words "west side" from a $1.1 million measure for restoring the Capitol's west side, a date from a bill giving the Bi-State Transit System money to pay off a debt, and the words "for operation" at the Lee C. Fine airport at Lake of the Ozarks.

Bond said the airport money was needed for equipment, but the appropriations committees had stricken money for equipment. The governor produced a letter showing the appropriations chairmen in the Senate and House intended to have $96,000 spent on inside repairs and office space in the Capitol.

That clause was not in the bill when it went to the governor and the legislators contended Bond could refurbish his own office since they are on the west side of the Capitol.

The outside of the century old building is in need of repair. West side walkways and steps are crumbling. The other three sides have been rebuilt.

On the state fair money Bond contended that removing the names of the companies would enable the Agriculture Department to pay other debts in connection with the fair.

Suit Against State Treasurer

The suit actually is against the state treasurer and the Office of Administration. Bond is involved because he is the acting commissioner of administration.

And the suit was not filed by the legislature in general, but by 11 individual legislators who happen to be Democrats.

Among those are Senate President pro tem William J. Cason of Clinton, House Speaker Richard J. Rabbitt of St. Louis and Appropriations Chairmen Norman L. Merrell of Monticello, in the Senate, and James "Jay" Russell of Florissant, in the House.

Cullen Coil, attorney for the legislators, says he will "zero in" on the governor's argument that the had constitutional authority to make the vetoes and that his action did not change the purpose of the legislation.

Bond said he welcomed the suit to get the issue settled. Legislators say that if it is not settled, similar word vetoes could be used in appropriations for the $2 billion state budget for the fiscal year beginning July 1.

A section of a constitutional amendment on government reorganization approved last August says, "No money shall be withdrawn from the state treasury by warrant withdrawn in accordance with an appropriation made by law, nor shall any obligation for that payment of money be incurred unless the commissioner of administration certifies the expenditure is within the purpose as directed by the General Assembly ..."

The Massachusetts Supreme Court ruled that a governor could veto items or portions of items in a money bill but could not veto specific instructional language.

The governor is relying on a Missouri constitutional provision saying, "The governor may veto any item or portion of any item of any appropriation bill or the whole thereof; except that the governor shall not reduce any appropriation for free public schools or for the payment of principal and interest on the public debt."

Another section of state law says the legislature cannot legislate in an appropriation bill. The legislature has interpreted this to mean that no law can be enacted in a money bill.

Serious Violation Is Reported

SAIGON (AP) — The Saigon government announced Saturday that Communist gunners shot down an unarmed South Vietnamese helicopter on a liaison mission, killing all 12 persons aboard, including a regimental commander.

The government also disclosed it had learned from diplomatic sources that Canada and Indonesia are considering withdrawing from the international peacekeeping commission for Vietnam.

The two problems for the Vietnamese cease-fire came as roving U.S. Ambassador William H. Sullivan completed his swing through Indochina to confer on a peace proposal for the troubled area.

Sullivan had spent three days in Saigon going over the program worked out in Paris by Henry A. Kissinger and Hanoi's Le Duc Tho. He traveled Saturday to Phnom Penh, capital of Cambodia, for an hour's conference with President Lon Nol and then continued on to Vientiane, the capital of Laos.

The shooting of the South Vietnamese helicopter was termed one of the worst violations of the four-month-old Vietnam cease-fire by Lt. Col. Le Trung Hien, chief spokesman for the Saigon command. He said the aircraft was over government-controlled territory 30 miles north of Saigon when it was downed Friday.

There was no immediate comment from the Viet Cong.

Another Saigon command spokesman, Lt. Col. Do Viet, said his government would ask for an investigation by the four-nation International Commission of Control and Supervision, set up to referee the cease-fire.

The Saigon government told of the possible withdrawal of Canadian and Indonesian representatives from the commission and for the first time publicly criticized the Hungarian and Polish delegations to the commission.

Cox Needs Time To Catch Up

WASHINGTON (AP) — Even though they have been told to procede full steam ahead on the Watergate investigation, federal prosecutors are known to feel they can only crawl forward until their new boss catches up.

The basic problem is that U.S. Atty. Harold H. Titus Jr. and three prosecutors from his office no longer have the authority to make decisions on their own, and the man who now has the authority doesn't yet have enough information.

The new man at the top, Archibald Cox, was sworn in as special prosecutor in the Watergate case on Friday. But it will be weeks, perhaps several months, until Cox can familiarize himself with the complex, convoluted case that has been unfolding here for more than 11 months.

Moreover, in addition to the local Watergate case, Cox has said he intends to delve into related matters such as the Los Angeles burglary of the office of a psychiatrist treating Pentagon papers defendant Daniel Ellsberg.

When asked how great the contemplated problems and delays would be, a Justice Department spokesman said he thought they would be minimal. But a source close to the prosecutors disagrees.

"The prosecutors are trying to get cooperation from some of the individuals caught up in this case," the source said. "In return for that cooperation, the lawyers for those people want certain guarantees, certain assurances for their clients. But the prosecutors can't give any assurances. They don't have the authority any more.

"Without authority to make decisions, they're stuck in the mud."

Cox wouldn't comment on the matter, but a Justice Department spokesman did.

"Cox will be consulted on any decisions," the spokesman said. "I can only repeat what Cox said in his letter: that he wants to be consulted on all these things and we don't think there is going to be a problem."

The letter referred to was one from Cox to Titus last Thursday in which Cox laid out in no uncertain terms that he was in charge, and that the future of current Watergate prosecutors is yet to be determined.

"As soon as I have taken office in the department, I would of course expect to be consulted before any decisions were made," Cox wrote.

Holiday Gasoline Is Short

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

Holiday motorists are finding gasoline in short supply during the Memorial Day weekend, with many service stations limiting sales and others warning that they may run out of fuel by the time the homeward traffic crush begins on Monday.

An Associated Press spot check showed that most motorists will be able to find enough gas for their tanks. But authorities warned drivers to plan ahead and not count on finding unlimited supplies along turnpikes and other large highways.

William E. Simon, deputy Treasury secretary and chairman of the Oil Policy Committee, cautioned before the holiday that spot shortages of gas could occur throughout the nation.

Don Hinman, acting Civil Defense director in Iowa, said, "It appears that the big crunch will be this weekend. By Monday, many stations along the interstate are going to be short, if not out completely."

Hinman said he checked 50 to 60 service stations along Interstate 80. "We found that in most cases the supply of gasoline and diesel fuel is not going to carry them more than two or three days," he said. "Many of the stations are pretty much rationing diesel fuel now, limiting trucks to 30 gallons at one time."

The Wisconsin division of the American Automobile Association said that a survey of more than 700 service stations in the state showed most would have adequate supplies. Some stations in the Milwaukee area, however, were limiting sales to out-of-state customers to five gallons per driver. Gas stations in the Lake Geneva area, a popular resort region, were selling no more than 10 gallons to a customer.

Tornado Devastates Oklahoma Community

KEEFETON, Okla. (AP)-A tornado flattened most of this small northeast Oklahoma community late Saturday afternoon, killing three members of a family and injuring 19 others, authorities said.

About 75 per cent of the town's structures were destroyed. Keefeton has a population of about 400. An amatuer radio operator at the scene said "nothing has been left standing."

The town, located about ten miles south of Muskogee on U. S. 64, was sealed off by officials because of leaking gas lines.

The dead were identified by Muskogee General Hospital officials as Charles Dornan, his wife, Sue, and their daughter Linda. A spokesman said one daughter, Beverley, was in critical condition and another daughter, Goldy, was in poor condition.

The hospital said it had no information on Dornan's occupation or the ages of any of the dead or injured.

"I never saw a funnel as such. It was a big, black cloud on the ground."

The hospital spokesman believed there were no other dead or injured. However, earlier the Oklahoma Highway Patrol had reported four dead.

John Lewis Stone, managing editor of the Muskogee Daily Phoenix and Times Democrat, was one-half mile east of Keefeton when he saw the storm coming.

"There were people running around screaming and bleeding and there was gasoline all over."

He drove his auto off the road and jumped into a ditch.

"I never saw a funnel as such," Stone said. "It was a big black cloud on the ground. There was debris flying out of the sides of that cloud." Stone said. He said the storm was about the width of the town.

"After it hit I drove in as far as I could. There was a big truck in the highway and the cab was ripped off. I stopped at a filling station where cars were piled up everywhere.

"There were people running around screaming and bleeding and there was gasoline all over. We dug five people out of the wreckage of the service station.

"Some of the people were pinned in and we needed help for them. There were in very bad shape. Most were covered with blood. One man was completely naked, and another man was lying right beside a dead horse. I'm sure he was dead--he didn't have much of a head left," Stone said.

He said several autos near him had two-way radios and the first help arrived within 15 minutes of the afternoon disaster.

Stone said many butane tanks were "erupting in every direction."

Some Tips in Buying a Home

By PETER WEAVER

Like everything else, closing costs for buying a home have been going up through the roof.

These costs include title search, title insurance and various other fees and taxes. According to the Department of Housing and Urban Development, closing costs for homes selling for more than $28,000 can range anywhere from $300 up to $1,000.

Most home buyers spend a considerable amount of time and effort looking at neighborhoods, analyzing floor plans and checking the proximity of schools, transportation and churches. But when it comes to the legal gobbledygook at the closing ceremony, the buyer just wants to get it over with and signs on the dotted line.

You can cut down a number of these closing costs if you investigate them as carefully as you investigated the location of your new home. First off, you've got to understand that the real estate agent represents the seller, not the buyer, and the lawyer at the closing ceremony (if one is required) represents the lender. All these people may murmur friendly phrases but they are not being paid to look out for your better interests.

You must get your own lawyer, one who is wise in the ways of real estate law. Your local bar association can give names. Consult with your lawyer as soon as you've found the home you want. Never — but never — sign anything without showing it to your lawyer. That little deposit and piece of innocuous-looking paper the real estate agent has you sign "just to keep the other buyers away" is often an actual contract to buy the home. Signing at the closing ceremony later on is usually just a formality.

In shopping around for a good mortgage lender, ask plenty of questions. Ask, for example, if you can choose your own title search or escrow company. Ask each lender to give you detailed lists of all closing costs even if they have to estimate some of them. Use these lists to make cost comparisons.

If you're allowed to choose your own title company (or title lawyer), ask for prices on these basic items: title search or examination, settlement fee, fees for preparing deeds and other papers and title insurance. In a check around my area, costs for these fees on the purchase of a $40,000 house ranged between $336 and $416.

Remember, you do not automatically have to accept the title company, lawyers and other fee chargers designated by the lender or real estate agent. The more a lender tries to tie you to its own title company or lawyer, the more reason you should move on to another lender.

The lender must be protected by title insurance which you pay for. You can also buy insurance on top of this to protect your own investment against any defects in the title. For example, a previous owner's missing heir may show up or a forged release may be revealed. These things rarely happen but when they do it can be devastating. Title insurance is relatively inexpensive and will give you "peace of mind."

If you aren't buying your home through an FHA- or VA-backed loan and are making less than a 20 per cent down payment, your lender will require mortgage insurance for protection against the possibility of your failing to make payments. You will be asked if you want "owners'" mortgage insurance which is a form of life insurance to protect your heirs in case you die. The insurance pays off your mortgage.

Home buyers under 35 will probably find they can get this kind of life insurance protection for less money elsewhere. But older buyers should consider it. You get in on a group plan without a physical examination and will probably find mortgage insurance cheaper than policies you could get elsewhere.

Couple Sues Government For $1 Million

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — A Collinsville couple whose home was mistakenly invaded by federal narcotics agents has filed a $1-million damage suit in U.S. District Court.

The suit filed Thursday alleged the couple, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Giglotto, was "assaulted, battered, falsely imprisoned . . . frightened, upset and caused to become severely ill."

The Giglottos have said that 15 agents carrying guns invaded their home April 23 without a warrant, held a pistol to Giglotto's head, handcuffed the couple and ransacked the house before admitting they had raided the wrong address.

Rules To Follow For Poor Service

Dear Ann Landers: You've spoken up for many special groups. Please print this for the most abused, poorly treated, unappreciated of all service people. I'm referring to gas station attendants. Here are some rules to follow if you want to get really rotten service next time.

When you drive into a gas station, think ahead and park on the wrong side of the pump. The attendant will have to be an acrobat to fill your tank. Don't be surprised if he drops the nozzle on your fender and chips off some paint. (He knows how to get even.)

Never be ready to order. Search your pockets and handbag to see how much money you have — then make up your mind.

Leave your engine running while the service is being given. So what if the attendant gets a lungful of exhaust fumes?

If you come at a busy time and all the attendants are busy, blow your horn and let everyone know your time is more valuable than theirs.

Finally, never have a kind word or a thank-you for the attendant. After all, he is extremely well paid and there's no sense in spoiling him. Besides, his job is a barrel of laughs — sun, rain, cold wind. He has a real fun job. — Ex-Pump Jockey

Dear Ex P.J.: Thanks for letting us know how it is on the other end of the nozzle. I hope this letter helps.

Dear Ann Landers: We have three normal (straight) teenagers and a fourth daughter who took to drugs four years ago. She married the village idiot, a worthless bum, even though we pleaded with her not to. After a baby and 14 months of starvation she moved back with us.

We furnished her with free room, board and laundry. She never lifted a finger around the house. Within six months she picked up a second loser and went on another rebellion kick. She spent the baby's first Christmas in another town with her loafer-sweetheart. Shortly after that she moved into an apartment with him — unmarried, of course. He is on parole, having served time for four felonies and shows no signs of straightening out.

She refuses to get psychiatric help and claims we are the ones who need it because we will not accept her for what she is.

Question: Should we try to help her anymore? What about the baby? — Decatur, Ala.

Dear Alabama: It is useless to try to force help on someone who does not want it.

Offer to take the baby for awhile, but don't let her move back in after the second loafer cuts out — unless she agrees to go to work and pay for her keep, that is.

Dear Ann Landers: I am only 27 years old but I'm afraid I'll look like 50 in a year or two. My hair is turing grey and my husband will not permit me to touch it up. What bothers me more than anything is that my mother-in-law keeps asking me what I'm worried about. When I tell her I am not worried about anything she insists I am hiding something, because a person doesn't get grey "for no reason" at such an early age.

Does grey hair come from worry or is this an old wives' tale? — The Old Grey Mare

Dear Mare: Grey hair is the result of glandular secretions. It has nothing to do with worry. Heredity is the major factor. As I've said before in this space, I love grey hair. On other people.

Is alcholism ruining your life? Know the danger signals and what to do. Read the booklet, "Alcoholism — Hope And Help," by Ann Landers. Enclose 35 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to this newspaper.

Jensen Firm Has New Location Here

The Paul Jensen and Co., manufacturers of electric motors, recently expanded to a second manufacturing facility at 107 North State Fair Blvd., according to company president Paul Jensen.

Jensen said the second manufacturing site will employ about 50 persons. He added there are presently 30 job openings at the new facility.

About 80 persons are employed at the company's other manufacturing plant at 519 East Third.

Jensen said increased sales and limited space at the Third Street plant were the determining factors for opening a new manufacturing plant. The company's offices also have been moved to the new facility.

The company last fall vacated a facility near Benton and Missouri, but Jensen said this building was not used for manufacturing purposes — mostly as a warehouse.

Jensen, who also is executive vice president and half owner of the Clyde Equipment Co. of Arnold, Mo., said that company's die casting plant at Arnold may be moved to Smithton. The plant recently was damaged by flood waters.

Jensen said he will move the Clyde Equipment Co. plant to either Smithton or relocate near St. Louis. He would not speculate when a decision would be reached.

The plant, which employs 20 persons, makes zinc die castings which are used in the manufacture of small appliances, motors and automotive equipment, Jensen said.

School Greenhouse Is a Marijuana Farm

MESQUITE, Nev. (AP) — Two students at Virgin Valley High School here have been arested for growing marijuana plants in the school's greenhouse, authorities say.

Blaine Allen, school principal, told Clark County sheriff's deputies Friday he and a teacher discovered a half dozen plants growing in a gallon can behind some other plants.

Deputies said the plants were "growing healthily" and booked the two teen-agers for investigation of cultivating a controlled substance despite their claims they were conducting an experiment.

Argentine Prisoners Are Freed

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — Argentina's new Peronist government freed nearly 600 political prisoners from jail Saturday and announced that workers might be given emergency salary increases.

Many of those freed had been convicted of guerrilla terrorism.

Predawn rioting outside the Villa Devoto prison, where 186 of the prisoners were held, took the lives of two teen-age boys. Eight other persons were injured and 100 young people arrested before the crowd was dispersed.

In Cordoba, hundreds of demonstrators gathered outside the provincial jail demanding a release of political prisoners there.

Authorities said that in the confusion, 50 common criminals, including convicted killers, escaped into the streets, seizing automobiles for their getaway.

President Hector J. Campora, in his first full day in office, scheduled a meeting with U.S. Secretary of State William P. Rogers to review U.S.-Argentine relations. Rogers came here for Campora's inauguration Friday. He said the United States hopes to have good relations with Campora's government, despite Peronist charges that "Yankee imperialism" is largely responsible for Argentina's economic problems.

Campora's new labor minister, Ricardo Otero, 49-year-old leader of the metalworkers union, announced that the government is considering an immediate salary increase for the nation's nine million workers. The increase would offset the inflation of more than 27 per cent since Jan. 1.

Congress met Saturday to consider an amnesty bill submitted by Campora during his inaugural address Friday. The bill would cancel the convictions of the nearly 600 political prisoners to whom Campora granted executive pardon late Friday night.

The pardon came while more than 20,000 persons were demonstrating outside the gray stone walls of Villa Devoto. They demanded that political prisoners be freed immediately.

Police said the rioting developed when some demonstrators tried to force their way into the jail to free common criminals not included in the executive pardon.

Intelligence Operations Revealed

NEW YORK (AP) — Newsweek magazine said Saturday that President Nixon approved using the CIA and FBI for domestic intelligence operations in mid-1970, but withdrew the plan after objections by J. Edgar Hoover and then Atty. Gen. John M. Mitchell.

Despite Nixon's decision to shelve the plan, said Newsweek, White House agents, who were not identified in the article, in the following two years "made surreptitious entries to undermine the defense" in at least three court cases against radicals.

The magazine said undercover agents "working for the administration" made the entries in three cases involving the Black Panthers, the Berrigan brothers and the Chicago Seven. It gave no further details.

Newsweek said that according to congressional sources, President Nixon on July 23, 1970, approved a plan for domestic intelligence gathering that "called for unprecedented cooperative effort" by the CIA, FBI, the National Security Agency and the Defense Intelligence Agency.

The plan focused on leftist groups and "proposed opening radicals' mail and harassing them with tax audits," the magazine said.

It also authorized the FBI to undertake foreign intelligence operations inside the United States, including embassy break-ins, while the CIA got a green light to run its own domestic operations.

The latter included spying on high U.S. officials who were suspected of being security risks, Newsweek said.

Newsweek said President Nixon withdrew his approval of the plan on July 28, 1970, after then FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover "refused to go along."

"... Hoover protested to Atty. Gen. John Mitchell, who backed Hoover's case," the magazine said, adding that when Hoover reviewed the plan "he scrawled objections on almost every page."

Death Toll Soars

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Traffic deaths climbed to 164 at 12 p.m. EDT Saturday, the first full day of the Memorial Day holiday weekend.

The count began at 6 p.m. Friday and will end at midnight, local time, Monday.

Flood Waters Continuing To Recede

ST. LOUIS (AP)—"There's not much activity with the river now," an official of the Army Corps of Engineers said about the Mississippi River here Saturday. "We're just watching it go away."

The still-muddy river continued its steady fall all along the Missouri border and stood at 29.5 feet at St. Louis Saturday, the first official reading below the 30-foot flood stage since March 10.

The National Weather Service had predicted the Mississippi would dip below flood level Friday, and a special reading by the Corps marked it at 29.99 feet Friday morning.

Ed Buchhold of the Corps Flood Control Center said there are still a couple hundred thousand sandbags in the St. Louis area, but the prospects for using them are now minimal. He said some 5.5 million sandbags were used from Hannibal to Cape Girardeau, Mo., during the two-month flood seige.

If the river continues its steady drop, Buchhold said the Flood Control Center may discontinue its around-the-clock operations next week. Except for a few days in mid-April the center has been manned 24 hours a day.

The Corps expects the river to drop below flood stage at all points in the state along its banks by June 1.

communicative skills. He said countless ideas have been lost due to an inability to communicate.

He touched lightly on technical proficiency, saying it "is a must, but will be lost unless you use these other capabilities." One of the other capabilities King offered to back technical proficiency was social ability. He said to advance in society today, each person must join in the activities of his community. "The day of the lone wolf is dead in our society," he said.

King also urged the utilization of resourcefulness and judgment. "Try to get it together," King urged, "so you will have a basis for your decisions." He also advised students to learn from the mistakes of others because, "you won't have time to try them all yourselves."

Earlier in the ceremonies, William Hopkins, chairman of the SFCC Board of Trustees, commended the class for their efforts "to create good will" for the institution. "They (graduates) can take pride in the fact that they helped pioneer this institution in its embryonic stages," Hopkins said.

Dr. Marvin Fielding, vice president of instruction, introduced Dr. King.

Incident Escalates 'Cod War'

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (AP) — The North Atlantic "cod war" escalated Saturday when an Iceland coast guard gunboat shelled a British trawler in disputed fishing waters, putting at least two holes in its holds.

Icelandic sources said the trawler Everton defied coast guard efforts to detain it and ignored warning shots across its bow.

The shooting at sea was the most serious incident so far in the dispute over Iceland's claim to 50-mile offshore jurisdiction. Britain has refused to recognize the 50-mile limit and has sent Royal Navy ships to protect British fishing boats.

No casualties were reported among the Everton's crew of 21. The trawler was said to be listing heavily Saturday night.

The British frigate Jupiter was steaming toward the scene, about 200 miles northeast of Reykjavik near the Isle of Grimsley.

The Aegir's aim was to arrest the Everton, which had become separated from the main body of the 33-vessel British fishing fleet.

An arrest would have been the first since the start of the cod war last September, when Iceland extended its sea limits from 12 miles offshore to 50 miles, despite British protests, to protect fishing grounds.

Icelandic patrol boats have been harassing British trawlers for months, cutting their lines and maneuvering near them.

The quarrel intensified a week ago when the British government ordered three Navy frigates into the disputed zone as cover for the trawlers.

Iceland says its vital fishing industry depends on fish in the 50-mile band around it and that foreign fishermen jeopardize its harvest. Britain claims the area beyond 12 miles is open sea and traditional fishing ground for British boats.

Capture Youths After Road Chase

(Democrat-Capital Service)

CALIFORNIA — Two youths, one of them a juvenile, were apprehended north of here Saturday evening shortly after the armed robbery of the County Corner Liquor Store just southeast of Boonville, according to the Cooper County Sheriff's Department.

After a chase involving the fleeing youths, the Highway Patrol, and the sheriffs of Cooper and Moniteau Counties, William James MacLary, 18, Wilmington, Del., and a juvenile acquaintance were taken into the custody of Cooper County Sheriff Sam Morris.

The youths were apparently involved in the armed robbery of the liquor store where $30 in cash and an undetermined amount of liquor were taken shortly before their apprehension. A spokesman for the Cooper County Sheriff Department said a pistol was reportedly used in the holdup, which occurred around 5 p.m. Saturday.

MacLary will probably face arraignment on first degree robbery charges Tuesday, according to the spokesman, who added that the younger suspect had been turned over to juvenile authorities.

Cyclist Is Hurt

A car motorcycle accident at West 16th and the Grant's Parking lot exit about 2:19 p.m. Saturday resulted in minor injuries to the cyclist.

According to police reports, the accident occurred when a 1969 Chevrolet driven south from the parking lot onto 16th by Mrs. Ruth Ella Bultemeier, 55, Smithton, collided with a 1973 Yamaha driven west on 16th by Michael Anthony Menefee, 18, 3005 Skyline Drive.

Menefee was treated and released at Bothwell Hospital, according to a hospital spokesman.

Thefts Reported

Police investigated the theft of a mini bike and two tires and wheels in separate incidents early Saturday.

Stephan Snider, 403 East Boonville, reported the theft of his 1973 Mountain Trail mini bike from his yard between 8 a.m. and 9:30 a.m. Saturday, according to police.

Police reports also revealed that Vince McKine, 415 North Prospect, reported the theft of two tires and wheels, valued collectively at $50, from under a stairway in his yard late Friday or early Saturday.

Trial Separation Planned by Couple

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actress Barbara Eden and actor Michael Ansara say they will begin a trial separation Tuesday after 15 years of marriage.

"We agreed it would be better to give ourselves an opportunity to see if we would perhaps have a happier life apart. We will continue to share things together with our son, Matthew, whom we both love very deeply," the couple announced in a statement read by a spokesman.

Miss Eden will continue to live at the family's San Fernando Valley home with the couple's 7-year-old son, the spokesman said Friday.

Miss Eden starred in television's "I Dream of Jeannie," and her husband starred in the TV series "Broken Arrow."

There are more women than men in Ontario and Quebec.

People in the News

The 28,500-mile voyage took him seven months.

Baranowski, 35, set off in his racing cruiser "Polonez" last year from Plymouth to compete in a transatlantic race. But he decided to sail around the globe instead.

Among those who met Baranowski on Friday was Bill King, a British commander who finished his 'round-the-world sail three days ago.

BELGRADE (AP) — President Josip Broz Tito has celebrated his 81st birthday with greetings from the people and national figures.

An official announcement said Tito entertained top leaders at a luncheon on Friday and also received well-wishers from various levels of the country's Communist party.

The celebration was climaxed with a giant evening birthday party in the army stadium. Birthday greetings gathered throughout the country by thousands of relay runners also were presented.

LONDON (AP) — Queen Elizabeth II has made Lady Sharples, the 49-year-old widow of Sir Richard Sharples, a baroness for life.

Sir Richard, governor of Bermuda, was murdered March 10 together with his military aide.

The honor was announced Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald D. Waltemeyer, 611 West Fourth, announce the engagement of their daughter Deborah Irene to Richard Griffiths, son of Mrs. Doris Odell, 404 East 19th, and Richard Griffiths, Warminister, Pa.

The bride-elect will be a May graduate of Smith-Cotton High School.

Her fiance, a 1969 graduate of Smith-Cotton is a lance corporal in the U.S. Marine Corps stationed at Okinawa.

Liberty Park Wedding For Dillion - St. Cin

The marriage of Miss Helen Marie Dillon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter C. Dillion, 2010 East Sixth, and Edwin J. St. Cin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin C. St. Cin, St. Clair, was solemnized at 11:30 a.m. May 19 in Liberty Park.

Officiating at the ceremony was the Rev. Earl Fedderson, St. Clair.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a self-designed formal gown of blue satin which featured an empire waistline, bishop sleeves and long skirt that flowed to a chapel train in back. The bodice and sleeve caps were overlaid in hand embroidered Swedish lace and the dress was completed with a self belt bow adorned with lace motifs. She carried a single long stemmed red rose with ribbon streamers.

Maid of honor was Miss Lorine Heuerman and matron of honor was Mrs. Steven R. McConnell. Both were similarly gowned in pastel blue dotted Swiss and each carried a single long stemmed white rose.

Best man was Steven R. McConnell.

Assisting at the picnic reception held in the park pavilion were Miss Donna Cason and Miss Elizabeth Dillion, sister of the bride.

Good Food Delights Belles

By TOM HOGE
AP Newsfeatures Writer

What do you feed 750 Southern college belles to keep them healthy and happy? Ask Miss Betty Carr, who has been planning meals for the girls at Mary Baldwin College in Staunton, Va., for the past 30 years.

I had a chance to talk to Miss Carr, known to the students as B.C., during a recent visit to my family's home in Staunton. I soon realized what a problem it must be to feed so many young women three times a day, six days a week and twice on Sunday.

"I give them plenty of homemade biscuits and rolls, and I have discovered that they love such dishes as hominy grits," said B.C.

"But I don't try to serve that soul food from the Deep South. I gave the girls turnip greens once; they simply didn't go for it."

Actually the girls at Mary Baldwin are not all from the South by any means. They come from all over the United States and many foreign countries and their preference for food follows no set pattern.

If there is any common denominator, it lies in the fact that most girls today are weight-conscious and oriented pretty much toward diet dishes.

"They avoid most anything that goes to fat," said B.C., adding quickly, "except for the homemade breads, and biscuits made each day in our kitchen."

Hungarian Goulash and Beef Stroganoff are favorites at Mary Baldwin. So is Southern fried chicken with rice and gravy, which is not exactly a diet dish.

Ordering food for 750 girls is a major operation in itself. It involves such shopping items as 500 gallons of milk, 200 dozen eggs and 130 pounds of sugar. It also involves brewing 298 gallons of coffee and making 2,500 rolls each week.

"The girls are tremendous breakfast eaters," she said. "Those on a diet may skip other meals altogether, but rarely breakfast. In fact some students will eat 6 to 8 eggs."

When B.C. tries out a new recipe she watches the plates as they are returned to the kitchen to see how her innovation has gone over. B.C. traces her love of cooking to the fact that her mother was a good cook and an easy hostess in the old Southern tradition. The family came from Charlotte, N.C.

Cigarette Habits Going Up in Smoke

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Cigarette smoking is going underground although it may be less harrassing to try to kick the habit than to find places where one can smoke in private.

So says Jacquelyn Rogers of Phillipsburg, N.J., a heavy smoker for 22 years, who is helping other smokers to resist cigarettes using a program she had devised for herself.

The California legislature, for example, is considering a "1973 Nonsmokers' Bill of Rights" that would establish nonsmoking areas in public buildings.

"Smoking became a cultural thing and it has come full circle — it is no longer considered nice to smoke. Many people, especially intellectuals, are going to great pains to conceal their identity with cigarettes — even hiding them in other people's desks," Mrs. Rogers learned in conducting her seminars for Smokenders, the organization founded five years ago by her and her husband Jon, a dentist.

Housewives often are heavy smokers because they are more successful in squeezing in smoking time at home, and they are likely to find it harder to give up than most smokers, she explained.

Mrs. Rogers has worked with more than 1,800 people and she has given additional training to students who have helped another 6,000 in seminars conducted in the Northeast, although now they are expanding to other states and a chapter has been formed in Arizona.

"Smoking is more than a nasty little habit," she remarked. "A number of students say they continued after several heart attacks and warnings by doctors. They simply couldn't stop. Involvement may be physiological, psychological, automatic and social. But it can be dealt with . . ."

A significant test for cut-off potential that might be tried at home is this one: Go 5 or 10 minutes without the usual cigarette and coping with the delayed action may put you on the road to ending the habit.

"But one shouldn't feel sorry for herself eyeing cigarettes and watching the clock during the time the urge is being delayed. Self-pity must be avoided. The person should do something — play with the dog, play a record, clean out a drawer . . ."

On one occasion she added in class ". . . or take a shower . . ." but one man rose to say that he always had to smoke in the shower.

That is why one of the first aims of the smoking seminars is "to break the conditioned response." They find out what triggers smoking — answering the telephone, applying makeup, drinking cocktails or coffee. Some people must have a cigarette and coffee the moment they get out of bed. Many have told her they drink quantities — 30 cups for one man — of coffee because it makes cigarettes taste better. Others think they smoke because it makes the coffee taste better. For some winning the cigarette battle has helped cut the intake of coffee.

Some students do not realize what triggers their heavy smoking until they chart the course of eating, smoking and drinking habits in a day. After that the problem is more easily tackled and delay periods can begin, Mrs. Rogers explained.

"For example, a man may not realize he is driven to smoke at certain times by frustrations. He may smoke more at home ('my mother-in-law lives with me') or he may smoke more in the office ('I work with the boss's son and I don't like him')."

Highly successful people often feel they cannot do a good job unless they are fortified by cigarettes, she says. And creative people often correlate their artistry with cigarettes. When they cut off they are quick to find the opposite is true, she says.

On the other hand people who work with their hands do not smoke as much as they think they do. For one six-pack-a-day hairdresser it was merely light up and let burn out, the chart revealed.

The course concentrates on positive aspects of cut-off . . . the satisfying feeling of improving one's self image, she remarked. The 35-to 45-year age group is the most receptive and best motivated to the program because "they are just beginning to notice their vitality is ebbing on the tennis court and in the swimming pool . . ."

A youthful-looking, earnest mother of four, Mrs. Rogers is sympathetic to the pangs suffered by her students. She had tried every method of quitting cigarettes including psychiatry and hypnosis. She wasn't even fazed by the laboratory horror pictures of the lungs and digestive system brought home by her husband, she says. But when her children were teenagers — three are now in college, and one is 12 — she began researching every available book and pamphlet on the subject.

Divorce Weighted Against Women

By ROSETTE HARGROVE

PARIS — (NEA) — One of the many changes in the pattern of living of the French is the rise in divorce rates.

The generally held view that divorce is less frequent and harder to obtain than in other Western European countries, if only because the "family" has withstood the onslaught of the permissive society, is disproved by official figures.

According to a recent study, out of 10,000 douples, 33 end in divorce in France.

Statistics also indicate a sharp increase not only in the over-all rate of divorce here — 40,000 decrees granted in 1970 compared with 36,000 in 1968 — but show an even sharper increase in the number of divorces above a certain age. Since 1960, 32 per cent more couples are divorcing in the 40-to-49 age group and 63 per cent in the over 60s.

According to Simone Cornec, a well-known divorce lawyer in Paris, the past 20 years have seen an increasing number of middle-aged and even older men wishing to divorce. Most frequent reason given was that the wives were unable to keep up with a husband's social ascent. The real motive, she underlined with a whimsical smile, was just as often the chance meeting with a younger woman and the increasing conviction of middle-aged men that they were still young enough to start another life.

Infidelity was responsible for two-thirds of all divorces. Alcoholism for one quarter. Madame Cornec stressed the fact that the hyprocrisy and resignation which once kept ill-assorted couples together had now all but disappeared.

Another important angle is that divorced couples no longer are ostracized socially and even in hidebound, conservative circles divorce no longer is looked upon as a lot on the family escutcheon. Financial considerations have almost no deterrent effect any more. Alimony, as a matter of fact, except in cases of wealthy couples, was often based on a judge's estimation of each case. French judges anyway were reputed to underestimate the compensation owing to a wife whose husband had asked for the divorce.

The old joke about love being the favorite indoor sport of the French still stands. A recent surpey showed that French couples spend an average 25 minutes three times a week on this "sport." Yet a poll conducted by the IFOP (Institut Francais d'Opinion Publique) revealed that there were still 71 per cent Frenchwomen under 30 who claimed to be virgins on their wedding days.

Frenchmen, according to Madame Cornec, are increasingly losing their sense of responsibility. They do not know how to adjust to old age, not to mention earlier retirement age.

Wives, however, according to her experience, had more often than not their share of responsibility in the breakup of a longstanding marriage. The reason? Demands for equality. They insist on the same rights as men but do not know how to live up to them.

In every country the situation is tragic for the woman in her late 40s or 50s who is left behind. She might have held a secretarial job before marriage but gave it up to take care of her children and her home. Yet when the separation comes, she does not have any specific qualifications to ensure her a standard of living to which she has become accustomed.

Obtaining legal proof that a husband is able to pay adequate maintenance has always been difficult in France. Even when children were involved a judge was inclined to assess a "living allowance," as alimony is known in France, at a ridiculously low rate, especially as compared with the United States.

Actions for nonpayment of alimony were apt to be sidetracked and prove too costly for the more modest applicants. No ex-husband ran the risk of going to jail for nonpayment of alimony, as in England.

A law passed a year ago seeks to close this glaring legal loophole, protecting women such as one known to Madame Cornec whose ex-husband's income was the equivalent of some $25,000 but who had to go to work as a charwoman in a department store. In the past, all too many divorced Frehcnwomen have been in similar predicaments.

Quotable Women

Here are some quotable quotes from women during the week:

"Poor people start saving from the day the daughter is born. The wedding becomes a sort of panacea for all our fears, a status symbol that says we made it big and daddy can send his daughter off in materialistic style. America's term for success." Marcia Seligson speaking about her new novel, "The Eternal Bliss Machine."

"It's all very simple. My engagement (to Arnaz) — our relationship — had been deteriorating for some time — pleasantly, luckily. We are no longer engaged. It's all called off." Actress Liza Minnelli.

"All my life I've worked within the system's organized groups, taking around petitions and filling in for speakers. I labored in the vineyards for 15 years before I ran for Congress and I've been able to assess the weaknesses and strengths of many of my opponents.

"I can explain to young people that they must work in the system. They can't just tilt at windmills." Rep. Shirley Chisholm, D. N.Y.

"The big problem in New York, as in any other city or state, is that the disabled are disorganized. The emphasis is on the disability rather than on the problems that the disabled have in common." Eunice Fiorite, head of a newly created Mayor's Office for the Handicapped in New York.

Lutheran Church Is Wedding Scene

Christ Lutheran Church formed the setting Saturday evening for the wedding of Miss Sharon Grother, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Grother, 917 West Fifth, and Carl Reque, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Reque, Route 2.

The Rev. Ron Beckman, Beatrice, Neb., and the Rev. Fred Hueners officiated at the double ring ceremony before an altar arranged with yellow and white killion daisies.

Warren Pahlow was guitarist for the event and Mike Beecher played the trumpet while Rusty Boehm was vocalist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor length gown of white voile and Cluny lace. Lace graced the square neckline, lantern sleeves and natural waist then bands of it streamed down the full skirt and encircled a deep flounce at the hemline and sweep train. Her Juliet cap of Venice lace and petals secured the three tier elbow length veil of illusion and the bride carried a yorktown bouquet of yellow and white marguerite daisies with baby's breath and a white satin shower. She wore a necklace given to her from the groom.

Mrs. Dennis Brant was matron of honor for her cousin's wedding. She wore a floor length gown of mint green polyester organza with short puff sleeves that was accented at the empire waist and square neckline with delicate Venice lace. She carried a nosegay of yellow marguerite daisies with yellow streamers.

Bridesmaids were Miss Shirley Stuart and sisters of the groom, Miss Donna Reque and Miss Debi Reque. All wore gowns of yellow organza styled identical to that of the matron of honor and they carried nosegays of yellow marguerite daisies with green streamers.

Miss Cindy Reque, sister of the groom, was flower girl in a floor length yellow skinner satin peau gown with flocked voile and she wore a wrist corsage of yellow marguerite daisies.

Art Reque served as his brother's best man and groomsmen were Bill Grother, brother of the bride, Bob McNeally and Ron Wight. Performing ushering duties were Dave Moellman, cousin of the bride, and Chuck Sweet, cousin of the groom.

Tom Reque, brother of the groom, carried the rings in a gold treasure chest which rested on a yellow satin pillow that had been made by the mother of the bride.

A church reception followed the ceremony where the bridal table, covered with a handmade tablecloth, held a three tier cake decorated with yellow marguerite daisies and smilax and two silver candelabra. A trellis trimmed with greens formed the background.

Serving at the bride's table were Mrs. Glenn King, aunt of the bride, Miss Elizabeth Lewis and Mrs. Ron Wight.

MRS. CARL REQUE
Miss Sharon Grother

attended by Mrs. Ron Bruns, cousin of the bride; Miss Mary Jo Ostern, cousin of the groom; and Miss Mae Lynn Sweet, cousin of the groom.

In charge of rice bags were Miss Jeana Bruns and Terry Bergan.

The bride wore a beige slacksuit with brown accessories and she carried a long stemmed yellow rose for going on a honeymoon to Eureka Springs, Ark.

The couple will reside in Warrensburg where both the bride and groom are students at Central Missouri State University.

To Celebrate

Mr. and Mrs. Albert S. Hill, 2503 West 11th, will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary with an open house for family and friends from 2 to 4 p.m. Saturday at their home. The event is being hosted by their children, Mr. and Mrs. Blaza Hejtmanek, 2503 West 11th; Mr. and Mrs. William Hill, Carroll, Iowa; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hill, Olathe, Kan.; and Mrs. Kenneth C. Hill, Augusta, Ga. The Hills have lived in Sedalia all their lives. They have 14 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren. (Democrat-Capital Photo)

Sedalia Grabs BJ Opener, 7-5

(Democrat-Capital Service)

MOBERLY — Sedalia's unpracticed, short-notice Ban Johnson League entry matched Huntsville hit for hit plus one here Friday and came out on top of their season's opener, 7-5.

Terry Hudson went the full distance for Sedalia, pitching himself into and back out of some tight spots, but "getting the job done," in the words of Coach Glenn Holmes. Hudson helped himself out by driving in two runs and scoring once himself.

Huntsville had a two-run lead by the end of the second stanza. Steve Vestal doubled across Mike Grider in the first after the latter sent a sizzler up the middle. The second inning saw John Summers double one off the centerfield wall to score Jeff Kribbs who had been given a free ride and advanced to second base by virtue of an error.

Sedalia tied it up in the third inning when Steve Holmes doubled, and rode home on Bob Pledge's shot over the right field fence.

Hudson doubled in the fifth and went to third on Pledge's grounder to the pitcher. Steve Eck's fly to deep right allowed Hudson to score, making it 3-2, Sedalia.

Chuck Huddleston got to first in the sixth on an error and then stole second on a passed ball. Roger Reid beat out a bunt to set up Pete Green's grounder to a confused shortstop with Huddleston scoring. Hudson's blast into left field scored Reid and Green but wasn't quite long enough to be stretched into a home run, which Hudson tried to do.

Looking at a 6-2 score, Huntsville put in a bid to even things up in their half of the sixth. But on four singles, they could come up with only one run, making it 6-3.

Pledge got a free ride in the seventh and then stole second. Jim Coffelt's sacrifice fly to center pushed him across.

Huntsville took advantage of a walk and an error in the eighth when Grider singled to drive in Huntsville's last two runs.

When asked about the overall quality of play Saturday, Coach Holmes said, "We looked pretty ragged, actually, when you get right down to it." The future does look good, however.

"I think they'll gel," Holmes added. "I think we'll hold our own."

California visits Liberty Park at 2 o'clock this afternoon and will face Bob Pledge on the mound. Pledge produced the only home run in Friday's contest.

'Dick' Peters Dead at 53

MANHATTAN, Kan. (AP) — Richard L. "Dick" Peters, whose career in football included all-conference honors as a player and seven Kansas Conference championships as a head coach, was found dead in his office Saturday morning of an apparent heart attack. He was 53.

For the past year he had been an administrative assistant to Kansas State University football Coach Vince Gibson. Two members of the school's coaching staff found him about 11 a.m.

A native of Valley Falls, Kan., Peters graduated from Kansas State in 1946 as an all Big Six end.

He was assistant football coach at Ottawa, Kan., University from 1946 to 1948, and became head coach in 1949. In 1953 he went to Southern Methodist University as an assistant coach, then returned to Ottawa three years later.

His record as a head coach at Ottawa won him election to the NAIA coaches hall of fame this year. His Ottawa teams notched a record of 129 victories, 42 losses and three ties. Under his direction, Ottawa won the Kansas Conference title in 1950, '60, '61, '64, '65, '66 and '70.

Peters' brother, Chester, is K-State vice president for student affairs.

Indy Betting Almost Nil

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — "Mark Donohue will make it two in a row," said the man in the red jacket, plaid pants and buckled white shoes, "and I'll bet on it."

"OK," said his companion at the bar. "I'll take Bobby Unser."

"For a beer?"

"A steak dinner."

"Deal—shake."

That's the high-powered wagering that goes on in this citadel of championship auto racing as 33 of the world's finest drivers put finishing touches on their winged thunderbolts for Monday's Indy 500.

From a spectator standpoint, this is America's number one sports event—some 350,000 buffs attending the giant Speedway for three hours of high-pressure, neck-rising excitement—but betting is almost nil.

There are no parimuteul machines, as at the Kentucky Derby and Preakness. Las Vegas puts out a meaningless line, for newspaper purposes only. The Nevada bet shops, where gambling is legal, report there is no action.

It's the same at Tattersall's in Sydney, Australia, and Lloyd's in London.

"You can't handicap a collection of nuts and bolts," one greasy veteran of Gasoline Alley here commented Saturday. "There's never been any serious betting in auto racing. There are too many variables."

A year ago Bobby Unser, starting from the pole, was leading after 30 laps in his Olsonite Eagle, when a distributor rotor cracked and knocked him out of the race.

"The thing cost $1.29," Dan Gurney, builder of the Eagles, said. "We sweep them up off the floor every day."

There are 20 Eagles in this year's race, seven McLarens, three Parnellis, two Foyts and a single Kingfish. The chassis are so alike, varying only perhaps in the slant of the wings, that only the most expert could differentiate.

Gurney acknowledges that he builds the Eagles and packages them the way Sears Roebuck might a vaccuum cleaner. You can buy one by mail order—if you have $35,000. You must add an engine, usually an Offenhauser for another $35,000.

Nobody yet has come up with a super machine that can dominate the field the way Secretariat dominates race horses. Drivers come in various categories, it is true, but nobody is willing to handicap the drivers because of the unpredictability of the machines.

AL Roundup

Northrup Keys Detroit Victory

DETROIT (AP) — Jim Northrup snapped an eighth-inning tie with a two-run triple and scored on a sacrifice fly by Aurelio Rodriguez to lead the Detroit Tigers to an 8-5 triumph over the Oakland A's Saturday.

Deron Johnson's two-run homer in the top of the eighth had pulled the A's into a 5-all tie but reliever Horacio Pina walked Rich Reese to open the Tigers' half. Then first baseman Gene Tenace fumbled Dick Sharon's sacrifice bunt, setting things up for Northrup.

The A's jumped on Woodie Fryman for a 3-0 lead in the top of the fifth. Tenace led off with a homer and singles by Rich McKinney, Dick Green and Bill North made it 2-0. Green scored on Sal Bando's groundout.

Detroit knotted it in the bottom of the fifth against Ken Holtzman, who was bidding for his seventh straight win.

New York 10, Texas 5

NEW YORK (AP) — Gene Michael hit a two-run homer and Bobby Murcer drilled a three-run shot in a five-run second inning Saturday that powered the New York Yankees to a 10-5 victory over Texas and extended the Rangers' losing streak to eight games.

With the Yankees trailing 3-2, Michael tagged Don Stanhouse, 0-5, for his 12th career homer following a walk to Celerino Sanchez. It was his second in two games and matched his previous high of three in one season.

Ron Blomberg doubled home New York's first two runs in the opening inning, extending his hitting streak to 15 games.

The Rangers reached Mel Stottlemyre, 7-4, for three runs in the second on a bases-loaded sacrifice fly by Ken Suarez, Stottlemyre's throwing error and Dave Nelson's bunt hit. Vic Harris homered as Texas chased Stottlemyre in the sixth.

Milwaukee 9, California 0

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Jim Colborn pitched a four-hitter for his fifth successive victory and Tim Johnson drove in two runs with a pair of singles Saturday, leading the Milwaukee Brewers to a 9-0 victory over the California Angels.

A walk and hit batsman set up run-scoring singles by Gorman Thomas and Pedro Garcia in the second inning against loser Rudy May, 4-5.

After a walk loaded the bases, Johnson's infield hit scored the third run of the inning.

A wild pitch and May's mental error led to another run in the fifth. Ellie Rodriguez singled, took second on the wild pitch, stole third as May took a full wind-up and scored on Dave May's sacrifice fly.

A double by Garcia and RBI singles by Johnson and Ollie Brown around a walk made it 6-0 in the sixth. Bob Coluccio doubled home a run in the seventh and the Brewers added two more in the eighth, with George Scott contributing an RBI double.

'Miss Hamm's'

Michael E. "Mick" Alfrey makes some adjustments to one of the twin-150 HP Chrysler engines on his 18-foot outboard racing boat, "Miss Hamm's." Four years ago, Alfrey gave up motorcycles and turned to boat racing, most of which is done with this $10,000-plus rig. (Democrat-Capital Photo)

World 600

Pearson Eying 5th Straight

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — David Pearson, stock car racing's hottest driver, seeks a record fifth straight superspeedway victory with the Wood Brothers' Mercury Sunday in the World 600 at Charlotte Motor Speedway.

Pearson, recovered from a recent virus infection, heads a star-studded 40-car field that takes the green flag at 12:30 p.m. EDT in the longest event on the Grand National circuit, a gruelling 600-mile test.

Defending champion Buddy Baker, million dollar winner Richard Petty and veteran Cale Yarborough also earned first and second row qualifying spots.

Baker, the pole sitter after touring the 1.5-mile asphalt oval at 158.051 miles per hour in qualifying Wednesday, is confident he can push his Dodge to victory again at his hometown track.

"I've just got that feeling," Baker said. "I'm gonna win it again."

Pearson, winner of the 1971 World 600 in a Pontiac, has recorded consecutive superspeedway victories at Rockingham, Atlanta, Darlington and Talladega. He also won a short track event at Martinsville during his current streak.

Pearson is easily the leading money winner on the 1973 tour with $87,580 and could add another $21,950 with a victory.

Atlas, Little Bear Take On Japanese

Tag team action will provide the main event in Tuesday evening's pro wrestling at Convention Hall as Danny Little Bear and Omar Atlas take on the duo of Tokyo Joe and the Great Togo.

Atlas will clash against Tokyo Joe in the 8:30 p.m. opener.

Tickets are on sale at the Coffee Pot Cafe and Zip Drug Store.

Griffith Scores Ace on WHCC 15th

After 10 years of play, Richard Griffith, 2703 South Kentucky, dropped one in on his first shot Saturday on the par 3, 159-yard 15th hole at Walnut Hills Country Club.

The ace came off a 5-wood shot on the short hole which is slightly uphill. Witnesses were Robert Zink and Cliff Maddox.

'Mick' Alfrey Has Fast Hobby With Racing Boats

By VAUGHN HART
Sports Editor

A lot of people have gone faster than 122 mph, but few have done it in a boat. A Sedalia resident has and lived to tell about it, even after flipping on his second run through the time traps at more than 130 mph.

Twenty-nine-year-old Michael E. "Mick" Alfrey, 1413 West 11t , is a member of an elite, but fast-growing sport in the United States — power boat racing, which Alfrey claims is growing percentage-wise as fast as that of pleasure boating.

Alfrey, who raced motorcycles for a number of years before turning to the more lucrative sport of boat racing, competes in the biggest outboard motor class there is — the unlimited division.

"I got interested in the sport four years ago, when Paul Sparks (Lincoln) asked me if I was available and would like to try it ... I was available and decided to give it a shot," Alfrey says. "The boat he had was a 14-foot, hydroplane, which was powered by a 135-HP Chrysler engine ... I went 103 mph and it was great, just great to be going that fast on water. After he told me what kind of money was being payed to compete in them, I decided to put my motorcycle career behind me," he added.

Alfrey said he was clocked at 122 mph at Wichita, Kan., on his first run through the mile course. He turned around to make his run the other direction and was going more than 130 mph, when he lost control and the boat overturned.

In timing drag boats, drivers make two passes through the "traps" (once each direction); their two speeds are added together and then divided to determine the average speed.

The boat Alfrey is piloting this year is an 18-foot fiberglass, dual-engine, Chrysler-powered boat. Each engine puts out 150 HP. It is sponsored locally by Hamm's Sales Co. and KSIS-Radio.

Like the National Weather Service, most power boat racers attach female nomenclature to their craft. Alfrey followed suit, naming it "Miss Hamm's" after his major sponsor.

It seems strange to name something that is capable of rousting the most serious of fishermen from a quiet cove with its roar and speed capability of 130-plus mph after a woman, but in Alfrey's words, "... Most everybody does ... I don't think it's so odd, you know how women can get at times."

Alfrey's tunnel-hull racer is set up for circle and marathon racing. Circle races are run over buoy-marked courses that range from one-half mile to five miles. Events similar to those in auto racing are held during race meets in that heat races and features are staged.

But features events in boat racing differ from their automobile counterparts by the fact that boats race against the clock rather than over a certain distance, such as 50 miles.

Marathon events are run against the clock as well as over a prescribed distance, such as a race from Kansas City to St. Louis via the Missouri River.

Alfrey has won seven features during his career. His first victory came in 1971 in Kansas; in 1972, he won races in Iowa and again in Kansas.

His 1973 campaign almost ended before it started, when he suffered one of the most embarrassing moments of his career at the Lake of the Ozarks about a month ago.

Alfrey had just tried out "Miss Hamm's" for the first time. He decided to change the props on the twin-150 Chrysler power plants; to do that he had to go back to the dock from where he had set up temporary headquarters.

A boy, who Alfrey declined to name in order to save face, said he would hold the rope while Alfrey got the props. Suddenly a wave came over the back of the boat swamping it. The young lad lost the struggle with the water and "Miss Hamm's" got a real christening in 20 feet of water.

Eight hours later, "Miss Hamm's," which Alfrey valucs at more than $10,000, was hoisted from the bottom.

Fortunately, the unscheduled bath didn't damage anything, and by mid-week the tunnel-hull racer was dry as a bone.

"I was more embarrassed than worried," Alfrey recalls, "Imagine the situation, here I am with one of the fastest boats around and where is it — at the bottom of the drink with two $2,800 engines soaked."

Alfrey, a 1962 graduate of Green Ridge High School and now an electrician at K-W Electric of Sedalia, was scheduled to compete in a circle race in Oklahoma City, Okla. today.

He also does some drag boat racing with a 16-foot hydroplane, which is powered by twin-105 HP Chrysler engines. Hamm's Beer and the Jockey Club sponsor the boat.

The only racing boat Alfrey totally owns himself is a 14-foot single-engine (135 HP Chrysler) hydroplane.

Ken Hall, 22, of 1403 South Vermont, and Alfrey have formed a team. Hall drives a single-engine tunnel-hull, which is powered by a 135 HP Chrysler. The boat is also sponsored by Hamm's Sales Co. and carries the name "Miss Hamm's Draft."

Alfrey noted that unlimited class outboard boats are built with tunnel hulls because they ride more on air than in the water.

Alfrey, a member of the American Outboard Federation and the Midwest Drag Boat Association, has his eye set on the Outboard World's Championships later this year in Lake Havasu City, Ariz. The two-day meet attracted an estimated crowd of nearly 150,000 Alfrey said in 1972.

He added, "I'm going to go back there with a single-engine job that I've specially built for the event. That's one of the biggest races of the year, and I'd sure like to win my class."

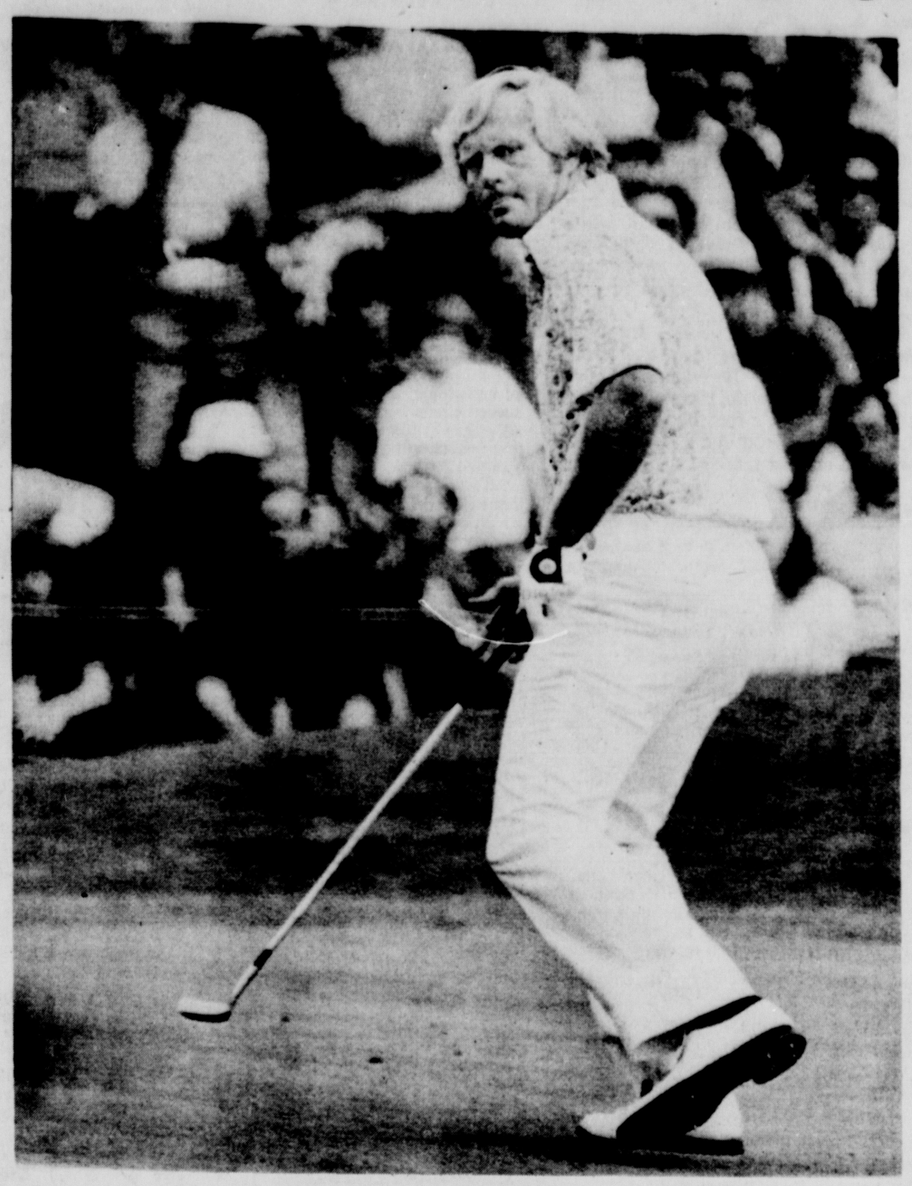
Nicklaus Out Front By Six



The Amazing Jack Nicklaus ...
... holding a record-setting lead

ATLANTA (AP) — Jack Nicklaus, playing with the awesome majesty of which only he seems capable, stretched his lead to record proportions with a six-under-par 66 Saturday in the third round of the $150,000 Atlanta Golf Classic.

Nicklaus, easily the dominant figure in the game today, posted a 199 total for 54 holes, 17-under-par on the hilly, 6,883-yard Atlanta Country Club course.

Nicklaus, seeking a fourth title of the season, owned a bulging, six-stroke lead over Tom Weiskopf going into Sunday's final round in the chase for the $30,000 first prize, and appeared an almost certain winner.

His leading margin, was by two strokes, the largest 54-hole advantage on the pro golf tour this year and left the rest of the field admittedly thinking of the second prize.

"The rest of us are just playing for second place," said veteran Gay Brewer.

"It's just kind of discouraging," said former PGA champion Al Geiberger.

Nicklaus, who hadn't competed since winning the Tournament of Champions April 22, has led or shared the lead all the way in this event.

He held a four-stroke advantage when play started on the mild, occasionally, cloudy day and quickly stretched it out.

He played the front nine in a brilliant 31 — five-under-par — and coasted home in 35. For the second day in a row, he got away without making a bogey.

Weiskopf fashioned a four-under-par 68 — he lost two strokes to Nicklaus with that good round — and was alone in second at 205.

The slender Geiberger also had a 68 and was in third at 207. Brewer, with a 65, and Hubert Green, with a 69, followed at 208, nine strokes off the pace.

South African Gary Player enjoyed his best round of the tournament, a 69, but was far back in the field with a 216.

Although all but out of it, Weiskopf insisted "he's human. He can be beaten.

"If you don't believe you can win, you're never going to win. I've got to look at it that way.

"If I shoot 64 in the last round and he's 72, where does that leave us?

"I've shot 64 before and he's had 72 — but it doesn't look very likely right now."

Nicklaus opened with a rush, taking birdies on three of his first five holes.

He made it from 12 feet on the first hole, punched a seven iron to within four feet on the fourth and rolled in an 18-footer on the next one.

Nicklaus just missed on a 30-foot eagle putt on the par-five eighth, leaving it about a half-inch short. A six-iron shot to four feet on the ninth provided his fifth birdie on the front nine.

Then, he cooled off. He didn't make another birdie until he reached the par-five, 18th with a four-iron second shot and two-putted.

In between, he was in three bunkers and four times had to get down in two from about 35-40 feet.

ATLANTA (AP) — Third round scores Saturday in the $150,000 Atlanta Golf Classic on the 6,883-yard, par-72 Atlanta Country Club course:

Pepitone Quits Once Again

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Joe Pepitone, who was obtained by the Atlanta Braves in a deal with the Chicago Cubs on May 19, has decided to quit again

Pepitone informed Manager Eddie Mathews of his decision before Saturday night's game with the St. Louis Cardinals. He said that he probably would have quit regardless of what team he had been traded to.

He said that he had many personal problems and expressed the desire to play ball in Japan.

He called General Manager Eddie Robinson in Atlanta after announcing his decision.

Last season, Pepitone quit the Cubs in May but returned in July and batted .262 in 66 games.

College All-Star Team Led By Southern Cal

CHICAGO (AP) — National champion Southern California, with five players, tops the 50-member collegiate squad named Saturday to face the Miami Dolphins in the 40th All-Star Football Game Friday night, July 27.

The squad, representing graduated standouts from 33 schools, was selected by Southern California's John McKay, making his coaching debut in the Soldier Field classic sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.

McKay also has mustered four players from Oklahoma and three stars each from Nebraska, Purdue and Michigan State among the hand-picked talent trying to snap a nine-game losing streak against the champions of the National Football League.

The All-Star quarterbacking will be in charge of Louisiana State's Bert Jones, Joe Ferguson of Arkansas, and Ty Paine of Washington State.

Running backs for the biggest physical squad ever sent against the pros include Oklahoma's Greg Pruitt; Purdue's Otis Armstrong; 220-pound Sam Cunningham of Southern California, and 224-pound Bill Olds of Nebraska.

Heisman Trophy winner Johnny Rodgers of Nebraska, one of five wide receivers selected by McKay, will be unavailable because of his recent signing with Montreal in the Canadian League, which starts play early in July.

The remaining targets for Jones, a dropback quarterback, and sprint-out quarterbacks Ferguson and Paine include San Diego State's Isaac Curtis; Arizona State's Steve Holden; Florida State's Barry Smith, and Oklahoma's Joe Wylie.

Among 31 hefty All-Stars weighing 220 pounds or more are defensive linemen Dave Butz of Purdue, 280, and John Matuszak of Tampa, 270, and offensive linemen John Hannah of Alabama, 270, and a quartet of 260-pounders — Paul Seymour of Michigan; Jerry Sizemore of Texas; Guy Morris of Texas Christian, and Paul Howard of Bringham Young.

Last year's All-Stars lost 20-7 to the Dallas Cowboys, giving the pros a 28-9-2 series record. The All-Stars of Otto Graham last scored a collegaite victory in 1963 with a 20-17 shading of the Green Bay Packers.

Buffalo Finally Signs Earnie D.

BUFFALO (AP) — After a week of conflicting claims and high-pressure bargaining, the Buffalo Braves announced Friday they have finally signed their No. 1 draft choice, Ernie DiGregorio, to a contract.

Paul Snyder, the owner of the National Basketball Association team, said he had signed the All-American from Providence College to a multi-year contract worth "a tremendous amount of money."

Earlier reports had indicated that the amount of money was well over $1 million.

Snyder did not elaborate on the terms of the contract, saying he would explain everything at a news conference Tuesday.

"I will say it's the most difficult contract I've ever negotiated," he said.

The 6-foot DiGregorio, an acknowledged ball-handling wizard and impressive floor general, was drafted No. 1 by the Braves of the NBA and by the Kentucky Colonels of the rival American Basketball Association.

Last week, Buffalo thought it had outbargained the Colonels and began dropping hints about an important upcoming announcement. That came Wednesday when Snyder claimed at a news conference that Ernie D's signing was imminent.

But later that day, the Braves admitted that "problems" had developed and Snyder flew off to New York for further talks with DiGregorio's lawyer and agent, Larry Fleisher.

The "problems" were later revealed to have been an 11th hour offer from the Colonels, who had received financial support in the bidding war from other teams in the ABA. In his three years at Providence, DiGregorio amassed 527 assists in 86 games, a school record. During the recent US-Soviet basketball series, he averaged 18.6 points for the six games and helped the Americans to a 4-2 victory advantage.

Sr. BR Openers Set For Monday

Senior Babe Ruth baseball action kicks off Monday night at Liberty Park with V.F.W. taking on Third National Bank at 6:30 p.m.

Monday's second contest features Pepsi-Cola against S-M sporting goods.

There are four teams in the league and games will be played on Monday and Tuesday nights, it was reported.

Oliver Aids Pirate Win

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Al Oliver tripled home two runs, then scored another in a four-run Pittsburgh rally that helped the Pirates to a 7-2 victory over Houston Saturday night.

Nelson Briles earned the victory and helped his cause with a home run.

The Astros bunched three hits for a run off Briles in the first inning but the Pirates got that back on Willie Stargell's RBI double in the bottom of the first.

Pittsburgh, on hits by Milt May and Jackie Hernandez, went ahead in the fourth, then broke the game open in the next inning.

Vic Davalillo opened the fifth with a single and came around to score when Tommie Agee booted Dave Cash's single. Stargell walked and Oliver tripled for two more runs, then scored on Hector Torres' error.

Briles homered in the sixth and Dave Giusti came on to finish after Jimmy Wynn homered.

Chicago 2, Cincinnati 0

CINCINNATI (AP) — Don Kessinger tripled home one run and scored another and Milt Pappas and Jack Aker stopped Cincinnati on four hits, leading the Chicago Cubs to a 2-0 victory over the Reds in a nationally televised baseball game.

Plagued with elbow problems this spring, Pappas, 2-3, permitted a first-inning double by Bobby Tolan and a single by Pete Rose in the third before leaving the game at the start of the seventh.

The Cubs, after threatening in the first two innings, got to Ross Grimsley, 4-4, for a pair of runs in the third. Pappas started the inning with his first hit of the year and was forced at second by Rick Monday. Monday scored on Kessinger's triple and Kessinger tallied on Billy Williams' single.

Aker was in trouble in the seventh when an error by first baseman Jim Hickman and Dave Concepcion's single put two runners aboard. But he got pinch hitter Larry Stahl to ground into an inning-ending double play.

100-Car Field Expected Today in Jaycee Classic

A field of nearly 100 cars, including super-sprints, late model stocks, modifieds, hobby stocks and demolition derby entries are expected to be on hand for the annual Sedalia Jaycees Memorial Classic this afternoon at the Missouri State Fairgrounds.

Although pre-race entries were not pushed by the organization, which uses the proceeds realized from the annual event to fund their many community projects, commitments from defending International Motor Contest Association sprint car champion Ray Lee Goodwin, Kansas City, as well as local sprint favorites Bill Utz, Sedalia; Russell Hibbard, Slater; brother Roy Hibbard, Marshall; and J.J. Lyle, Warrensburg, are expected.

Other entries in the super-sprint division include Eddie Leavitt, Kearney, Mo., and Dick Sutcliffe, Greenwood, Mo.

All will be after the $500 payoff that goes to the winner of the 25-lap feature.

Tom Frasher of Jefferson City, winner of two area late model feature events at Capital Speedway (Holts Summit) and Saline County Speedway (Marshall) will be one of the favorites in that division. Frasher, who pilots a Camaro, also has a Mid-America Fairgrounds (Topeka, Kan.) feature under his belt this year.

The drivers are scheduled to take the track at 10 a.m. for warm-ups; the first qualifying heat will be held at 11 a.m.

Tickets for the event are priced at $3.50 (adults) and $1.50 (children).

Smith, Evert Make It To 3rd Round

PARIS (AP) — Youth continues to be served in the French Tennis Championships, where Saturday 18-year-old Chris Evert and 16-year-old Bjorn Borg of Sweden, along with title favorite Stan Smith, led the players advancing to the third round of the $135,000 event.

Miss Evert, seeded second in women's singles, easily won her match with Hideko Goto of Japan 6-0, 6-1.

Borg, who upset World Championship Tennis star Cliff Richey of San Angelo, Tex., Friday, came back from the brink of defeat to beat Pierre Barthes of France 3-6, 6-1, 7-5.

Smith pulled his game together after a slow start to beat Jim McManus of Berkeley, Calif., 7-5, 7-5.

Miss Evert's main rival for the women's title, top seeded Margaret Court of Australia, also advanced with a hard-fought 5-7, 6-0, 6-3 victory over countrywoman Patti Coleman.

And Romanian Ilie Nastase, No. 2 seed behind Smith, took the day's only third rounder with an easy 6-2, 6-1, 6-3 triumph over Juergen Fassbender of West Germany. Matches from the third round on are best-of-five sets.

American men who moved to the third round were Arthur Ashe of Miami, seeded fourth; Dick Stockton of Port Washington, N.Y.; Frank Froehling of Miami; Erik van Dillen of San Mateo, Calif., and Harold Solomon of Silver Spring, Md.

To Open Stadium For Practice

Smith-Cotton track coach Norris Kelly announced Friday that starting Monday at 3:30 p.m., Jennie Jaynes Stadium will be open for those persons interested in participating in the Amateur Athletic Union's Junior Olympics program.

The program is for boys and girls between the ages of 8-17.

Kelly said the preliminary Missouri qualifying meet for the state finals is scheduled for June 2 at Central Missouri State University in Warrensburg. He also noted that transportation will be provided.

The state competition will be in Moberly June 9.

Jennie Jaynes Stadium will be open Monday through Friday between 3:30-6:30 p.m.

Cards Shut Out Atlanta, 2-0

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Bob Gibson scattered four hits and pitched the St. Louis Cardinals to a 2-0 victory over the Atlanta Braves Saturday night.

The decision was Gibson's third against five losses. The big right-hander whipped knuckleballer Phil Niekro, 3-2.

Ken Reitz opened the fifth with a double, the third hit off Niekro. Mike Tyson then beat out a slow roller to first baseman Mike Lum.

Then, while pitching to Gibson, Niekro uncorked his wild pitch, and Reitz scored. Tyson tried to make third but was out on John Oates' peg to Darrell Evans.

The Cards added another run in the sixth on singles by Ted Sizemore, Tim McCarver and Jose Cruz.

The game was called after eight innings because of rain.

Oldfield Fails in Bid To Set New Record

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Brian Oldfield, the former Middle Tennessee State star, tossed the shot 68 feet, 4 inches in the Professional Track Association Meet Saturday night, failing in a bid to break his world indoor best of 70-10¾ Friday night at Salt Lake City.

"I guess I left it all in Salt Lake City," said Oldfield, top money-winner on the pro tour. "I had a real problem keeping my foot down on my first three throws."

Oldifled won the event just the same, beating out Randy Matson, once the pride of Texas A&M, who had a heave of 67-3½.

Harrington Jackson of Texas-El Paso was clocked in 5.9 seconds, best in the 60-yard dash. Mel Pender, who tied Herb Washington's world record of 5.8 at Salt Lake City, was disqualified for two false starts.

Bob Hayes of the Dallas Cowboys took the 40-yard dash by an eyelash over Mel Gray of the St. Louis football Cardinals. Both were timed in 4.4 Paul Gibson of Texas El-Paso won the 60-yard hurdles in 7.0.

Barbara Ferrell, the ex-UCLA miss, was one-tenth second off the world record of 6.5 she shares with Wyomia Tyus-Siimburg of Tennessee State in the women's 60-yard dash.

'The Meanest Front Row Ever'

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Mark Donohue, gentle, serious-minded, a nearly perfect master of his emotions and his talents, feels he's the man on the spot in the Memorial Day Indianapolis 500 mile race.

He came out of nowhere to win in 1972 and he has a front row start for Monday's 57th running of the $1 million classic.

Arrayed with him in the three-abreast alignment will be Johnny Rutherford and Bobby Unser, two of the game's hardest chargers. Immediately to his rear will be six other lead-foots of proven ability.

"I'm the guy they'll be gunning for, the guy who isn't expected to make a mistake and blow it," the blond, round-faced Brown University alumnus said.

"It's going to be difficult to repeat what we did last year. The meter is back to zero. We can't go out there, throw our press clippings on the ground and expect the other drivers to slide on them.

"Realizing this makes us more determined, however. We've never had so much riding on one race."

Rutherford, a 35-year-old campaigner from Fort Worth, Tex., fired his Gulf McLaren into the pole position with a record four-lap speed of 198.413 miles per hour.

His third lap speed of 199.071 m.p.h. came the closest to the 200 m.p.h. barrier that had been freely predicted for the ancient Indianapolis Motor Speedway this year.

Donohue, 35, was the third fastest qualifier in a Sunoco DX McLaren, a dark-blue, lowslung machine cluttered with decals that bespeak his $1 million worth of financial backing. His speed was 197.412 m.p.h.

Unser, 38, set speed records seven of his 10 times out last year, including the pole position for this race, but came up with a balky engine in warmups before his qualifying run. He had to settle for the No. 2 position at, for him, a disappointing 198.183 m.p.h. in Dan Gurney's Olsonite Eagle.

"That's the meanest front row ever put together for this race," one garage area observer commented. "They're fine, decent fellows off the track, but if there's an ounce of on-track forgiveness in either of them, I've never seen it."

The same could be said of the second row, where the starters will be Swede Savage, a 26-year-old protege of Gurney from Santa Ana, Calif.; Gary Bettenhausen of Tinley Park, Ill., Donohue's teammate who led 138 of the 200 laps last year before his engine failed; and Mario Andretti, the 1969 winner who hasn't been able to put talent and car together in the four years since.

Most observers, using the record book for authority, figure the winner has to come from the first three rows. Graham Hill won from 15th position in 1966, and he's the last one to come from that far back since World War II.

Al Unser, like Andretti, a member of Parnelli Jones' "super team" that also includes 29th place starter Joe Leonard, probably has the best chance of the third row occupants.

The youngest of the two driving brothers from Albuquerque, N.M., has the best record of any driver at Indianppolis during the last five years.

He has won twice (1970-1971), finished second twice (1967-1972) and taken more than $500,000 to his bank in the process.

His third row mates will be Steve Krisiloff, 26, of Parsippany, N.J. and Jimmy Caruthers, 28, of Anaheim, Calif., who came in ninth in his rookie year in 1972.

There are three rookies, two of them highly regarded, seasoned competitors. Bobby Allison, who starts 12th, won $284,000 in oval track stock cars last year. Graham McRae, a New Zelander now living in California, goes off 13th. His background has been in road racing.

The other first year man, Jerry Karl, has the 28th slot in the first rear-engined stock block machine to make the race since the early 1960s.

Together, the 33 starters qualified at an average speed of 192.572 m.p.h., compared with 182.113 last year.

And then thre is A.J. Foyt, auto racing's immortal. The 38-year-old Texan had hoped to become the first driver to win the classic four times. But Foyt is starting this one from the middle of the eighth row, by far his poorest in 15 outings at the Speedway.

Donohue, who refuses to sell Foyt short even were he to go off in last place, commented:

"Super Tex will have more eyes on him than there will be on me. The fans will expect him to make one of his classic charges, and I tend to agree that he will."

Donohue, chief driver for Philadelphia main liner Roger Penske — Bettenhausen and Allison are the others — won last year at a record 162.962 m.p.h. If the front runners hold together, that mark likely will be bettered.

Here is the lineup for the $1 million 500-mile race at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway May 28:

First Row

Johnny Rutherford, Ft. Worth, Tex., No. 7, McLarenOffenhauser, 198.413 m.p.h. (broke previous record of 196.582, also top lap of 199.071 breaking mark of 197.152); Bobby Unser, Albuquerque, N.M., No. 8, Eagle-Offy, 198.183; Mark Donohue, Newtown Square, Pa., No. 66, Eagle-Offy, 197.412.

Second Row

Third Row

Steve Krisiloff, Parsippany, N.J., No. 2½, Kingfish-Offy, 194.932; Al Unser, Albuquerque, N.M., No. 4, ParnelII-Offy, 194.879; Jimmy Caruthers, Anaheim, Calif., No. 21, Eagle-Offy, 194.217.

Fourth Row

Fifth Row

Graham McRae, Wellington, New Zealand, No. 60, EagleOffy, 192.031; Roger McCluskey, Tucson, Ariz., No. 3, McLaren-Offy, 191.928; Lloyd Ruby, Wichita Falls, Tex., No. 18, Eagle-Offy, 191.622.

Ninth Row

Lee Kunzman, Guttenberg, Iowa, No. 16, Eagle-Offy, 193.092; Mike Hiss, Tustin, Calif., No. 6, Eagle-Offy, 191.939; Dick Simon, Salt Lake City, Utah, No. 44, EagleFoyt, 191.276.

Tenth Row

Jerry Karl, Manchester, Pa., No. 30, Eagle-Chevrolet, 190.799; Joe Leonard, San Jose, Calif., No. 1, Parnelli-Offy, 189.954; George Snider, Bakersfield, Calif., No. 84, CoyoteFoyt, 190.355.

Eleventh Row

Ticket Deadline Nears

(Democrat-Capital Service)

COLUMBIA — Season ticket-holders for Missouri Tiger football games will have to act this week if they intend to maintain their status, it was learned Saturday.

"We'll have some unhappy people who let their seats get away from them, but we must begin the allocation of 1973 tickets," Barton Mitchell, ticket manager, said in explanation of the June 1 deadline for renewals.

Mitchell also revealed that the appearance of Nebraska and Oklahoma on the Mizzou home schedule has stimulated sales "to the point that we'll shortly be shutting down single-game sales for the Nebraska game."

It was noted that the Big Eight has increased its single-game admission price.

24-Hour Affair

Bicyclers by the thousands from all over the world are stacked together for almost a mile by a telephoto lens as they line up in a lane formed by saw-horses in preparation to begin the 13th annual 24-hour, 200-mile Pepsi-Wolverine Bicycle Marathan on Belle Isle, Mich., Saturday. Sometimes billed as the world's greatest single organized amateur bicycle tour, some 50 trophies will be awarded those who finish the endurance contest today. (UPI)

PARTS & SALES & SERVICE OPEN 'TIL 9 P.M. FRIDAYS

No Kidding.

Buy any new VW from us now and we'll give you a written promise for service and maintenance work for one year or 12,000 miles, whichever comes first.

It covers all the things you'd normally expect to pay for out of your own pocket. Oil changes. Tune-ups. Lube jobs. Wiper blades. Hoses. Fuses. Everything. On the house.

The offer is good on any new VW we make — from the little Beetle to the Big 412. Simply bring your new car back to us for servicing and we'll pay for everything but the gas.

And, believe us, your gas bill won't drive you to the poorhouse. VW's sip gas instead of guzzling it.

And the nice thing about it is, this new offer is in addition to our regular 2-year/24,000 mile warranty* on parts and labor, which is longer than you can get on any new car in the world.

Unless, of course, you want to buy a Rolls-Royce for about $25,000.

So buy a VW. The only car in the world that lets you drive home with our service department in your pocket.

(For Limited Time Only)

*If an owner maintains and services his vehicle in accordance with the Volkswagen maintenance schedule any factory part found to be defective in material or workmanship within 24 months or 24,000 miles, whichever comes first, except normal wear and tear and service items, will be repaired or replaced by any U.S. or Canadian Volkswagen Dealer. And this will be done free of charge. See your dealer for details.

Before you buy a new car, do your homework. Today's lesson is subtraction.

Datsun 1200	28.7 miles per gallon (mpg)	Datsun 1200	28.7 mpg
Vega 2300	21.5 mpg	VW Sedan 11	23.6 mpg
Datsun 1200	28.7 mpg	Datsun 1200	28.7 mpg
Mazda RX-3	13.5 mpg	Capri Coupe	21.6 mpg
Datsun 1200	28.7 mpg	Datsun 1200	28.7 mpg
Pinto Sedan	21.4 mpg	Ferrari 365 GTB	6.3 mpg

All mileage figures are from the Environmental Protection Agency's recent test findings.
The Datsun 1200 delivered the highest gas mileage of all cars sold in the United States.

Datsun 1200. The more you subtract, the more it adds up.

As you complete this chapter of your life it is, quite likely, time to begin another. Whether that step leads to more schooling or advancement into the working world, keep this thought in mind.

A philosopher once said that every human being always needs a goal to strive toward. Remember that; and upon obtaining one goal, set your sights on another objective. Hard work and confidence will aid you.

Fun in the Sun Comes Through in True Style

Spending a school day in the park on a sunny May afternoon just couldn't be enjoyed more by these youngsters. The opinion was almost unanimous among students from Sacred Heart Catholic School when they, class by class, took a half day off from school this month for their annual year-end picnic.

It's graduation time and therefore time to celebrate.

These students, shown in true form in these photos, took sack lunches to Liberty Park, under the supervision of Mrs. Carol Rabourn, who teaches the second grade. A total of 30 students took part in the activities, putting playground equipment at the park to a full test.

Challenge Key Word for Sedalian

By RON JENNINGS
Democrat-Capital Staff Writer

Throughout his educational career, Bill Rabourn recently indicated, he's thrived on challenges ... not just the temporary trifles of every-day life, but rather those long-term situations which call into play both intellect and energy.

And so, when he was offered the position of business affairs director of the fledgling State Fair Community College in 1966, the native Sedalian eagerly made the move from Jefferson City, where he had been serving as assistant director of the State Department of Education.

Now, seven years later, Rabourn is leaving to enter private business ... but not without a wealth of memories and experiences, not to mention an increased awareness of his own career philosophy.

In his own words, the prospect of returning "home," in 1966 was certainly not the only reason for his acceptance of the SFCC administrative post. Equally compelling, he indicated, was the fact that the college at that time was only a maze of blueprints and by-laws.

"I guess that's probably what intrigued and interested me most," he said. "I'd be starting from scratch and doing things my way. I couldn't pass up that chance."

During the course of his seven years on the job, Rabourn said, "I've had to wear many hats . My department handles the school budget, supervises money management, handles cash receipts and accounts payable and supervises auxiliary enterprises such as the bookstore and the student union."

Nothing Is Routine

His position as purchasing agent for the college has also had its moments of diversity, Rabourn stated.

"You never know what's going to come across your desk next," he said. "You may sign a purchase order for a roomful of desks one minute and the next be signing up to receive welding supplies."

Looking back over his association with the college, Rabourn admitted, "it was quite an undertaking, especially because at the beginning no one was quite sure exactly what course we should follow. We had no real precedent and were forced to rely on our own judgment and thoughts."

When he vacates his SFCC post at the end of the current school year, he will be leaving his successor a $2,227,585 budget. However, Rabourn said, things won't end there.

"My successor will have a lot more to fall back on than I had when I came here," he said. Chief among these aids will be a series of unit cost studies which, as current president of the Missouri Junior College Business Managers Association, he was instrumental in forming.

The studies, put together over the past year by the group, are designed to provide a more accurate estimate of costs involved in establishing and maintaining specific college classes.

Valuable Aid

"We hope in this manner to give junior college purchasing personnel some sort of reference framework in which to better project expenses," Rabourn said. "This will be invaluable to administrators responsible for accurately anticipating classroom costs."

Two additional legacies to be left by Rabourn are the Missouri Junior College accounting manual and business office operations manual. Both publications are geared toward the particular and unique problems faced by junior college administrators and instructors throughout the state.

"I think we've accomplished quite a bit in these manuals," Rabourn said. "I know they're very helpful and I believe they offer sound, solid advice and instructions in this area."

In his new, temporary business headquarters at the State Fairgrounds fire station, Rabourn will provide specialized service, involving interior cleaning and body polishing for dealer-owned and individually-owned cars.

While his new interest is somewhat removed from the world of collegiate finances, Rabourn indicated he expects the transition to be an easy one.

"I've been working at various jobs since I was young and I know I can manage this all right," he said. "I'm looking forward to it because I believe it represents a real challenge."

And that, for Rabourn, says it all.

Departing

Although he will be leaving his post at the end of the current school year, Bill Rabourn, business affairs director for State Fair Community College, is still interested in examining blueprints for a future construction project.

Three Missouri Grants Approved

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Ozark Regional Commission has approved three grants for Missouri and one for Kansas.

The grants were made Thursday at the commission meeting here.

One of the Missouri grants is for $60,000 for the state's Department of Community Affairs to develop a foreign trade and export project.

Missouri officials said the department will name a commission to direct the program. They said it would give the state a better chance to open foreign trade officers, to increase the effectiveness of the St. Louis Port Authority and to attract foreign investment.

They said such a project would provide the "necessary procedures to attract a foreign airline into Missouri," would increase methods to develop the Kansas City Trade Zone and would increase export opportunities for Missouri firms.

The program would become effective June 30 and would be completed by May 20, 1974 unless all parties agreed otherwise.

The commission also approved a supplemental grant of $53,641 for expansion of the Joplin, Mo., Airport. The FAA will provide a basic grant of $113,086 for the project and the remaining $59,445 will be paid through local funds. The ORC funding will provide for expansion of the runway-apron and other improvements.

A basic grant of $175,000 was approved for the expansion of programs and facilities at the South Central Area Vocational Technical School at West Plains, Mo.

A grant of $25,000 was approved for Farm Products Management, Inc., of Cherryvale, Kan.

E.L. Stewart Jr., federal cochairman of the ORC, complained that this corporation had not already become "self-sufficient." At his suggestion the commission approved the grant pending the corporation's ability to prove itself successful.

Say Pilot Of Downed Plane Died in Crash

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — The pilot of a U.S. Air force plane which crashed in Cambodia was killed, and the cause of the crash is still unknown, the U.S. Pacific Command announced Saturday.

The plane crashed Friday near Siem Reap, 140 miles northwest of Phnom Penh. Reports from the Cambodian capital said it was on a bombing mission.

The plane was based at Korat Air Base, in northeast Thailand. The pilot had not yet been identified.

Gallup Says Nixon Is Down In Popularity

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — The Gallup Poll reports that President Nixon's popularity has dropped to its lowest point since he took office five years ago.

In the May 4-6 poll, 45 per cent of those interviewed approved of the way the President was doing his job. The highest level was 68 per cent approval in polls taken during November 1969 and January 1973.

The latest poll occurred after the President's April 30 television address in which he denied he had any prior knowledge of the Watergate affair or subsequent cover-up attempt.

His highest popularity rating followed the television addresses in which he announced his plans for ending the war in Vietnam and the peace agreement.

The President's popularity remained fairly high among Republicans in the latest poll, with 74 per cent approving. But only one in four Democrats approved, for 24 per cent. Forty-nine per cent of those calling themselves independents approved.

Gallup's pollsters questioned 1,531 adults, 18 years and older, at 300 locations across the country.

If an egg placed in a glass of water floats, it's because it is stale.

One Woman Is Killed In Auto Crash

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill. (AP) — Lena M. Neal, 70, of East St. Louis was killed Friday in a five-car accident on Interstate 70 in East St. Louis, police said.

Mrs. Neal, a passenger in a car driven by George P. Lay, 70, of Lovejoy, died when she was thrown from the car, police said.

According to reports, Lay was westbound on the Interstate when he sideswiped a car ahead of him. Police said he then apparently lost control, crossed the median into the eastbound lanes of the highway and hit two on-coming cars before finally striking a concrete bridge railing, throwing Mrs. Neal from the car.

One of the two eastbound cars struck by Lay's vehicle, authorities said, hit the fifth car involved in the crash.

Several other persons were injured in the wreck, but none critically, police said.

Premium on honesty in British system

Members of the British upper crust, who appear to have a particular weakness for sex scandals, have handed Prime Minister Edward Heath's Conservative government a new headache.

Already two Conservative members of the House of Lords have resigned. There is speculation that the scandal is wider in scope and perhaps involves national security, although Heath has denied this.

Lord Jellico and Lord Lambton, both members of honored British families, have admitted consorting with prostitutes, and have resigned their seats. MI-5, the British counter-espionage branch, is investigating the entire incident.

The revelations stir memories of another Conservative scandal 10 years ago, when War Minister John Profumo was caught in a sex scandal which many believe was instrumental in the resignation of Prime Minister Harold Macmillan four months later.

It is pertinent to recall, however, that Profumo fell not so much for his private indiscretions, but because he lied to the House of Commons when questioned about his actions. The British have always been able to excuse a little vice on the side, but to lie to one's colleagues is considered inexcusable.

This is a commendable tradition, and one that this country could stand to emulate in view of the Watergate scandal. How much better off we would be now if many government officials had given the American people the truth from the outset, instead of lies.

White House CAB nominee is blocked

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — The White House has been warned bluntly that its nominee for the vacancy on the Civil Aeronautics Board may "have a long, white beard before he gets a hearing" from the Senate Commerce Committee.

Astonishingly, the warning was delivered by a staunch White House supporter, Sen. Norris Cotton, R-N.H., who had been promised that Robert Murphy would be reappointed to the CAB.

However, White House aide Peter "The Fixer" Flanigan phoned the senator to say Murphy wouldn't be reappointed after all. Angrily, Cotton retorted that he wouldn't support the new appointee. Flanigan said the White House would get its way anyhow.

"Are you telling me I can't fight city hall?" Senator Cotton asked.

"Well, in a sense," said Flanigan."

"You better send up a young man, then, because he may have a long, white beard before he gets a hearing. This is a busy committee."

The tough Yankee has managed to hold off the hearing on the new White House nominee for three months now.

Footnote: The administration nominee is Oklahoma Judge Lee West. Flanigan's involvement in the appointment has brought charges that American Airlines wants Murphy out and West in. Murphy has opposed American on several issues before the CAB. Both Flanigan and American Airlines deny any behind-the-scenes agreements to dump Murphy for West.

WHITE HOUSE CONNECTION: A long-time Republican, Mayor Herbert Werner of Eatontown, N.J., has complained to President Nixon that John Ehrlichman may have cost his town a $25-million Army electronics facility. Werner wrote Nixon that he and an associate were present when a New York builder, Lester Dworman, told them he had access to the White House and that "Ehrlichman would see to it that Dworman received the award." Sure enough, Dworman got the $25-million deal. The General Accounting Office later charged it was awarded on the basis of "favoritism" and "unresponsive bidding." Dworman told us he didn't know Ehrlichman or anyone else in the White House. Ehrlichman did not return our call.

TELEPHONE MONITORING: Faculty members at the U.S. Naval Academy have been told "Big Brother" may be listening to their telephone conversations. An item in the school's weekly administrative bulletin states: "All personnel are advised that DOD (Department of Defense) Telephone Communications Systems are subject to security and management monitoring at all times...Use of the systems constitutes consent to monitoring for these purposes." Presumably, those who do not consent are required to install their own telephone system.

OAS SKULLDUGGERY: Employes of the Organization of American States have come to us with details of internal skullduggery. The charges include mismanagement of funds and violation of employe rights, especially American employe's. This latter revelation is likely to affect the American contribution to OAS. The United States has supplied 66 per cent of the organization's money since its inception. Because other member nations have reneged, the employes say, this has led to the mismanagement of funds. The employes have filed an injunction seeking to halt U.S. Treasury payments to the OAS until they are granted their due process rights. According to the employes, the other nations look out for their employes, but the State Department has assumed a "hands off" posture.

UNPAID BILLS: Several months ago we reported that the brass hats who run the U.S. Navy had, in the past several years, spent some $100 million more than had been authorized by Congress — a serious violation that the bureaucrats refer to as "overobligation." Such overspending also causes problems for the businessmen who deal with the Pentagon. Last fall, for example, the American Transfer Company of Baltimore hauled some general freight for the Navy and routinely submitted its bills. Back came the reply that, because of the "overobligating," the company would be paid only when the Navy received "additional funding and approval from Congress." In other words, the day of reckoning comes when a contractor has to be paid. Then the men with scrambled eggs on their hats wind up with egg on their faces.

SUPER PUNCH BOWL: Brig. Gen. Edmund Montgomery II, chief judge of the Army's Judge Advocate General reserve corps, appreciates the cooperation his men have received from the JAG school in Charlottesville, Va. To express his thanks, he has initiated "Operation Punchbowl Memorial." He is dunning some 600 reservists five dollars each to buy the school a punch bowl. The most expensive punch bowls rarely cost more than $300. A rough calculation, however, shows that the general could raise as much as $3,000. He would even be happy, he told us, if he collects $2,500. As one amused reserve colonel told us, it promises to be "one helluva punch bowl."

Today's thoughts

And he said to them, "Why are you afraid, O men of little faith?" Then he rose and rebuked the winds and the sea; and there was a great calm. And the men marveled, saying, "What sort of man is this, that even winds and sea obey him?" — Matthew 8:26, 27.

Man must cease attributing his problems to his environment, and learn again to exercise his will — his personal responsibility in the realm of faith and morals. — Albert Schweitzer, African missionary physician.

A conservative view

Tuition voucher experiment planned

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

ANTRIM, N. H. — Here in New Hampshire, the state motto is "Live Free or Die." If U. S. authorities approve — and that is a very iffy question — several thousand school-age children in New Hampshire will embark next fall on a great experiment in living free. They would be the subjects of the first true test of a "tuition voucher" system.

Kilpatrick

In one form or another, the system has been proposed since the days of Adam Smith. It was Smith's idea that the education of children is a mixed public and parental responsibility; he advocated public financing and parental choice. More recently such poles-apart philosophers as Milton Friedman of Chicago and Christopher Jencks of Harvard have urged the same basic plan.

The plan makes good sense. Somewhat over-simplified, it rests upon these propositions: That the state has a proper interest in the education of children; that within reasonable limits, the state should not dictate the kind of education a child receives; and that within a community, all children of school age are entitled to identical shares of public funds available for education.

Suppose, then, that a community has $800,000 to spend on education, and suppose that is has one thousand children of school age. The plan proposes that each child be allocated $800, in the form of a tuition voucher to be used by his parents according to their own free choice. The parents can send the child to any accredited school, public or private, anywhere in the community, the state, or the nation. The goal is not public-school education; the goal is plainly and simply education.

Some years ago, as a part of its massive resistance to school integration, Virginia experimented with a state-financed program along these lines. The Virginia plan did not permit the tuition grants to be used in church-operated schools — it was felt this would violate the state constitution — but otherwise it provided complete freedom of choice. Contrary to the apprehensions of many public school superintendents, the plan did not wreck the public schools or significantly diminish their funds. Contrary to the hopes of many libertarians, relatively few parents chose to participate. But until the Supreme Court killed the plan, perceiving it as a mere device to preserve segregation, the program offered a choice.

New Hampshire wants to have a go at freedom. For some months, a committee of top educators, assisted by Professor Friedman, has been preparing a model for an effectively unlimited tuition voucher experiment. The group has worked closely with the Office of Economic Opportunity, which has a severely limited experiment now under way in the Alum Rock school district of California. At Alum Rock, parents cannot make the fundamental choice of public or private eduation; they can choose only among six public elementary schools. New Hampshire would provide a truly free choice.

William Bittenbender, chairman of the New Hampshire Board of Education, is enthusiastically backing the experiment. Dr. Newell Paire, state commissioner of education, wants to see a test get started this fall. The state board voted 5 to 1 last month to give it a try. The education committee of the New Hampshire House of Representatives, in an informal poll, found 22 members for and only two against a pilot project. Gov. Meldrim Thomson has voiced strong support.

As soon as a final decision is reached on the one or two communities that would participate, an application will be made to the U.S. Office of Education for grants of $2.5 million a year for at least two years. If these were then extended for an additional two years, by the spring of 1978 some useful data could be examined.

Unhappily, Frank Carlucci, undersecretary of HEW, and Thomas Glennan, director of the National Institute of Education, are trying to drown the New Hampshire venture in cold water. Glennan is "personally convinced that a totally unregulated voucher system is likely to be a disaster." He has voiced a hundred reasons why it can't be tried in New Hampshire this fall.

The opposition of Carlucci and Glennan could be fatal, but HEW Secretary Caspar Weinberger — and beyond him, the President have the final say-so. The amount of money, relatively speaking, is small; the benefits of a pilot project are potentially great. Nixon many times has urged that educational experiments be tried when local people are ready and eager to try them. He has just such an opportunity here in New Hampshire.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

The Great Seal of the U.S. was first adopted by the Continental Congress, June 20, 1782, and by the federal government Sept. 16, 1789. Both sides of the seal are found on the back of all $1 bills, The World Almanac notes. It is inscribed with three Latin mottoes: Annuit Coeptis, meaning He Has Favored Our Undertaking; Novus Ordo Seclorum — A New Order of the Ages; and E Pluribus Unum — Out of Many, One.

The hummingbird

Upon the fence awhile it sits
Then round the weigela bush it flits
And this it does for hours and hours
Sticking its long tongue in pink flowers
Sucking the honey, warm and sweet,
This, and small insects does it eat
And from its fluttering wings is heard
A hum — it's called a hummingbird.
It's such a tiny little mite
And very rapid in its flight,
In weigela flowers is sweetness found
So it goes 'round and 'round and 'round
Until at last it stops to rest,
I wonder where now is its nest?
I watched it at the close of day
Then suddenly it flits away,
The twilight comes so swiftly on
The little hummingbird is gone
To hide away some place at night
And rest until the morning light
Awakes it and again it comes
To the weigela bush and hums
And when the flowering season's through
Of this bush, what will it do?
Throughout the garden will it find
The lovely flowers of every kind,
Digging insects and honey out
Usually there are lots of them about
But this year only one I see
And it's as busy as can be
Dipping into the flowers dense
Then resting awhile on the fence,
This one was early, more will come
I'll watch them and will hear them hum.

Nixon seen with back to wall

By BRUCE BIOSSAT
NEA News Analyst

WASHINGTON — Some close White House watchers, experienced in government, believe now that President Nixon is in a weakening fall-back position and may soon stand in danger of losing the presidency.

Biossat

His newest public statement, in which he acknowledges that in the name of national security he himself imposed limits on the White House-authorized Watergate inquiry and failed to heed early warnings of possible wrongdoings by high officials, is being read with shock in this capital.

A common reaction is:

"If the President can say these things today, why could he not have said them weeks or months ago?"

The judgment, then, is skeptical, even among seasoned sources friendly to Mr. Nixon. He is seen as stumbling backward under a widening, intensifying barrage, giving ground because he has to, likely to make further retreat.

Says one of these sources:

"I don't know how many shoes he's got to drop, but he's going to drop them one by one."

The President himself indicated this may not be his final word on Watergate. These are the very last lines of his 4,000 word statement:

"As more information is developed, I have no doubt that more questions will be raised. To the extent that I am able, I shall also seek to set forth the facts as known to me with respect to those questions."

In the view of veteran president-watchers, that is very mild language for the fall-back process they think is under way.

They see a certain assured, cool detachment in his first important utterance on April 17, when Mr. Nixon said he was conducting his own fresh investigation of Watergate.

His April 30 speech is put down as a major yielding to pressure, carrying with it acceptance of the resignations of top aides H.R. Haldeman, John Ehrlichman, and John Dean.

They rate his newest utterance, with its long elaboration of complex efforts to plug security leaks, as a painful concession of the President's early suspicions about Watergate — even as he protests again he had no prior knowledge of the June 17, 1972, break-in at Democratic offices.

One experienced observer thinks Mr. Nixon's presidency is now clearly doomed, that each fall-back darkens his prospect and renders him less and less able to govern the nation.

This man sees the President moving toward one of two positions, both of them bad. Of the first, he says:

"If he maintains his posture of innocence, then the broader the scandal gets — and it seems to be broadening almost every day — the worse he looks. In fact, to insist he knew so little when so much was going on around him could make him look like an idiot."

The perceived alternative, of course, is that Mr. Nixon knew far more than he has, up to now, grudgingly conceded. It is argued that to acknowledge this further involvement step by step is to crumble before the country's eyes and lose the last shreds of his credibility.

The appraisers I talked to think that, either way, his capacity to govern will be destroyed and he must then resign.

Opening lead—♦ 3

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Hard Luck Joe may well have played the most expensive dummy of his long career in misbidding and misplaying hands.

North really shouldn't have redoubled. He had seen Joe mangle the dummy before.

As for West, he decided to gamble the hand out for the same reason that North should not have redoubled—Joe was going to be declarer!

West decided to open his third best diamond. Dummy's seven was covered by East's eight. Joe won with the queen and cashed the ace. East dropped the 10. Joe led a third diamond and after West followed, Joe thought and finally decided to finesse dummy's nine.

East was in with the jack. He cashed the king of hearts and after West played the three East shifted to a spade.

After that it was no trouble for East and West to cash all the hearts and spades and score a nice 1600 points.

If Joe had gone up with dummy's king of diamonds he would have made four diamonds and five clubs and a total of 1510 points.

Should Joe have taken that diamond finesse? Not on your life! The club finesse figured to work for him and he shouldn't have risked what did happen in diamonds.

FOR BEAR BRYANT, Alabama football coach*

How did you get your nickname "Bear"?—Douglas Higgs, Santa Susana, Calif.

● I was a big farm kid living near Fordyce, Ark. We had walked into town to Mr. Smith's picture theater. They had some man there with a bear and they were offering a dollar a minute to anyone who would wrestle it. Well, I'd have wrestled King Kong for a dollar a minute! So they brought this bear out—my friends said it was scrawny but it looked 30 feet tall to me. It had a muzzle. I knew enough about wrestling to get the bear down, get a hold on him and keep my body away from him, which I did. That was easy. But then the bear started getting up. We went up and down a couple of times, and then I noticed the muzzle was off and I reached behind my neck and found some blood. I jumped off the stage and took off. When I went back to get my money the man and his bear were gone. All I got out of it was a nickname.

● Athletes are usually very poised. I study the faces of all three contestants when they give the same name at the beginning of their segment. The imposters usually give themselves away by the unsure way they give the name.

FOR GLORIA STEINEM

You always complain about job discrimination against women. How many men are employed at your "Ms." magazine? —Joe Zeloof, Edison, N.J.

● One requisite for editorial jobs at "Ms." is an understanding of what it's like to be a woman. Obviously, few men have this understanding. We'd employ them if they had it, and if they were better qualified than female applicants. We do hire non-chauvinist men for some non-editorial jobs. Currently the magazine has three full-time male employees.

FOR JIM PALMER, pitcher for the Baltimore Orioles*

There has been talk that the new designated-hitter rule in the American League will lead to more beanballs because the pitcher, never having to bat, does not fear retaliation. What do you think?—John Jethro, Boston, Mass.

● It's true that the only way you'll be able to get back at a pitcher now is to throw into the dugout. But I think these fears are unfounded. In a war like that, both sides get hurt and no manager is going to allow it.

FOR A. J. FOYT, auto racer*

When a racer comes into the pits he stays in his car and is given a drink at the end of a stick. Why?—N. G. Wimmer, Westminster, Calif.

● Indianapolis Speedway regulations provide that only seven crew members can work on the pit apron. These men usually are involved in the refueling or tire changing, so the driver relies on some other crew member behind the wall to provide him with a drink of water and a clean pair of goggles—by using a long stick.

FOR SEN. HERMAN TALMADGE (D-Ga.)*

What do you think of the Supreme Court now that President Nixon has changed it a bit?—L. Gordon, Jonesboro, Ark.

● They have made a shambles out of our public school system. They have placed revolving doors on all the criminal courts of this country, and they have generally made a destructive nuisance of themselves. Sometimes I think the motto, "Equal Justice Under Law," should be removed from the front of the Supreme Court building and replaced with the statement, "We Know Best."

FOR JEANE DIXON, clairvoyant*

What do you see in store for the United States dollar?—John Randolph, Durham, N.C.

● That the U.S.S.R. will help stabilize it, but I don't know how this will come about.

FOR SALLY KELLERMAN, starring in "Lost Horizon"*

Do you think it is possible for an attractive woman to have men strictly as friends?—J. Lakey, North Chicago, Ill.

● I think it's a luxury and very difficult. If there is no love, he sees someone else. But I do think it is possible. I know I have friends who are men.

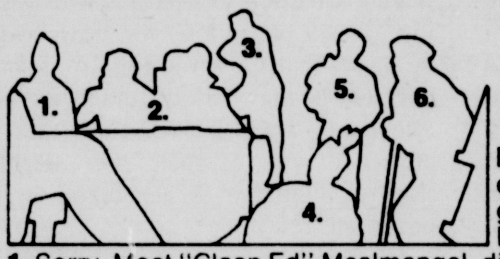
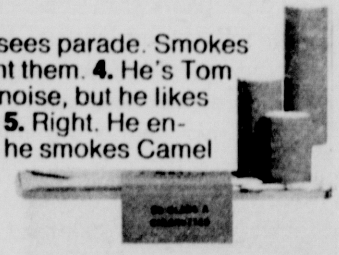
Can you spot the Camel Filters smoker?

© 1973 R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co.



Even at the firemen's parade, everyone seems to have a gimmick—almost everyone. Pick the one who doesn't.

1. Sorry. Meet "Clean Ed" Mealmangel, discount diner owner. Gimmick: Leaves his thumb print in mashed potatoes. Smokes ABL's "Any Brand Left" in the ash trays. 2. No. And no. Tex'n'Tilly, icky-poo radio-TV personalities. Gimmick: If it moves, interview it. They once even used a stethoscope to talk to a mole. 3. Jerry Jibroni. Spends so much time setting up, he never sees parade. Smokes cigarettes so super-long he almost needs binoculars to light them. 4. He's Tom Thump. His bass drum really is a gimmick: Can't stand the noise, but he likes to wear it. Puts cotton in his ears and in his cigarette filters. 5. Right. He enjoys the passing parade, without any gimmicks. That's why he smokes Camel Filters. They're good tasting, easy and honest. His kind of cigarette. 6. He's "Sweeps" Streate. Hopes mounted police won't parade. But they always do.



Camel Filters. They're not for everybody (but they could be for you).

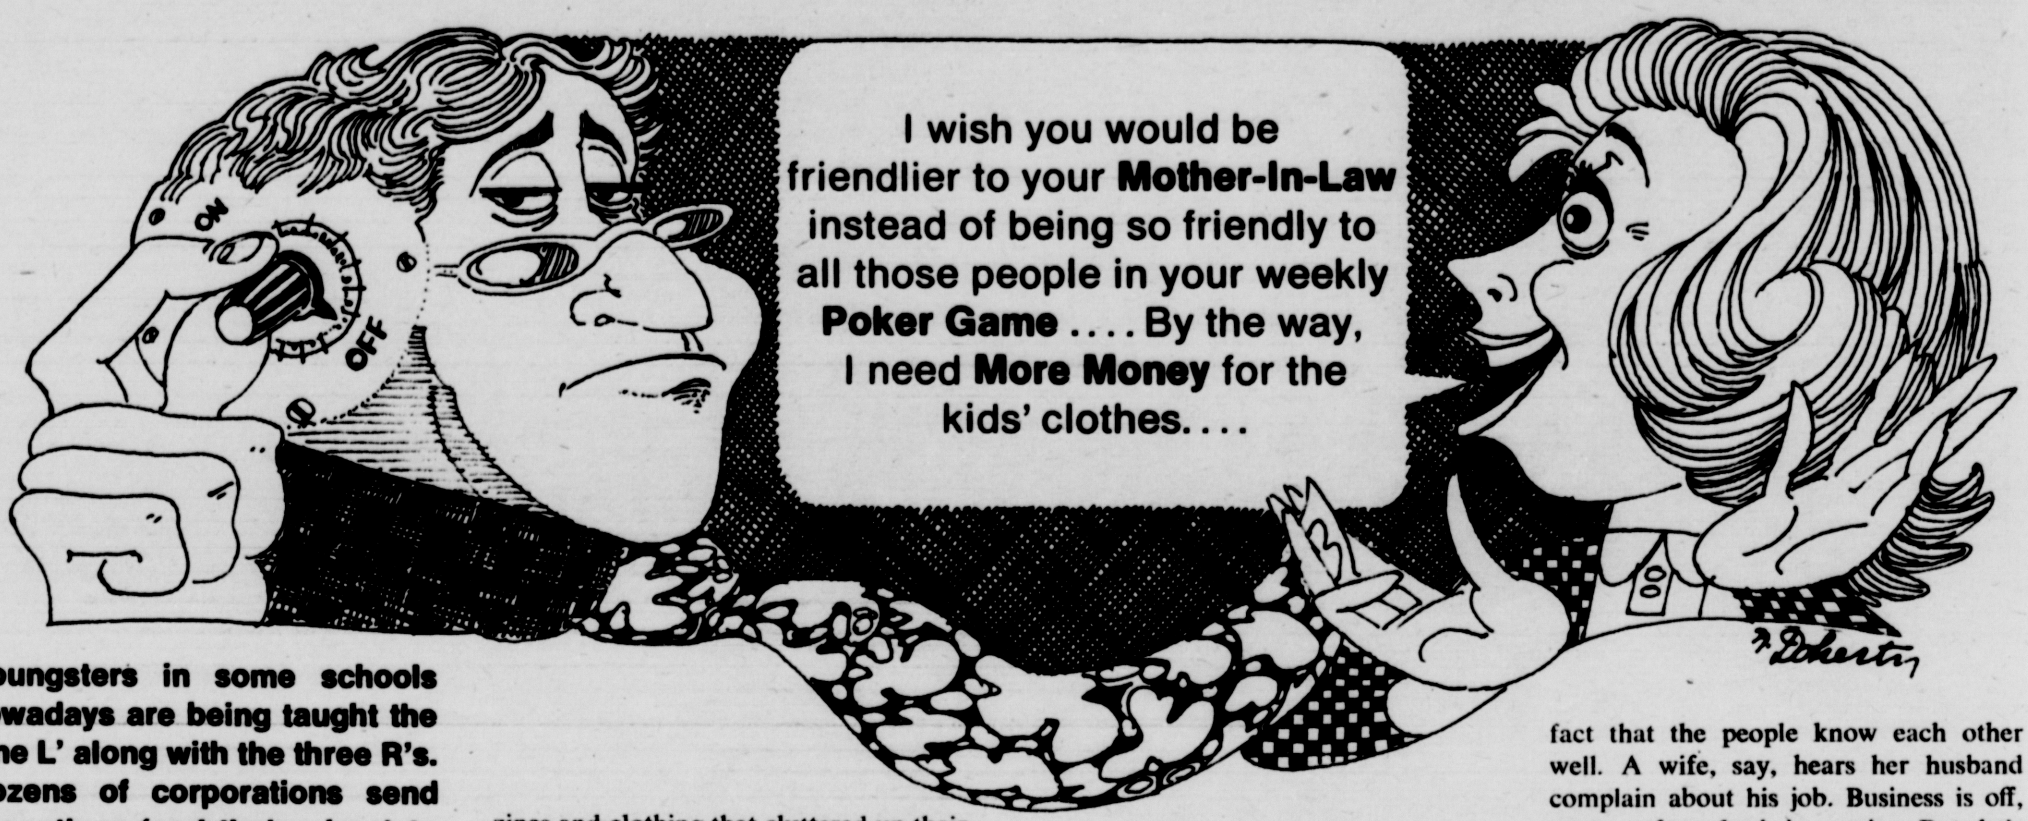
"You Never Listen to Me...."

Seven Ways to Correct This Most Common



"Youngsters in some schools nowadays are being taught the 'one L' along with the three R's. Dozens of corporations send executives (and their wives) to courses that will improve their listening skills. And family counselors are training thousands of husbands and wives, parents and children, to listen constructively to one another. Here are some of the experts' suggestions that can help you to be a better listener...."

By Norman Lobsenz

A few years ago a judge ruled that a husband does not have to listen to his wife's conversation. In these days of equal rights for both sexes, he'd probably grant a wife the same privilege. But most experts on family life would agree that the judge was missing the point, because listening properly to what other people are saying is one of the most important—and surprisingly difficult—things that any of us can do.

Recently, for example, a woman I know thought she'd please her husband by getting rid of the piles of old magazines and clothing that cluttered up their attic. "I told him about it during dinner," she said. "But though he'd been after me for weeks to get the junk cleared out, all he said now was, 'Uh-huh, uh-huh.' Then, about an hour later, he suddenly asked me when I was going to do something about the mess in the attic. I didn't know whether to laugh or to throw something. He hadn't heard a word I'd said!"

Today, most people are aware of the importance of full and frank communication between spouses, between parent and child, or indeed between any persons who want to share joys, discuss problems or make plans together. Yet all the talking in the world is useless unless those we are talking to know how to listen.

Listening seems like a simple thing to do well. But research shows that most of us are poor listeners. For instance, scientific studies indicate that the average person grasps only a third of the factual content of what he hears, and remembers accurately only about half of that third. More significantly, he's not any better at "listening with the third ear"—picking up the emotional overtones in what's being said. (How many times, for example, have you said, "But couldn't you tell that I was angry?" Or, "Didn't you realize I was joking?")

One reason we have trouble listening effectively is that we learn to tune out much of what is said to us in self-defense. Speech expert Dr. Herbert Hildebrandt estimated that we spend half our time being talked to by teachers, bosses, salesmen, neighbors, and all those voices on radio and television. Little wonder we tend to screen out what we don't want to hear. In addition, the sheer volume of noise around us, from traffic to jets, hampers careful listening. One couple told me the first time they ever really listened to each other was when a snowstorm blanketed their town and muffled every outside sound.

Another reason for poor listening is, paradoxically, that we can listen five times as fast as we can speak. Psychologist Dr. Stuart Margulies has pointed out that during the time it takes for Z to speak 100 words, Y actually has "brain room" for 500 words. Thus, while Z talks, Y listens with a fraction of his capacity—and uses the rest to reminisce, plan, wool-gather or think about what he's going to say when Z stops.

But among friends and family—where good listening is most important—the biggest obstacles are bad listening habits.

One, surprisingly enough, is due to the fact that the people know each other well. A wife, say, hears her husband complain about his job. Business is off, pressure for sales is increasing. But she's heard this many times before, and says to herself, in effect, "There he goes about his job, again." This time, however, her husband really does have a problem. His sales quota has been upped sharply, and if he doesn't deliver he may be fired. He is not merely griping; he is looking to his wife for encouragement or advice. But he is not likely to get it. Bored by what she takes to be "the same old complaints," she is only half-listening.

Another bad listening habit is selective listening: picking out the bits and pieces of conversation that interest you and turning a deaf ear to the rest. A husband often does this while reading the paper or watching television. Without actually paying attention to what his wife is saying, he will put in his "yes, dears" when he senses that she is waiting for his reaction; but he may perk up and listen more attentively when she mentions that the attractive wife of their new neighbor likes to sunbathe in her bikini in the backyard.

Increasingly, experts in family life are recognizing the importance of good listening. By encouraging communication, it prevents the buildup of grudges and misunderstanding. By cutting through feelings of loneliness and isolation, it helps to do away with the idea that "no one understands me." And because a good listener can respond intelligently to what has been said to him, discussions don't get short-circuited or distorted. The continuity of communication is preserved.

As a result, youngsters in some schools nowadays are being taught the "one L" along with the three R's. Dozens of corporations send executives (and their wives) to courses that will improve their listening skills. And family counselors are training thousands of husbands and wives, parents and children, to listen constructively to one another. Here are some of the experts' suggestions that can help you to be a better listener:

1. Try to keep your own feelings—anxiety, worry, enthusiasm, anger—from interfering. Listen objectively.

2. Beware of "tune-out" words ("mother-in-law," "poker game," "more money") that raise emotional hackles and make you turn off on what's being said.

3. Listen for what the speaker is trying to accomplish by his remarks. "I suppose I should stay home today and paint the bedroom," your husband muses on a bright summer Saturday, waiting for your response. Does he want you to talk him out of the chore? Or does he want your encouragement that will help him tackle it?

4. Be alert to facial expressions, gestures, body positions. Prof. Ray Birdwhistell, University of Pennsylvania expert on body language, claims these are often more revealing than actual words. When you spot a furrowed brow or clenched fist, even when the words are mild, you are listening with your eyes as well as ears.

5. Concentrate on voice tones. Like gestures, they can indicate the emotional meanings behind words. The same sentence can mean many different things depending on how words are emphasized or the tones in which they are said.

6. Good listening is enhanced by choosing the proper time for important conversations. A man watching a football playoff on TV or a woman in the midst of following a complicated recipe is not willing or able to listen attentively to anything else at the moment.

7. Finally, to help others listen well to you, make it clear that you expect to be listened to. Say: "There's something important I want to tell you," or "There are three things I have to say." Such an approach usually guarantees that your listener will be all ears.

Now if a Ford, Mercury or Lincoln owner needs help when he's on the road, he can call for it.

(Clip and save)

We listen. And because we do, we know that one thing that makes car owners unhappy is to have car trouble when they're far from home.

So we've done something about it.

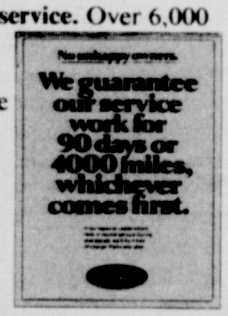
Announcing the Service Convenience Card. It's yours free for the clipping (or you can get a more substantial version at most Ford or Lincoln-Mercury dealers).

With its toll-free number you can call a central service information office anytime you have a problem with your car. It's open for business 24 hours a day, seven days a week. And you can call it from any point in the continental United States.

The operator will tell you the name and telephone number of the nearest Ford or Lincoln-Mercury dealer. If it's after business hours, the operator can usually give you the name of a local towing service, or suggest where to get minor repairs. If you want, the operator will even help you make a motel reservation.

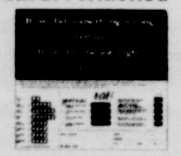
This is just one of the ways our dealers are working toward a goal: No unhappy owners. Here are some others:

You'll get guaranteed service. Over 6,000 Ford and Lincoln-Mercury dealers now guarantee their service work for 4,000 miles or 90 days, whichever comes first. If repair or replacement fails in normal service within that period, they'll fix it free of charge. Parts and labor.



You can charge the work. Most of these same dealers honor five major credit cards for service work. Master Charge, BankAmericard, American Express, Carte Blanche and Diners Club. In the car repair business these dealers are the only new car dealers with a plan to accept all five nationally.

You'll get a service report card. Attached to your service bill, you'll find a report card. It asks you to comment on the dealer's service. It's his way of finding out what he's doing right and what might need improving. So far 583,000 cards have been returned. 95% say that the owners are satisfied with the service work done on their cars.



The same toll-free number gets you the address of our nearest Customer Service District Office. You probably won't have to contact them. Most problems are solved right at these Ford and Lincoln-Mercury dealerships. But if you still have a problem, you or the dealer should contact the Ford Customer Service Division Office nearest you. Describe your problem. A Customer Service representative will contact you quickly. And he'll work with you and the dealer to try to straighten things out.

For any other information about our cars and trucks, or if you want to know where we stand on safety, emissions, quality control—anything—write: Ford Motor Company Listens, Box 1973, The American Road, Dearborn, Michigan 48121.

Let us know what's on your mind.

We listen better. And we'd like to prove it to you.

"Other dealers have their goals. Ours is: No unhappy owners."

How to Travel Light

This week, Women's Editor Rosalyn Abrevaya tells you how to stretch one suitcase into a whole vacation wardrobe. "In my business," she says, "I log thousands of miles in travel time every year. You can't do that without learning just a few tricks about what to take and what not to." She compiled the following hints, inspired by the techniques of time-management expert Alan Lakein.

TWO-WAY OUTFIT: Here's a zippy version of tennis whites by Leslie Fay in wrinkle-free Quintess polyester. Sight-seeing afterward? No need to return to your hotel. White tailored pants come with the outfit.

THE KIND OF CLOTHES TO BUY: Choose "convertibles" like this. Jack Winter does it all for vacation time-saving with a shirt jacket, worn either with a pleated skirt or cuffed dotted-check pants. (The skirt works equally well with the smashing plaid jacket on the cover.) Hat by Therese Ahrens. Luggage by Samsonite.

– and Still Dress Well

If you believe that "time is money" and should be managed efficiently, you're well on the way to reaping the reward of adding hours of "fun" and less "fuss" to your vacation with these tips:

1. Ruthlessly limit yourself and your family or companions to one suitcase each, carry-on size. If you're flying, you'll save hours while everyone else waits for luggage to unload. If you're driving and making overnight stops, you eliminate excessive repacking.

2. Plan your travel wardrobe (preferably separates) by dividing your choices into A, B and C categories. Eliminate the C group (least favorite), then re-sort the B's into either the A or C group. Here's a checklist to make this technique easier and to keep you within the one-suitcase limit.

1. Do you feel attractive in a particular outfit?
2. Does it fit well?
3. Does it color-coordinate; i.e., mix with at least two other pieces of clothing you plan to take?

Here are some other wardrobe hints: Cut down on shoes and accessories. Silver- or gold-kid pumps will go with any color for evening. Beige shoes with crepe soles (for walking comfort) are a good neutral for day. Accessories should do double-duty.

In lingerie, the drip-dry kind is your best choice. But look into disposables. Paper panties are comfortable, absorbent, can be rinsed out or discarded.

Don't forget rain gear—a plastic raincoat in a pouch, foldable galoshes and a telescopic umbrella. These will save you the time and expense of hunting for rainwear in case you're "rained in" on vacation.

Upon arrival at a hotel or motel, all items should be placed at their points of usage: toiletries in the bathroom, slippers and sleepwear at the bedside, your separates wardrobe (if you're following our advice) in the closet, with tops to one side, bottoms to the other. You save time by switching and mixing right at the closet area.

Even though the weather may be warm outside, remember that most hotels are air-conditioned. Save time. Take a wrap when dining or being entertained within the hotel. The same advice goes for touring from morning to sundown, when a chill breeze may set in.

If you really want to enjoy your vacation, resist the tendency to take outfits you think you should be getting use out of, when you will probably wear only two or three favorites. And, if you are visiting several locales on vacation, remember that you won't be seeing the same people, which will reduce your wardrobe needs.

DON'T WASTE MINUTES CHANGING: You can look glamorous all day, at poolside or for cocktails and dancing, in a quick-drying terry-velour halter dress, knit of Stryton nylon for In Sportswear.

Sunglasses by American Optical.

People Quiz

Is Lasting Love Really Just an Illusion?

By John E. Gibson

TRUE OR FALSE?

1. Starry-eyed love is a concept that exists largely in the minds of teenagers and dating couples, and it tends to disappear after marriage sooner or later.

2. Where love and romance are concerned, a happy man tends to be attracted to good-looking girls, while unhappy men gravitate toward plainer lasses.

3. The best way to remain young is to fall in love with someone who loves you.

4. It's easy to tell if a couple is in love—and how deeply they are in love—if you know what to look for.

5. You are more likely to fall in love with someone who arouses feelings of strong anger within you than with someone who arouses only mild emotions or no emotions at all.

6. Love is so illusive and mysterious that no one can come close to defining it.

ANSWERS

1. False. At Florida State University, a sociological study was made of 100 persons before marriage, 100 persons who had been married less than five years, and 100 persons whose marriages had lasted 20 years. Each was tested on an 84-item scale designed to evaluate his concept of love—ranging from extreme romanticism (there is only one love; true love is eternal) to extreme realism, which defined love in more calm and less ecstatic terms. Findings: The concept of love of persons married less than five years tended toward the so-called "realistic" rather than the romantic end of the scale. But the couples whose marriages were still flourishing after 20 years tended to share the same extremely romantic, starry-eyed concept of love that was found among the group of yet-to-be-married persons.

2. True. Psychological studies show that the man who is relatively happy with himself and the world around him tends to be attracted to the best looking girls—and the lass he marries is likely to be much better looking than the average. However, the man who is less happy with himself and his life-style is apt to become romantically involved with the "plain Jane" type of girl.

3. True. Consensus of studies shows that people who love and are loved stay young longer, are more resistant to disease and infection, and more successful in their work than persons who lack a satisfying love relationship. It has been truly observed that "Those who love deeply never grow old; they may die of old age, but they die young."

4. True—as shown by the findings of a psychological study conducted at Harvard University, where couples were administered a 13-item love-scale questionnaire, designed to evaluate their affection for each other. Each couple's behavior toward one another when they were together was then carefully noted by the investigators. The most significant finding: The more deeply couples were in love—the higher they scored on the love-scale test—the more time they spent gazing into each other's eyes.

5. True—according to the findings of a team of social psychologists, which show that any strong emotional state—anger, fear, bliss, jealousy or whatever—can produce feelings of passionate love, if an appropriate target for the individual's emotions is present.

6. False. Dr. Judson T. Landis, Professor of Family Sociology at the University of California, offers one of the best and most succinct definitions: "To put it most simply, love is the concern of two people for each other. You love a person if his well-being, his growth toward his greatest potential in all facets of his personality, matters to you as much as your own."

True or False: Starry-eyed love is a concept that exists largely in the minds of teenagers and dating couples, and it tends to disappear after marriage sooner or later. (See number 1)

Warning: The Surgeon General Has Determined That Cigarette Smoking Is Dangerous to Your Health.

Now, medical science has the power to say to you:

BEGIN YOUR "MIDDLE YEARS" AT 70, 80, EVEN 90!

Announcing — an incredibly simple, medically proven, overwhelmingly documented ANTI-AGING program that is designed to:

give you the lean, glowing look of a youngster past sixty . . .

retain the strength and grace and power of a trained athlete in your body beyond your seventies . . .

and keep you in vibrant good health till ninety or more . . . even if you feel "rotten" today . . . even if your mother or father died far too young of diseases that are STILL carried in your bloodstream!

Yes, This Medical "Youth-Building Program" is so Strong That It Can Even Overcome Poor Heredity!

It is so strong, in fact, that it may actually make you look twenty or more years younger than your parents did at the same age . . . at the same exact time that it enables you to live thirty or forty years longer than they did!

We realize, of course, that these facts may seem virtually impossible to you at this moment . . . until you are shown the new medical techniques by which these goals are attained! They are:

1. The most powerful "age-reversing mechanism" known to man . . . which takes exactly six minutes per day . . . may be done by any man or woman, no matter how poor their health today . . . and which is bluntly recognized by one of the leading physicians in this book to give far better "youthifying" results — far faster — than even "cell therapy" treatments costing hundreds of dollars apiece!

2. A direct attack on the stored-up emotional poisons in your body that eat away strength and youth like internal acid, and replace them with never-flagging fatigue! This incredibly simple technique drains out those poisons, and that deadly fatigue, in approximately ten of the most revivifying minutes you have ever spent!

And, finally —

3. A new way to lose weight — not a diet — designed to change your present suicidal eating habits in exactly 48 hours! And, to break at last the vicious fat-multiplying cycle inside your body, that causes you to put on more weight, from less food, than your thin friends.

Let Us Repeat Again: These Medical Techniques Are So Powerful That They Actually REVERSE THE AGING PROCESS — WITHOUT DRUGS!

They cause you, quite simply, to grow stronger and not weaker, as you grow older! And here is the medical documentation to prove it:

In tests conducted at a leading University and Medical School in Southern California, it was discovered that life-prolongation, accomplished this way, not only added decades to potential human life spans, but — even more important — also produced vastly increased vitality and vigor, as well as startlingly heightened resistance to dread "senile decline!" (Reported on page 129 of this thrilling new book.)

As a result of scientific observations and experiments conducted in several different locations in the United States (as well as in Europe and Soviet Russia), it was definitely established that these techniques will enable almost any individual to live beyond 90 . . . and even beyond 100 healthy, productive, thoroughly enjoyable years — even if he or she had tragically short-lived parents or grandparents! In other words, disastrous heredity can now be overcome! (See page 36.)

At a leading Gerontology Research Center on the Pacific Coast, its' president bluntly stated that a single one of the techniques given to you here had (in essence): ". . . reversed the aging process and over a period of time restored the characteristics of youth to the bodies of middle-aged men!" (See Page 129.)

And one of his colleagues, discussing the same simple procedure, went so far as to state that it: ". . . relieves joint stiffness, lowers the blood pressure, and reduces the amount of fat in the body tissues. It acts like a miracle drug, and it's free for the doing!" (Italics ours — see page 130.)

But All This Research Documentation Is Only The PROLOGUE To The Real Meat Of This Revolutionary New Book! FOR NOW THE YOUTH-RESTORING PRINCIPLES LEARNED ALL OVER THE WORLD ARE PUT TO WORK — INSTANTLY — FOR YOU!

How to lose weight without counting calories — by harnessing the same exact forces which made you overweight in the first place! (It is not unusual, with these methods, to lose 15 and more pounds the first week — up to 10 pounds the second week — and a good hundred pounds or more, in as little as 15 weeks. And the weight stays off — for decades!)

How to add 10 . . . 20 . . . perhaps even 30 glowing years to your life, simply by avoiding the everyday "Life-Traps" that make you grow old too fast!

How a careful examination of your eye can tell you, with unerring accuracy, if you've eaten the wrong foods that night for dinner . . . and therefore have to give them up for a few days till your body's digestive powers restore themselves to the correct balance!

Little-known-stress-on-the-heart Number 1 . . . that kills unwary thousands every year . . . and can be prevented simply by reading a single sentence on page 70!

When you must eat . . . and eat . . . and eat if you really want to lose weight!

"Hungry enzymes" that now infest your body! They are the real reason all past attempts to peel off ugly fat have been such torture for you! And you can "command" your body to destroy them — for good — as simply as this! (See page 82.)

Why most people's muscles simply "melt away" as they grow older! (No wonder "old age" to them means ever-growing weakness!) And how you can stop that muscle-melting process overnight . . . and replace it with vibrant new strength!

And More! And More! And More! Like This —

What really causes vigor to drain out of the "aging" body! A simple fluid that if the body gives up too much of, it then dies of old age! And how you can "pump that vital cell-nourishing fluid" right back into your body . . . actually increase your body capacity to utilize by as much as 133% . . . in just a few thrilling minutes every day!

How to exercise your heart! Anyone — no matter what age— can do it! And prevent the greatest tragedy of all — premature heart attack!

Read the line in the middle of page 144 as though your life depended upon it! Because, if you've ever worried about killing your own heart through the worst possible error you can make — this one line will show you how to avoid it . . . forever!

World's easiest exercise program — for men and women who are pitifully out of shape!

How to avoid the man-made diseases! And save your body, and your nerves, at exactly the same time!

What your sleep, or lack of it, is really telling you! And how to ease yourself into a good night's rest again!

What your fingers tell you that can save your life! Listen to them . . . obey their command . . . and you may be able to out-run your own youngster!

World's most effective weapon against demolished nerves! Gets you back to loving life, instead of hating it, in just about ten blessed minutes!

No more nervous breakdowns! And no more un-necessary heart attacks (or strokes!) The technique shown to you on page 197 may banish them from your life — for good!

How to add ten years to your life, by avoiding one little fatal mistake — at night! Before you go to sleep!

How to laugh at old age — at least till you're ninety! A simple program so effective that it may actually cause strangers to think that you are your best friends' grown children!

And Yours To Prove — In Its Entirety — For 30 Days, Entirely At Our Risk!

The choice is yours. This is a book for people who mean business. It costs you nothing! We take all the risk! Fair enough? Why not send in the coupon — TODAY!

SPECIAL ADDED BONUS SECTION

How to survive a heart attack! Why so many heart attacks are the "silent" type, that kill without the victim even being aware he has been seriously ill before! The one warning signal you simply CAN'T ignore! Why HALF of all heart attack victims ACTUALLY KILL THEMSELVES because they just don't know what to do!

Smart Cooking

This week, Food Editor Marilyn Hansen prepares a picnic. She says: "It's the season when we all want to shed the cocoon of winter and spread our wings a little. Even if we can't travel to exotic places, we can enjoy the wonderful outdoors with some new flavor combinations in our picnic baskets."

New Ideas

(A Salad, a Burger, a Dessert)

For the Picnic Basket

CURRIED FRIED-RICE SALAD

- 1 pkg. (6¼ ozs.) fried-rice mix
- ¼ cup sliced scallions
- 1 can (4 ozs.) mandarin oranges, drained
- ½ cup sliced celery
- ¼ cup bottled oil and vinegar dressing
- 1 teaspoon curry powder
- Crisp salad greens bite-sized

1. Cook rice mix as directed on package. Turn into serving bowl; cover and refrigerate.

2. To serve: Fluff rice with fork. Add scallions, mandarin oranges, celery, dressing and curry; mix well.

3. To transfer to picnic, spoon salad into wide-mouthed vacuum bottle, cover. Place greens in plastic bag, seal with twister. Surround edge of salad bowl with greens. Spoon in salad. Makes 4 servings

Oriental Bacony Burgers, Curried Fried-Rice Salad, Nutty Molasses Bars, with Cherry-Orange Punch, made by combining a can of Hawaiian Punch and a can of orange-grapefruit juice.

NUTTY MOLASSES BARS

Crust:
- 1½ cups unsifted all-purpose flour
- ½ teaspoon baking powder
- ½ cup firmly packed light-brown sugar
- 2 teaspoons grated orange rind
- ½ cup butter or margarine

Filling:
- 3 eggs
- ¼ cup unsifted all-purpose flour
- ½ cup firmly packed light-brown sugar
- ½ cup light molasses
- 1½ cups sliced almonds or chopped pecans
- 1 teaspoon pure vanilla extract

1. Preheat oven to 350° F. Grease a 13x9x2-inch baking pan.

2. Make crust: In large bowl, mix flour, baking powder, sugar and rind. Cut in butter with pastry blender or fork until mixture is crumbly.

3. Spread crumbs evenly in prepared pan, pressing firmly to make an even layer. Bake for 10 minutes.

4. Meanwhile make filling: In medium bowl, beat eggs until foamy. Add flour, sugar and molasses. Beat only until mixture is smooth and well blended. Stir in nuts and vanilla.

5. Pour over crust. Bake 20 minutes, or until top is firm to the touch.

6. Cool completely on wire rack. Using a sharp knife, cut into 1½ inch squares. Store in an airtight container in a cool, dry place.

Makes 48, 1½ inch squares

ORIENTAL BACONY BURGERS

- ¼ lb. sliced bacon
- 1 lb. ground beef chuck
- 1 pkg. (9 ozs.) hibachi burger mix
- 1 tablespoon cornstarch
- 1 can (8 ozs.) pineapple chunks, undrained
- 1 envelope instant chicken broth

1. In skillet, fry bacon until crisp; drain on paper towels. Crumble into a medium-sized bowl.

2. Add beef and contents of seasoning packet from hibachi burger mix; toss with fork until well blended.

3. Lightly shape mixture into four burgers; wrap each and refrigerate.

4. In a 1-qt. saucepan, mix cornstarch and pineapple. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens. Drain hibachi burger vegetables well; stir into pineapple along with broth. Heat to boiling.

5. Spoon sauce into wide-mouthed vacuum bottle. Pack burgers and sauce into picnic chest.

6. At picnic site, grill burgers over gray coals, turning once, until desired degree of doneness. Transfer burgers to plates. Spoon hot sauce over burgers. Makes 4 servings

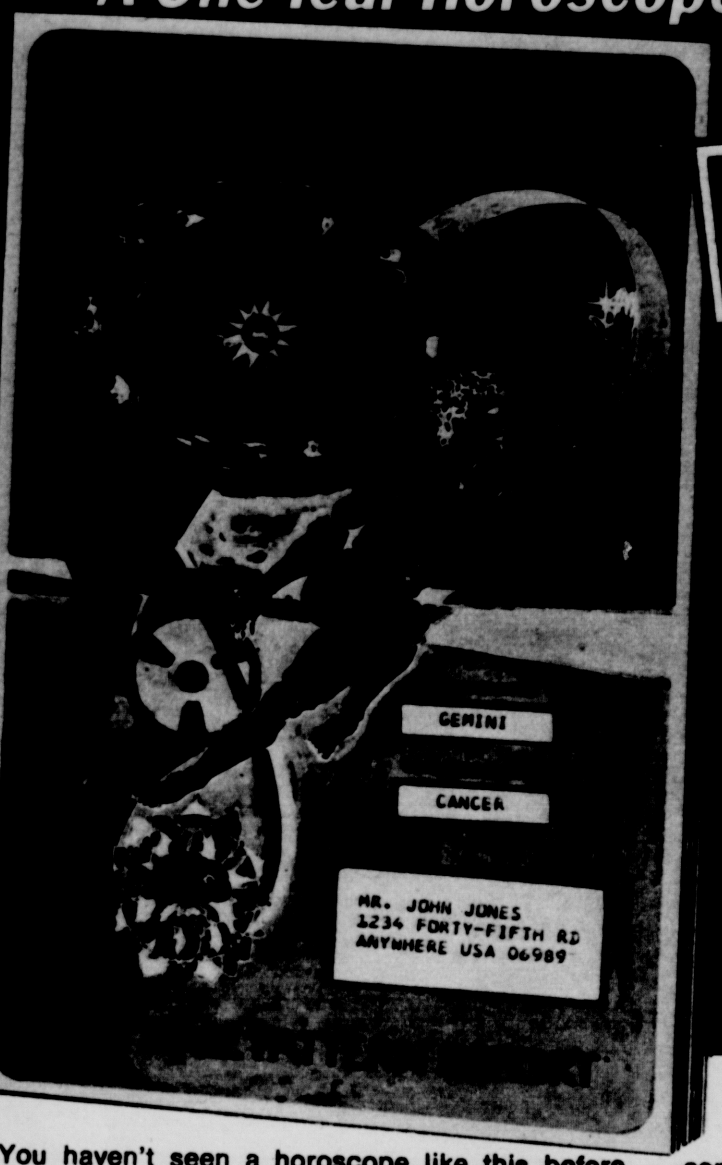
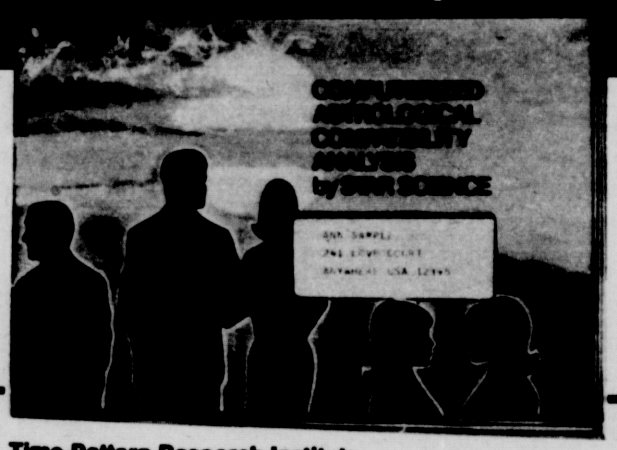
A One Year Horoscope-With a 365 Day Money Back Guarantee



Worlds first and largest horoscope service – now introduces the NEW EXPANDED UPDATED Time Pattern Report

YOUR job, career, happiness and success
YOUR report individually prepared by world famous astrologer Katina Theodossiou
YOUR strength, weaknesses, talents and potential
YOUR character and personality analysis –
YOUR report based on 25 million bits of information
YOUR projections for the next 12 months – trends for the year – highlights for month – important days pinpointed
ALL based on your own Month, Date, Year, Time and Place of Birth
~~15,000~~ 20,000 Words – All about you

Plus a FREE $10 Compatibility Report when you order your personalized horoscope.



You haven't seen a horoscope like this before, unless you have actually seen one of our in-depth personalized horoscopes. We invented computerized astrology 5 years ago when we learned that millions of people were interested in personal authentic astrology, not the short forecasts found in newspapers.

Many people could not afford the time and money required to have a personalized horoscope cast by a qualified astrologer. Such reports could cost up to $300.

Newspaper and magazine astrology is based on the twelve Sun Signs, so everyone in the world born during the same period gets the same horoscope – 12 possibilities in all. Authentic astrology is based on the month, day, year, time and place of birth, with the positions of all the planets taken into account – so the possibilities of variation are infinite. For instance, two people born on the same day in the same city, but at different times, get different horoscopes. Two people born on the same day at the same time, but in different places, get different horoscopes.

The Time Pattern horoscope is an individual, 20,000 word report all about you and you only. It describes your character as well as your potential in life, love and business. It also projects the trend of events you can expect during the next 12 months, giving highlights for each month and pinpointing individual days that are astrologically significant.

Time Pattern Research Institute was selected by the country's leading department stores as the most reliable astrological service available.

1. You receive your report within 10 days from receipt of your order.

2. You get the most comprehensive astrological report ever made available—now 20,000 words—completely updated with more detail than ever before.

3. If you are not pleased with the report for any reason whatsoever, you may return it any time within a whole year from the receipt of your report for a full refund.

4. We predict that you will be astounded by the accuracy of your report.

You are one in a million, not one in twelve. Get the horoscope that fits you and no one else. Get a Time Pattern Report® Get the Horoscope You Can Believe In.

YOUR FREE COMPATIBILITY REPORT

Is there a special gal or guy in your life? Would you like to know if you're really right for each other?

Until now, frankly, astrology's answers for couples were uncertain, at best. Most people were forced to depend on generalities: "Libras are attracted to Aquarians, but should avoid Cancerians" – that sort of thing. As you've doubtless observed, this method is highly uncertain – because your sun sign is only one of the many astrological factors in your personality. To get an accurate picture, you must know the influence of all your 10 planets. To evaluate any relationship, you also need the same information about the other person.

Now the computer, for the first time, can take all these factors into account!

TPRI's fascinating Compatability Report compares astrological charts in intimate, probing, deeply personal detail. Do you share common interests? Pleasures? How can you stimulate even warmer love? What does the future hold in store for the two of you? Will you be happy? These are just a few of the things you can learn in your COMPATABILITY REPORT. Send for yours without delay.

Jobmanship

Why Even Good Ideas Are Sometimes Rejected

You've thought of a way to improve efficiency or save money at your job. Now what? Probably the major mistake people make is to try to sell their new idea to the boss before they find out if the boss realizes the problem exists. Just because you're so aware of the difficulty doesn't mean your supervisor is. What possible interest can he have in making the changes you want, if he doubts there's a trouble situation? Once the boss agrees there's a problem, then you can present your ideas. Before approaching your supervisor, you should spend time preparing the facts. If you're suggesting a new piece of equipment, then you should have collected brochures and prices, talked to a few knowledgeable people, investigated how this equipment has functioned with similar businesses, and marshaled evidence that the purchase would benefit your concern. If it's a change in business routine, then you should have thought through why the change is needed, how it could be implemented, and how it would affect your co-workers. (No boss can accept your ideas for change if he feels the new system will hamper others.) If, after your best preparation, your idea is rejected, try to analyze why. Sometimes it's a necessary preparatory step you overlooked. Sometimes the idea wasn't really that good. And sometimes you will have stumbled onto a better understanding of your local office politics.

ARMOUR'S ARMOURY

NAME CALLING

I've heard about a stalemate.
It is a word, I guess,
That most, no doubt, have spoken
Who play the game of chess.

But I have come to wonder,
A thought I rather hate,
If stalemate isn't something
Referring to a mate.

Not mine, not mine, I hasten
To say—not such as she.
My mate is fresh as ever,
As fresh as she can be.

And if my mate I sometimes
Call fresh, she shouldn't wail.
She'd have more cause for worry
If I should say, "You're stale."

My young son walked in as I was bleaching my hair for the first time and asked what I was doing. I simply said, "I'm shampooing my hair." The next morning he came into the kitchen and with a puzzled look on his face and asked, "What kind of shampoo did you use, Mom?" When I asked him why he wanted to know, he said, "Because you never washed your hair so clean before."

JULIET LOWELL'S CELEBRITY LETTERS

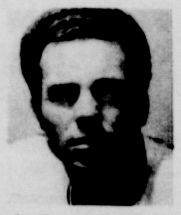
To Mr. Roger Starback



Dear Mr. Starback:

It was clearly ordained that you would become a Football Hero. With that name of yours, how could you help it—STAR—that's what you are and a quarterback to boot.

Congratulations that you have carried out your destiny.

An Admirer

P.S. My boyfriend just read this letter. He says that your name is not Starback, it's Staubach. He says I shouldn't mail this letter, you'll just think I'm dumb.

A man with a broken leg encased in a heavy cast wanted to visit relatives in another state. The young airline ticket agent sympathized with him, but explained he would probably require two seats. "However," suggested the helpful young lady hopefully, "if you go in the middle of the week, your leg can travel family plan." —Dan Bennett

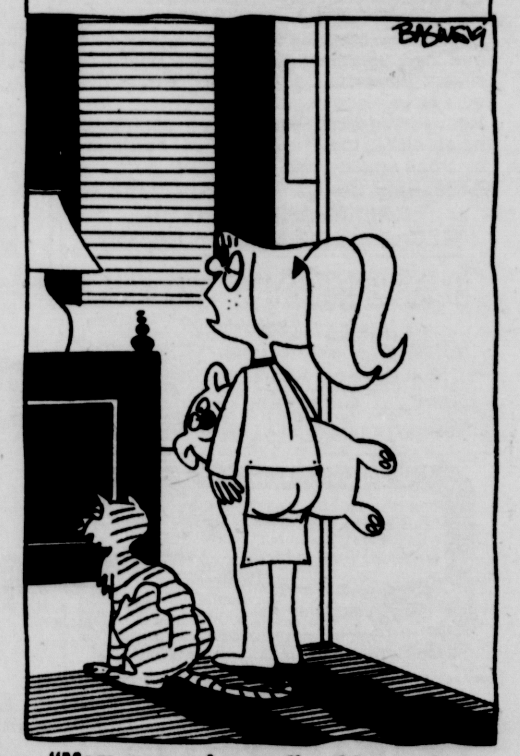
LITTLE EMILY



"Mom, remember earlier this evening when a foolish little girl told you she would never ask you for anything again as long as she lived . . . ?"

What in the World!

PETULA CLARK
How not to raise a family!

Problems most people don't have to worry about: "No," says Petula Clark, "I don't enjoy being an entertainer now that I'm the mother of three! But I try to arrange my dates so that I can be with the children as much as possible. I am constantly torn by guilt about not spending enough time on my career. This year, our family will have no more than four months at home in Switzerland. I'll be able to have the children with me when I appear at Harrah's in Lake Tahoe, because I'll have a house of my own on the lake. When I do my BBC show in London, I'll fly home every weekend to Geneva. Frankly, it's no way to raise a family."

Harry Truman, in answer to whether he thought we'd ever have a woman President: "Well, it's not beyond the bounds of possibility.... There isn't any doubt but what a woman would make a good President. They make good senators, good members of the House of Representatives and have held other important [Government] offices...." From "The Wit and Wisdom of Harry S. Truman" (Stein and Day, $4.95).

HOW TO GET AROUND WITHOUT LEAVING HOME

If you don't like the view from your picture window, just press a button, wait a minute, and the view will change – that's if you happen to be architect Richard Foster, whose revolving house in Wilton, Conn., can face the pond in the morning, the pine woods in the afternoon, and the rolling hills in the evening. At top speed the house makes a full turn in 48 minutes, and at the slowest it takes four hours. One sticky problem: How do you keep all the utility connections from twisting themselves into a useless tangle? Well, explains Mr. Foster slyly, that's why it pays to be an architect! He, Mrs. Foster, and their three sons have had a steady stream of visitors through the house ever since they moved in. People just ring the bell and ask to come in. Estimated cost: $250,000.

Cuckoo Clock

An Authentic Import from the Black Forest

This beautiful new Cuckoo Clock is so authentically reproduced that you would be hard put to tell the difference between this and the 1640 museum original.

As in all charming cuckoo clocks, our colorful little cuckoo bird peeks out every quarter hour, to sweetly call the time. A gently swinging pendulum, a rainbow of soft colors on walnut brown wood and a precision timepiece made with the skill of generations of fine clock makers, completes this wonderful vision. It is sure to become a treasured collector's item and only when you see it in your home will you fully appreciate its charm.

WHY PLANT A GROUND COVER?

In many areas and situations, ground covers are more appropriate and more satisfactory than turf. They are able to grow and thrive in sun OR shade, and in poor soil.

On steep slopes where mowing is difficult, ground cover is much more effective and much less laborious to maintain than grass. Ground covers hold the soil as well as turf and the textures are far more interesting.

Small areas of grass are a continual chore to keep mown and trimmed but ground covers require almost no care. They are excellent protection and soil conditioners. They hold the fallen leaves from blowing away, thus helping to add annually to the humus content.

Check these Special Features of the Perfect Ground Cover!

CREEPING RED SEDUM

- Grows in Any Soil
- Thrives in Sun or Partial Shade
- No Special Care Needed
- Extremely Hardy
- Brilliant Color
- Rich, long-lasting Foliage
- Neat, uniform Growth
- Quick, but Disciplined Spreading
- Guaranteed
- Inexpensive

You will receive hardy northern nursery grown plants carefully packaged to arrive in prime condition. An outstanding buy at less than 20¢ per plant in lots of two dozen!

WHY CREEPING RED SEDUM?

One of Sedum's most valuable assets is its full time beauty. Lush foliage begins in early spring, and star-shaped wine red flowers delight the viewer from late June through September. The attractive semi-evergreen foliage lasts well into winter, maintaining its rich green and bronze color nearly all year round.

Besides being one of the loveliest of the ground covers, Sedum also rates high on the other requirements. It is hardy, grows well in sun or partial shade, in sandy soil, clay soil, or good soil.

Its thick foliage and root system hold the soil on slopes or banks. The neat 3-4" cover forms a dense perennial mat to bring green and wine red beauty to slopes, borders, rocky areas, anywhere beauty and durability are needed.

Each plant will easily and quickly spread to fill one sq. ft. Sedum spreads evenly, maintains its uniform smooth beauty at all stages of growth. Unlike some other ground covers, Sedum, also called "Dragon's Blood," stays where you put it — does not straggle out into places where it doesn't belong. Sedum is almost indestructible, enduring and persisting against heavy climatic and nutritional odds.

FULLY GUARANTEED

All items guaranteed to be of high quality, exactly as advertised and to arrive in good healthy condition or purchase price will be refunded. RETURN SHIPPING LABEL ONLY —you may keep the plants. (One year limit).

SEND this Special Offer Coupon TODAY to receive your Red Sedum and Peonies!

Now is a Good Time to Order RED SEDUM!

Your young Sedum plants will establish themselves and begin to spread a few days after planting. In a month or so they will already be 3-4 inches in diameter. They may lose their foliage as the first winter progresses but will leaf out again in early spring. During a long growing season they may reach 12" in diameter, always maintaining their neat regulated shape.

SPECIAL BONUS

2 PEONIES 25¢

Everyone's favorite. With Sedum orders of $2.50 or more, you can order 2 Red Peony bushes (a reg. $1.75 value) for only 25¢. Take advantage of these extra savings on handsome peonies—special with this value-packed Sedum offer.

THIS WEEK'S TOP PRIZE QUESTION:

LAURA MATHEWS OF TROY, AL, ASKS:

"DOES AN OSTRICH HIDE ITS HEAD IN THE SAND?"

NO. AN OSTRICH DOESN'T REALLY HIDE ITS HEAD IN THE SAND. ACCORDING TO A POPULAR IDEA, A FRIGHTENED OSTRICH THINKS THAT IT IS SAFELY HIDDEN WHEN IT HIDES ITS HEAD IN THE SAND. WHAT REALLY HAPPENS IS THAT, WHEN RESTING OR HIDING, THE OSTRICH MAY SIT AND STRETCH ITS LONG NECK ALONG THE GROUND WHILE KEEPING WATCH WITH ITS SHARP EYES. AT A DISTANCE ONLY ITS BIG BODY CAN BE SEEN, AND IT MAY LOOK LIKE THE OSTRICH IS INDEED HIDING ITS HEAD IN THE SAND. BUT IF THE DANGER COMES TOO CLOSE, THE OSTRICH DOES WHAT OTHER ANIMALS DO - IT RUNS AWAY AT TOP SPEED.

POLLY'S POINTERS

DEAR POLLY—I apply kitchen wax to new plastic table mats to keep them looking like new. Spills then wipe off easily without penetrating the plastic to leave stains sometimes hard to remove.—SONJA

DEAR POLLY—I keep a pair of pajamas and make-up in a shoe bag in the car so I am prepared for any unexpected overnight stay. The bag takes little room, but holds the few necessities needed for one night.—MRS. R. W.

Polly pays $1.00 for every idea used. Send them to her, c/o this newspaper.

DEAR POLLY—When having trouble removing candle wax from dishes, candle holders and such, put them in the freezer. After the wax is completely frozen it will slide off.—L. F. P.

DEAR POLLY—To keep baby's blankets from slipping off I made a bunting bottom out of baby-print flannel and then lined the inside so it would slip easily over the blankets. Use two pieces 20x22 inches, round the bottom edges, sew together and make a casing at the top for inserting a piece of elastic about 19 inches long. This slips under baby's arms, keeps him cozy and warm and does not tend to be as slippery as synthetic blankets.—MRS. M. K.

DEAR POLLY—Whenever I want to drain a can of fruit that is to be used in a cake, muffins or whatver, I open the can with a beer-type can opener and drain the liquid off into a glass or jar. This saves washing an additional strainer.—ADELINE

5-27

DEAR POLLY—When you want to leave a note on the door inside a storm door or on an apartment door, write it on an envelope and stick the note to the door with the glue on the flap. I save the Pointers to send to my sister, as they do not have your column in her paper.—VIVIAN

© 1973 by NEA, Inc.,

DEAR POLLY—After washing and drying but before using potholders, spray them with spray starch and let dry again. They stay clean longer and will wash clean more easily.—DEBBIE C.

DEAR POLLY—Each time sheets and other linens are washed, vary the way they are folded as folding the same way each time creates creases that will weaken the threads along that line.—FAY

DEAR POLLY—Try using nylon thread when you are gathering fabric. Its strength allows the gathers to pull up evenly. It also holds them securely where wanted until they are stitched in place.—GINA
